HUGHES' FOES WILL ROLL UP SIZABLE VOTE

Senate Confirmation as Chief Justice Is Held Certain, However.

SANCTION MAY COME IN TODAY'S SESSION

Nomination Approved by Judiciary Committee on 10 to 2 Ballot.

VIGOROUS PROTESTS HINT POLITICAL PLOT

Nation's Control by Small Group Alleged as Aim of Maneuvers.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

It developed yesterday that although Charles Evans Hughes will be confirmed, probably today, as Chief Justice, a sizable vote will be recorded against him.

The Senate judiciary committee approved his nomination at a meeting in the morning, by a vote of 10 to 2, Senators Norris and Blaine dissenting, and the case would have been disposed of later in the afternoon had not Senator Blease, of South Carolina, insisted that it go over until he could "see the doctor's certificate."

Presumably he referred to a certificate as to former Chief Justice Taft's condition. He has expressed the belief that Mr. Taft's retirement was the result of a plot to place Mr. Hughes on the court.

No Real Fight Foreseen.

No real fight is expected to be made on Mr. Hughes' nomination, however. Senator Norris made a carefully prepared speech in submitting his committee's report and there may be other speeches in like vein, but neither in Progressive nor Democratic quarters was there a disposition to try seriously to prevent confirmation.

Coincident with the dissent of Senators Norris and Blaine it developed that Henry L. Doherty, the public utilities man, had filed a vigorous protest against Mr. Hughes' confirmation, charging that it was part and parcel of President Hoover's plan to build up a super-political organization.

He referred to the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes, jr., as Solicitor General, his resignation when his father was appointed Chief Justice, and of the current reports that Mr. Taft's son, Charles P. Taft, may not be solicitor general and young Hughes the Republican gubernatorial candidate in New York.

Series of Maneuvers Claimed.

"I have heard that this is only the first disclosure in a series of political maneuvers which is probably aimed to give political control of the entire country to a small group of men," he declared.

Mr. Doherty, whose Cities Service stock is held by thousands of small investors throughout the country, declared that the Hoover organization is getting to be so big that legislative leaders are afraid to oppose him.

He also attacked Mr. Hughes' activity as counsel for the American Petroleum Institute in fighting, Mr. Doherty said, the Federal Oil Board's efforts to eliminate waste in the oil industry. Mr. Doherty also placed credence in Senator Blease's charge that Mr. Taft was hoodwinked into retiring.

Norris Prepares Speech.

Senator Norris does not customarily prepare his Senate speeches. He did this one and adhered to it closely. He said he did not doubt Mr. Hughes' ability and "in many respects for at least some of his official acts I have much admiration."

But he would not vote to confirm him, he said, first because he resigned from the Supreme Court to run for the Presidency and again because of his economic environment.

"He left the high judicial tribunal to become a candidate for President of the United States," Senator Norris said. "He left the high judicial tribunal to engage in the arena of partisan political debate, and after his ambitions in the political field have failed of realization he is not only reappointed to the Supreme Court but he is promoted to the position of Chief Justice."

Objects to Reappointment.

Senator Norris said he does not criticize Mr. Hughes' leaving the court to seek to gratify his political ambitions, but he does object to "political power" putting him back on the court.

Carried to a logical end, this practice, he said, "will encourage and stimulate political activities on the part of justices of the Supreme Court."

Concerning his economic environment, Senator Norris said:

"Perhaps it is not amiss to say that no man in public life so exemplifies the influence of powerful combinations in the political and financial world as does Mr. Hughes.

"He has appeared before the court

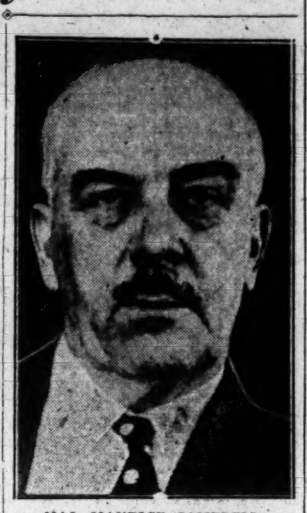
Huge New York Hotel Faces Dry Padlock

Maj. Maurice Campbell and Agents Arrest 13 in Manger Raid.



MAJ. MAURICE CAMPBELL.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—As the result of a raid tonight by more than a score of Federal prohibition agents upon the Hotel Manger, Maj. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator for the New York district, announced he would seek to have the entire hotel padlocked.

Thirteen persons were arrested in the raid on the hotel, which is situated at Fiftieth street and Seventh avenue and is one of New York's largest. Maj. Campbell said warrants for the arrest of nine other persons would be obtained.

He said a quantity of liquor was seized. The prisoners, he said, were six bell boys, five waiters, and two alleged bootleggers, said to have operated in the hotel. The arrest of nine other bell boys on warrants is expected tomorrow.

"I have had my agents in this hotel for seevral weeks," Maj. Campbell said, "and their investigation discloses frightful conditions even in more ways than the sale of liquor.

"My agents have been able to buy liquor from hotel employes from a score of different rooms on different floors and from a score of diffirent bell boys.

"There were three bootleggers operating in the hotel, and they were always summoned by hotel employes. I also have evidence that the hotel management was well aware of this condition."

Assistant United States Attorney Charles Finkelstein, who had charge of the preparation of the evidence on which the warrants were issued, said that for two weeks fifteen prohibition

LAST-MINUTE SPURT HOPE IN CHEST DRIVE

CAMPAIGN ENDS TONIGHT

With latest official figures showing the Community Chest still almost $300,000 short of its 1930 quota of $1,786,737.07 as the drive nears its end tonight, Elwood Street, director of the campaign, declared in a radio address broadcast through Station WRC last night that "extraordinary things must be done" if the goal is to be attained.

The campaign will close officially at a charity mass meeting tonight at Constitution Hall, when the final reports of the special gift, group solicitation and metropolitan units will be submitted and the pledges of the Government departments will be announced.

Indications yesterday were that the total of collections would not complete the quota sought, although reports showed that the entire Chest army of more than 4,500 solicitors was in the field. Workers of the metropolitan unit were calling back on givers for additional subscriptions, and were carefully combing their respective territories for persons who had not yet contributed.

Group solicitation workers were making the rounds of all establishments employing 25 or more persons furnishing additional pledge cards, and otherwise doing everything possible to bring the amount raised by their division up to its quota.

Special gifts committee workers were dividing their time, working partly on special gifts prospects, and aiding various teams of the metropolitan unit in clean-up work.

While banking and brokerage houses of the city threw open their doors for subscriptions, appointing special "Community Chest tellers" to accept pledges, members of the Junior League began active participation in chest solicitation by establishing stands at various downtown stores and banks.

In charge of these stands and working in relays were Mrs. Lewis Arthur, Mrs. Claude Langlais, Mrs. Richard Dunn, Miss Emily Mackall, Miss Margaret Boss, Miss Elizabeth Dunlop, Mrs. Frank Harmon, Miss Anna

BILL TO CURB STOCK SWINDLERS SOUGHT

Post's Bucketshop Expose Results in Senate Fraud Measure.

$10,000 FINE IS PENALTY

The long-awaited bill to rid Washington of bucketshop operators and other types of financial frauds was introduced yesterday by Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, along with two other bills.

The others are to regulate the real estate business in Washington and to define a method to be followed in foreclosing mortgages here.

The acute need of a blue sky law in Washington was shown last fall when The Post, in a crusade against bucketshop operators, revealed that investors here and in Maryland and Virginia had been losing millions of dollars a year through dishonest stock-selling schemes.

Senator Blaine promised at that time that legislation would be forthcoming, and later he employed Oscar H. Brinkman, one-time clerk of the Senate District committee, to draft the bill which was introduced yesterday.

The bill, which is 41 pages long, provides that the blue-sky law shall be administered by the Public Utilities Commission, which is given authority to hire as many clerks, investigators and attorneys as are necessary.

Dealers and salesmen would have to register with the commission and post a $5,000 bond before they could deal in or sell securities, or stocks or bonds.

The issues of securities also would have to be registered, together with full information about them.

Permission to sell securities here would be denied a dealer or a salesman if, after an investigation, it should be shown that he had violated the law, made a false statement in his application, committed a fraudulent act in connection with any sale of securities, or had demonstrated his unworthiness in the transaction of business.

The commission could ask the local Supreme Court to issue an injunction to stop the sale of any securities believed by the commission to be fraudulent.

The penalty for violation of the law

SEXTET JUMPS ON POLICEMAN; ONE MAN SHOT

Patrolman John Foster, of Second Precinct, Beaten in Melee.

WOMAN ASSAILANT ALSO IN HOSPITAL

Five Arrested as Result of Furious Attack on Private.

CALLED TO CHECK UP ON ALLEGED THEFT

Eight Stitches Sewn in Head of Law Guardian; His Attacker May Die.

Assaulted by three colored men and three colored women in a Patterson street oyster shop near North Capitol street shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Second Precinct Policeman John H. Foster suffered a terrific beating in a melee in which two of his alleged attackers received injuries.

The policeman required eight stitches in his scalp at Sibley Hospital. The two alleged assailants, both held under guard at Freedmen's Hospital, are James Henderson, colored, 28 years old, suffering from a possibly fatal bullet wound in his abdomen, and his wife, Bernice Henderson, colored, 21 years old, suffering from flowing blood injuries beneath the scalp. Both live at a residence next to the Patterson street lunchroom.

Foster Relieved of Duty.

Foster, battered and bruised from the fight, was relieved of duty overnight after making a report to Capt. Ogden T. Davis, of the Second Precinct. In the meantime police took in custody two other colored women and another colored man, in addition to the Henderson couple, in connection with the affray, with one other unidentified Negro missing. Those arrested gave their names as Dorothy Harrison, 24 years old, and Rebecca Reid, 45 years old, of the Henderson residence, and Robert Harrison, 54 years old, of Twenty-third street near E street northeast.

"I was directing traffic at North Capitol street and New York avenue when a light-skinned colored man ran up and said that he had been robbed of $40 by Bernice Henderson at the oyster shop," the policeman was quoted as reporting. "We went there at once and the man pointed at the Henderson woman, who was sitting at a table. The man then disappeared. I told her she was under arrest, and she resisted."

"When that happened, three colored men and the two other colored women joined her in leaping at me. Henderson grapped my club and clouted me forcefully over the head and I went down under another rain of blows. They kicked me and beat me while I was on the floor and I figured that if I didn't do something quick they would probably kill me. I managed to pull out my revolver and fired

MAN IS KILLED, 18 ARRESTED IN GARMENT WAR

UNION PICKETS USE KNIVES AND CLUBS

Several Cut in Melee as Police Reserves Charge Mob.

MEDIATION GROUPS REACH AGREEMENT

Terms Will Be Voted on at Meeting Scheduled to Be Held Today.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—One man was killed and several other persons were injured today in a clash between rival left and right wing workers in the garment district, growing out of the concentrated picketing activities of the striking International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Wielding knives and sawed-off billiard cues, a squad of union pickets rushed a group of left-wing radicals when the latter hurled taunts at them at Thirty-ninth street and Broadway.

The left-wing workers are now participating in the general strike called by the union last Tuesday in a campaign against sweatshop conditions.

Chauffeur Held as Killer.

Eighteen persons, including twelve young women, were arrested as police reserves broke up the melee. Jacob Rothnberg, 45, a dress manufacturer, received a fractured skull when he was knocked to the pavement and died a short time later in a hospital. Irving Ashkenas, 27, a chauffeur, was held on a charge of homicide in Rothenberg's death.

Several others were cut about the face and hands and were treated by ambulance surgeons.

Another fight occurred in Thirty-fifth street, but police broke up the disturbance before anyone was injured seriously. Police had concentrated reserves and patrol wagons at the Thirty-fifth street station in anticipation of trouble.

The mass picketing activities of the union, in which 15,000 strikers took part, followed upon the failure of conferences held Saturday and Sunday in an effort to settle the walkout.

Agreement Is Reached.

An agreement between the Affiliated Dress Manufacturers Association, a contractors' organization, and representatives of the 30,000 strikers was reached tonight. It is contingent upon ratification by the jobbers, who have been blamed by both manufacturers and workers for "sweatshop" conditions in the industry.

Under the terms of the agreement, surplus work would be given only to those contractors employing union labor. Another provision is the creation of an impartial commission for the adjustment of wages and working conditions.

The agreement will be voted upon at meetings of the various interested groups tomorrow.

Lieut Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, as mediator, has been attempting to bring about a settlement.

SUBMARINE ABOLITION ISSUE WILL CONFRONT NAVAL SESSION TODAY

Envoys Fool Capital; Admit Big Ship 'Error'

Proposal Omitted When Summary Was Given Out Hastily.

Request for Giant Vessel Comes As Surprise to State Department.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

London, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The American delegation to the five-power naval parley was forced to clear up a muddle today over the United States' suggestion that all the other major naval powers take a battleship holiday, while America builds a new $50,000,000 battleship, the most powerful in the world. Faced by the choice of admitting that a mistake had been made or appearing as a group of would-be Machiavellis, it was decided to admit a mistake, and explain it.

But the suggestion—it isn't a demand—that Great Britain acquiesce in the building by the United States of a "super-Rodney" still stands, and as the Times says bluntly:

"This is a suggestion that would not commend itself to British opinion."

When Secretary of State Stimson issued his list of suggestions to Great Britain last Thursday night there was

With the London naval conference about to enter its most stormy week, there developed yesterday a direct conflict between the State Department and the American delegation over reports that the Americans desired permission to build a new giant battleship of the Rodney type in order to further naval parity with Great Britain.

Acting Secretary of State Cotton denied knowledge of any such intention on the part of the American delegation and added that it would be against the spirit of the conference to suggest any such program. He expressed the conviction that further investigation would show the report to be untrue.

Shortly after Mr. Cotton's explanation came the cabled statement from London that the American delegation had made known their intention of U. S. and Great Britain Are Aligned Against Use of Submersibles.

JAPAN AND FRANCE WILL DEFEND THEM

French Show Willingness to Accept Some of Root Restrictions.

AMERICANS ADMIT SUPERWARSHIP TALK

Commons Hears MacDonald Report on Progress of Conference.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One of the biggest problems before the London Naval Conference, the future status of submarines in the eyes of international law, comes up tomorrow at the fourth plenary session to be held in St. James Palace.

The United States and Great Britain are aligned side by side as advocates of total abolition of undersea craft as legitimate weapons of war. France and Japan will defend continued use of submarines. Italy is expected to take a middle ground inclining strongly to support of the Anglo-American stand, agreeing to the abolition of submarines with the proviso that other types of war craft are accordingly reduced.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, as chairman of the session, will open the debate and will be followed by Henry L. Stimson, American Secretary of State, and First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander. The latter will propose abolition of the "viper of the sea" and may introduce a resolution to that effect.

French Minister to Reply.

Georges Leygues, French Minister of Marine, will reply for his nation, declaring that France can not agree to abolition of undersea craft, and will propose a resolution recognizing them as an essential of a modern fleet. He will accept some, but not all, of the restrictions on the use of submarines incorporated in the Root convention, signed at the Washington conference in 1922 but never ratified by the French parliament.

The French spokesman will contend that the submarine should be assured all the rights and advantages pertaining to surface ships. It was said in French circles tonight that Leygues, in his speech tomorrow, will quote Theodore Roosevelt and Samuel Gompers as signatories to a document proclaiming the necessity of submarines.

Signor Grandi Declines Honor.

Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, for Italy, who today declined the honor proffered him by other delegations of speaking first, will agree to abolition of the submarine on condition that all other powers do likewise and that capital ships, cruisers and destroyers be proportionately reduced.

The American delegation admitted today having submitted to MacDonald last week a proposal to build a 33,900-ton battleship in 1934 at a cost of $50,000,000. It was hinted that failure to include this information in Mr. Stimson's memorandum last Thursday on American aims and plans was a mistake due to the hurry with which that document was compiled in order to forestall an anticipated leak.

Asks Delay on Battleships.

At a meeting of the big five today, Mr. MacDonald suggested that the conference place the battleship question on the agenda soon after the submarine, but Mr. Stimson objected that battleships should be postponed until after the cruiser situation has been tackled.

At the close of tomorrow's speeches the conference will set up a subcommittee to reconcile the divergent points of view on the submarine and to deal with all cognate questions, a discussion of great complexity that is expected to last for weeks.

So far as is foreseen there will be

PSITTACOSIS CASES BLAMED ON CANARY

Two Ill in Newport News; Dr. W. R. Stokes Dies of Parrot Fever.

CAPITAL MAN STRICKEN

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A canary is blamed for two cases of parrot fever, or psittacosis, in Newport News, Va., State health officials said here tonight. So far as they knew, they stated, these were the first cases reported contracted in the United States from a canary.

The diseased bird, which died, was sold by a German sailor to Mrs. E. R. Martin, wife of a Newport News physician, who left the bird at H. J. Kelly's pet shop when she was stricken. Later Mr. Kelly developed the same symptoms evidenced by Mrs. Martin. A United States Public Health Service official was called in for diagnosis and he confirmed local doctors' suspicions that the disease was parrot fever.

The sailor brought the canary from a continental port, it was said at the health department.

Mr. Kelly's condition was reported to the health office as still serious. Mrs. Martin was said to be recovering.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Dr. William Royal Stokes, director of the city health department's bureau of bacteriology, died here tonight of psittacosis or parrot fever.

Dr. Stokes was stricken with the disease a fortnight ago. He was taken to a Baltimore Hospital and last week his condition became serious. A serum made from the blood of a recovered patient of the disease was twice administered and for a time his physicians were hopeful he would recover.

He took an active part in the work of his department, fighting the disease which made its first appearance in Baltimore early in January. During his investigations he handled many infected birds and it was as-

HOOVER WINS FIGHT WITH 7-FOOT FISH

President Beats Others of Vacation Party at Angling Art.

SEVEN IS BAG FOR DAY

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A huge sail fish, 7 feet long and weighing 45 pounds, stood to President Hoover's credit in this little fishing camp tonight as a result of his first day of deep-sea fishing off the shores of the Florida Keys.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, one of his fishing companions, reported that he had hooked a sail fish, which he believed to be larger than the President's, but that a shark had taken it off his line before he could land it. There were some dissenting opinions in the camp particularly concerning that part of the story regarding the hungry shark.

Other members of the party who fished, including Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries; Dr. Vernon Kellogg and Mark Sullivan, newspaperman and writer, failed to get a strike. The haul for the whole camp totaled five sail fish, in addition to the President's, and two barracudas.

Mr. Hoover's statement, made some months ago, that all men were alike in the eyes of fish was somewhat belied by the fact that the biggest fish to be taken off the Key today picked out the presidential hook. The strike came soon after the angling began and the big fellow gave the Chief Executive a half hour of extremely vigorous work before being subdued.

Members of the party aboard the small boat, from which Mr. Hoover is fishing, said that the President was dripping wet across the shoulders before he got his quarry aboard. At any rate, he was satisfied for the day, as he went aboard the houseboat Saunterer and did not leave again for the fishing ground.

The Chief Executive and his party

District Woman Rode In Lincoln Procession

Mrs. Martha Fletcher Recalls Events of First Inauguration.

In the procession of Lincoln's first inauguration there was a float bearing one tiny school girl for each State. And at the reception after taking the oath Lincoln shook hands with each girl and then kissed her.

One of these little girls is still living in Washington. She is Mrs. Martha Fletcher, who lives at 5408 East Capitol street. She remembers vividly the ceremonies, for all her 86 years.

"It was a big float," she says. "There must have been ten horses pulling it. On the top there was a statute of Liberty, and around the bottom of it the little girls sat. There were 35 of them, one for each State in the Union and one for the District of Columbia. Each one had the flag of the State she represented. I had the Iowa State flag. While Mr. Lincoln was taking the oath we went into the basement of the Capitol and had lunch. Then we got on the float and rode to the White House. All the girls went in two by two, and Mr. Lincoln shook hands with us and then kissed us. No, he didn't say anything to us—he didn't have time. There were too many other people waiting.

"I was living on Fourth street then, near I. I went to a school called, I think, the Douglas. It was in Douglas row, on I street near New Jersey avenue. Some of the girls came from this school and some came from around the neighborhood.

"I remember when he was shot, too. That was a terrible thing. All the people were so sad. But they were happy when he was inaugurated. My father was in the parade, too. I don't remember what he did in the procession. He worked in the Treasury Department. That's all I remember about it—I was just a little girl then, about 12, I think."

Mrs. Fletcher lives with her son and his wife. She had nine children, five of them still living. She has eighteen grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren.

Hunger Halts Wanderings Of Bay State "Hitch-Hiker"

Ernest Asphinall Found in Ballston Ditch and Is Revived.

Exhausted from hunger while "hitch-hiking" from his home in Lowell, Mass., southward, Ernest Asphinall, 22 years old, fell unconscious in a faint in Ballston, Va., last night and was revived two hours later at Georgetown Hospital.

Asphinall, bareheaded and coatless, was found slumped in a shallow ditch beside the roadway at Glebe and Swindell roads in Ballston by Marly Gowen, well known resident of that town, in driving his automobile nearby into the front yard of his residence.

Mr. Gowen removed the man to the headquarters of the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department, where the engine of that outfit, manned by William West, as driver, Fred Gadd, Edgar Mosher and Madison Stoneburner, made a fast run to the hospital.

no surprises or sensations at tomorrow's plenary session. Mr. Stimson at a late hour tonight had not written his speech, but it was intimated that this would follow the general tenor of his remarks on submarines in his speech recently broadcast to America.

Premier MacDonald, reporting in the House of Commons today on the progress of the conference, said: "I can say with confidence that progress is being made all along the line. We are nearing an agreement on difficult questions relating to a method of limitation of naval armaments which for years have been a stumbling block to progress in the preparatory commission of the League of Nations. In addition, we are engaging in frank discussions with other delegations with regard to an equilibrium of naval strength to be established between the powers, and I have every hope that we shall ultimately reach an agreement also on this difficult problem.

Time Not Wasted, He Says.

"Everything is being done which can be done to prevent waste of time, but the House will readily realize that to rush delicate negotiations of this description in which foreign powers are concerned would be likely to cause disaster."

The subcommittee, which has been struggling with the dispute over whether navies should be limited by total tonnage or by classes of ships, referred its troubles to the committee of the whole, called "Committee No. 1," today without having been able to agree on anything, a failure disguised by the communique issued.

The subcommittee has prepared a table for Committee No. 1 to consider at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, but this is a table of contents, not of agreements, but of wishes expressed by the various powers. There are also attached a great number of reservations by all the powers on points of detail.

For example, Great Britain asks for a maximum limit if from 7,000 to 7,500 tons on light cruisers. Japan agrees with Great Britain on this point; France and the United States disagree.

Minimum Limit in Dispute.

Japan wants 2,500 tons set as a minimum limit for light cruisers and Great Britain suggests 1,850 tons. France agrees with Japan. The point of this dispute is that the French want their large destroyer leaders, which exceed 1,850 tons, placed in the light cruiser class so they won't be affected when it comes to limiting destroyers.

Great Britain wants a maximum of 5-inch guns allowed for destroyers and destroyer leaders; France desires bigger guns in the latter class.

These illustrations show some of the innumerable complexities now that the powers have come to grips on concrete figures.

France, it is understood, will give out her total tonnage figures for her whole navy probably tomorrow, if not Wednesday. The Italian naval staff here has worked out the French claim, on the basis of the French naval status of 1924, as 644,000 tons to be attained by 1936, but in French circles it is thought a higher figure will be set up.

712,900 Tons Authorized.

France now has built or building and authorized 712,900 tons, but this has no relation to the figure she will place before the conference because it includes 66,000 tons of special vessels not included in the global amount and also 105,000 tons of obsolete tonnage to be scrapped.

From the British viewpoint the possibility of carrying out the agreed cruiser compromise with the United States depends upon what ships France proposes to build with this tonnage and especially on whether fast battle cruisers, of a type in some ways superior to anything now afloat, are contemplated by France as a reply to the German pocket battleship, the Ersatz Preusen.

Japan, it was intimated today at Japanese headquarters, will name no figures until after the election in Japan ten days hence, and then may be content to put forward her claims without replying to the United States memorandum.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow saw Tsuneo Matsudairo, Japanese Ambassador here today, but nothing was said about their interview.

U. S. and Japanese Viewpoints.

The Americans here feel that they have made some concessions in offering Japan 12 ships carrying 8-inch guns against 18 American, a ratio as the Americans put it at 66 2-3 per cent, or nearly all Japan asks.

The Japanese don't see it that way. The twelve ships offered by the Americans include only eight 10,000-ton cruisers carrying 8-inch guns to oppose 18 American ships so armed. The other four Japanese ships, the United States appears to wish to class as 8-inch gun cruisers on a par with bigger ones, are of the Fukutara class of 7,100 tons carrying only 6 eight-inch guns each, and a Japanese authority triumphantly told me tonight, as spiking the American suggestion that Japan should be content with this, that First Lord the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, speaking in the House of Commons last month, classed these four Fukutara ships as light cruisers and not as Washington treaty cruisers at all.

no word of an American superbattleship. Rumors originally emanating from the naval section of the United States mission, who are surprisingly vocal considering that statesmen are supposed to be running the conference, finally crystallized in an inspired statement in today's London Times that the United States had asked the right to build a 33,900-ton battleship if she scrapped four instead of three old battleships.

Fact Could Not Be Denied.

This could not be denied because it is true; Mr. Stimson had this proposal embodied in the memorandum which he took to Mr. MacDonald early last week. Why was not the subject mentioned in the summary of American proposals issued to the whole world Thursday? Admittedly the effect on British opinion of such a revelation after it was thought the United States' battleship plans were announced was most unfortunate, and a clean breast of the error was made in an authoritative American quarter today.

Two newspapermen asked questions Thursday of a member of our delegation which that statesman assumed, erroneously it turned out, to mean that his interviewers knew the terms of the American memorandum. Immediately a hasty summary of the American memorandum was prepared and given out to the press within a few hours to prevent unauthorized anticipation. This was done so hurriedly that nobody noticed that the proposal for a new battleship was left out.

That is the explanation given of an omission that greatly upset some of the other powers represented here and gave an opportunity for such ill-natured jibes as that the United States was proposing a battleship holiday for every power—except herself—the lines on which she persuaded other nations to establish and bind themselves to the League of Nations.

Big Ship May Never Be Built.

The super-Rodney proposal, it was authoritatively explained by an informed American, does not mean necessarily that the United States will ever build such a ship. It is doubtful whether Congress would vote the necessary $50,000,000. Moreover, Mr. Stimson told Mr. MacDonald, it is not proposed to lay down the ship until 1934, so that she would not be finished until 1936 or 1937.

If there was some American blundering, there seems to have been an English mistake as well, for Mr. MacDonald is understood to have said he did not think his people would object to this new battleship. If he did say that, he has been rudely undeceived.

Coupled with this battleship surprise British opinion also for two days had to swallow a false Washington story which was given a two-day run by our delegation before denial, that the United States had asked Great Britain to scrap not her five oldest battleships but her newer Queen Elizabeths. But after the naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph had fulminated against this in high-sounding terms today and threatened resignation of the sea lords, the Americans made clear that the story was a fake. A copy of the memorandum of American suggestions was shown to Mr. MacDonald in which the British ships marked down to be scrapped are the Benbow, Emperor of India, Marlborough, Iron Duke and Tiger—the five oldest.

Ship Could Be Insisted Upon.

So for the present the battleship issue is solved. There is little doubt the United States can force the new superbattleship down British throats if she insists, but the moral cost must be considered and there is reason to believe that some Americans here agree with this view and hope that the ship will not be built, defending our claim to it by the pressure of our naval authorities who hold high opinions of the British battleships, the Nelson and the Rodney, which they claim outclass our battleships.

In return the British cite the gunpower of the two battleship fleets as reduced according to American proposals to twelve battleships each without the new American wonder ship—and these tables show that the American fleet would have 24 16-inch guns against 18 British, 124 14-inch guns against 100 British and 12 12-inch guns against no British, not to mention other inestimable advantages.

A conference summed it all up well in the comment, "Our admirals think your fleet is better than ours. Your admirals think our fleet is better than theirs. Let the politicians swap the two battle fleets. The admirals will hate that and will trade 'em back again and keep quiet afterward."

CARDINAL PACELLI.

CARDINAL PACELLI TAKES PAPAL POST

ANNIVERSARY IS MARKED

Vatican City, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Cardinal Pacelli, former papal nuncio at Berlin, today took over the office of secretary of state from Cardinal Gasparri, who had served in that post for the past sixteen years.

Today was the eve of the first anniversary of the signing of the lateran accords which, according to tonight's Observatore Romano, "thanks to the charity of a father, the wisdom of a king and the genius of a statesman, brought back religious peace to Italy."

The entire Roman press commented upon the anniversary, saying that the year had demonstrated plainly the important character of the event not only in Italy but throughout the world.

Pope Hears Fascist Secretary.

The visit of Augusto Turati, secretary of the Fascist party, to the Pope last week, is believed to have done much to smooth over outstanding divergencies between the papacy and the Fascist state, and it is felt that conditions auger well for the initiation of the service of the new papal secretary of state.

During the day the Pope gave an audience to Cardinal Pacelli lasting for more than two hours. The new secretary of state then went to his office where he received several of the diplomats credited to the Holy See.

Cardinal Gasparri, who is 77 years old, possibly may receive Italy's highest decoration, the Collar of Annunziata, making him a titular "cousin of the king." At the same time he will receive the insignia of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor from France at a formal farewell ceremony.

Italy Will Celebrate Today.

Italy will celebrate tomorrow's anniversary with flags flown on all public buildings while the Holy See will plant his standards, for the first time in 60 years, on the newly reacquired Castel Gandolfo, destined to be the Pope's summer residence.

Count De Vecchi, one of the Fascist quadrumviri of the march on Rome, will give a reception as Italian ambassador to the Holy See and on Wednesday Mgr. Borgongini Duca, papal nuncio to Italy, will give a reception in honor of the eighth anniversary of the Pope's coronation.

Dreyfus Witness In Hiding, Is Belief

Assistant District Attorney Unable to Get Reply to Subpena in Chicago.

The possibility that James E. Dowd, Chicago broker wanted here for questioning by the grand jury in connection with the Dreyfus case, may have gone into seclusion to evade service of a subpena to bring him to Washington was seen yesterday as all efforts by Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw to discover Dowd's whereabouts were unsuccessful.

Dowd, who last week announced his readiness to "tell all," provided he was "formally sworn before a grand jury," was due to have arrived in Washington in answer to a subpena issued several days ago. When he did not arrive Mr. Burkinshaw dispatched several inquiries, but all went unanswered.

The Chicagoan was a former business associate of Edmund J. McBrien, New York broker who was the companion of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus at a Potomac Boat Club dance, when she fell or was pushed from a balcony to her death last October 20.

Dowd is quoted as saying that he had "startling information" concerning the linking of the two cases.

Four Hurt as Fascist Paper Plant Is Bombed

Both legs of Guido Neri, a reporter, were amputated at a hospital and he was in danger of death. The police immediately started an investigation.

D.A.R. HEAD ANSWERS DR. PARKER'S CHARGE

SOCIAL WORKER RESIGNS

With the declaration that the United States "must be kept for Americans," and affirming the stand of the Daughters of the American Revolution on armaments for the United States as "one for adequate military, naval and air preparedness," Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R. Society, yesterday answered charges that the organization was a militarist body and against world peace.

The charges were made by Dr. Valeria A. Parker, of New York, who resigned because of alleged support by the D. A. R. of large armament programs in Congress. Dr. Parker's resignation was received yesterday, together with a letter stating her reasons. It was accepted automatically.

President General Hobart had little to say about Dr. Parker, who is prominent in the field of social service and education.

"It is hard to tell what a woman's real reason is," Mrs. Hobart, who had a son in the World War, said. "Perhaps she wanted publicity. Oh, we have had and will have a number like her, I suppose. Every large organization must have them. But I deny the truth of what Dr. Parker said about our society supporting large armaments."

Mrs. Hobart, a motherly person, had called the reporters to her offices in the Memorial Continental Hall. She frankly offered to answer any questions.

"It does bring up to mind the 'black list' charges against the D. A. R. of two years ago," she said at one time. "Yes, this charge by Dr. Parker looks like a concerted movement of the discontents. But with a membership which has increased by 7,325 in the last year, I should imagine that we will be able to get along without Dr. Parker.

"We regret her action, and her letter given to the press long before it reached us, but, oh well, what's the use * * *?"

Employe of Store Beaten and Robbed

Clerk Is Struck Down Soon After Entering Place in Morning.

Knocked unconscious and robbed, Joseph Hirshman, 62 years old, of 4815 Georgia avenue northwest, a clerk at the Capitol Five and Ten Cent Store, 1248 Seventh street northwest, was found on the floor of the store about 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Hirshman was discovered by Ernest Fields, colored, of 618 M street northwest, a trash man. Mr. Hirshman, it was learned, was an early arrival at the store yesterday morning, and he is believed to have been attacked soon after entering the establishment.

Mr. Hirshman was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for severe scalp lacerations. He was later removed to his home. The clerk discovered that he had been robbed of $10 in bills and $5 in change. He told police that all he recalled was being hit with a blunt instrument.

Runaway Tractor Crushes Two Men

Machine Goes Wild Along Houston Street; Cars Are Smashed.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An ambling tractor turned engine of destruction here today, crushing out two lives and wrecking a dozen motor cars as it ran wild in a street.

The machine, a combination tractor-grader used in street construction, began its swath of destruction when the driver, A. McCarthy, lost his balance in rounding a corner and fell beneath it to be ground to death. The uncontrolled tractor lumbered its way, battering and smashing automobiles.

Wade Gatewood, a pedestrian, essayed to stop the wild charges as other frightened persons fled to safety. He met the fate of the driver. Gatewood, employed by the State highway department as a tractor operator, leaped on the machine and grasped the emergency brake. It broke and he was thrown under the plunging monster. The machine continued its destructive progress for more than 100 feet before it came to a stop.

WURZBACH SEATED AS HOUSE MEMBER

Republican Who Laid Fraud Charge to Democrat, Wins Contest.

CHARGES ARE UPHELD

(Associated Press.)

Harry M. Wurzbach was seated yesterday as representative from the Fourteenth Texas District, ending a controversy between himself and Augustus McCloaky that sprang up immediately after the 1928 elections with the charge by Mr. Wurzbach that his Democratic opponent had been seated by fraudulent alterations of returns.

While the elections committee in its report said only that Mr. Wurzbach had been elected and Mr. McCloskey had failed of election, Chairman Sears, of the group which investigated the contest, said on the floor that the fraud charges had been substantiated.

The elections committee was roundly criticized last night by Representative O'Connor (Republican), Oklahoma, who resigned from the committee yesterday because the report filed did "not make any finding of fraud, and, in my opinion, such a finding should have been made."

Mr. O'Connor said he resigned because his further insistance on making a finding of fraud "would have been a futile effort and could have resulted only in longer keeping out of his seat a duly elected member of Congress."

Chairman Sears told the House that the evidence which substantiated the fraud charges could be found in the record. The committee concluded, he said, with the exception of the Oklahoman, that the report presented would save a "good deal of rancorous talk here."

After adoption by the House of the committee report, Mr. Wurzbach, the only Republican member from Texas since reconstruction days, was sworn as a member.

STATE DEPARTMENT FOOLED BY ENVOY'S BIG SHIP PROJECT

doing precisely what the State Department characterized as "against the spirit of the conference." As Mr. Cotton has been kept advised of each important step at London, and as the American delegation has taken pains to communicate freely and frequently with Washington, the conflicting statements added somewhat to the confusion that has characterized last week's developments at London.

The stormy seas to be encountered this week are regarded as more dangerous to ultimate success of the conference than the squalls of dissension which have so far annoyed and embarrassed the respective delegations. The chief fear now is that Premier Tardieu's statement of French policy will seriously jeopardize the prearranged Anglo-American accord set forth late last week by the Stimson and MacDonald statements.

The fact that Secretary Stimson failed to inform M. Tardieu that the American statement was to be made public further nettled the leader of the French delegation. Apparently Secretary Stimson's hand was forced in making public the American statement without notifying M. Tardieu that he was about to do so. It develops that one of the American correspondents at London obtained detailed information as to the purport of the statement which Mr. Stimson was holding in reserve for use at the proper moment.

The correspondent imparted his information to Ambassador Dawes, who forthwith informed Mr. Stimson. The American Secretary made a hurried visit to Mr. MacDonald and it was decided to make public the American statement at once in order to avoid criticism which Mr. Stimson feared would result from an unfriendly unofficial presentation.

It is now Tardieu's turn to make a statement of French policy if he so desires and it is an open secret that whatever the French premier says may have a profound effect on the fate of any Anglo-American accord for limitation or reduction. Unless France cooperates, the British program of limitation can not be put into operation for the British program must be based on the size of the future French navy.

No surprise will be felt if M. Tardieu announces that France intends to construct 12 cruisers of 10,000 tons, an unlimited number of smaller cruisers two 18,000 supercruisers to meet the menace of Germany's Ersatz Preussen and an aggregate tonnage of 125,000 in submarines.

These definite figures may be held in reserve but the present mood of the French premier is to strike straight from the shoulder.

Blessing in Disguise.

The American delegation will not be dismayed by the anticipated objection of France and Japan to abolishing the submarine. In promoting Anglo-American accord, the United States went on record as favoring the British policy of abolishing the submarine. But any treaty providing for such abolition would meet a sad fate in the United States Senate, according to all indications, so that the technical defeat of this part of the Anglo-American program may be a blessing in disguise.

The reported request of the American delegation to build a giant battleship, coupled with the statement that such a ship will probably never be actually built if permission is granted, has added the crowning note of confusion to the proceedings.

It is realized that such confusion is to be expected during complicated and delicate international negotiations but the London conference has reached the bewildering stage sooner than anticipated.

FREE BRICKS BARRED BY SENATE TIE VOTE

Tariff Amendment Beaten 36 to 36 as Business Conditions Are Argued.

SPEEDY ACTION IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday declined by a tie vote to return building brick to the free list during a session on the tariff bill which was marked by charges and by denials that the Republican administration was failing to meet unemployment and general business problems.

The vote on brick, the most important of the day, came on a proposal of Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, to eliminate the proposed tariff of $1.25 a thousand on plain and $1.50 on glazed brick. A tie, 36 to 36, resulted and the amendment was rejected.

Senator Barkley served notice he will demand a separate vote later.

Eleven Republicans and 25 Democrats voted for free bricks, while 32 Republicans and 4 Democrats favored a duty.

Unemployment Is Argued.

Unemployment conditions were brought to the fore for the second time within a week when Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, arguing for protection for the brick industry, asserted more workers would be thrown out of employment in the Hudson River district if a tariff were denied the brick producers.

Previously, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, had asserted that business was "lagging" and in a state of uncertainty as to orders in view of the long tariff debate. He urged speedy action and was joined in this plea by leaders of all other factions.

Seizing upon the point raised by Senator Copeland, Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, asserted the Democratic party has a "very excellent chance to win the next election, if it uses care and does not go to extremes during the consideration of the pending bill and will take advantage of the general discontent in this country that is prevailing in all quarters."

Take No Holiday, Watson Plea.

In appealing to the Senate not to take any adjournment over Lincoln's Birthday, tomorrow, Senator Watson said:

"The country is anxiously awaiting action. Our duty is to stay here and work at this problem. Business is lagging and industry, in some instances I know, is waiting for us to pass the bill. Wholesalers and retailers do not know what the future will develop, what orders to give, what business to take. If we represent the business interests in this as we do in other things, it is up to us to pass this bill."

The only other important vote of the day saw the defeat, 42 to 32, of an amendment by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, for a flat rate of 2½ cents a pound on all starches. The bill provides an increase in duty on potato starch and starches not specifically mentioned in the measure. Under the Kansan's proposal, all of these would have been made dutiable at 2½ cents along with tapioca, sago, cassava and arrowroot starches, now on the free list.

Owner Claims Dog Rescued From Ice

Virginian Reads Story in Post and Comes to Take His Pet.

The collied dog rescued from an island of ice in the Potomac River Sunday was back at home yesterday.

His master, J. W. Barton, who lives near Simpson's boathouse on the Virginia side of the river, read The Post yesterday morning, saw the story about the marooned dog and inquired at the Animal Rescue League, where he discovered that the canine hero of the story was his own pet.

The dog, answering to the name of Boy, might have been in dog heaven today if it were not for J. F. Windsor, of 3418 Connecticut avenue, who saw the animal from a train crossing the Potomac River. Mr. Windsor sent a telegram from Richmond to his brother here, and in this way Boy was rescued.

Cheering Reports Come From Taft

Physicians Say He May Be Able to Emerge From Sick Room.

(Associated Press.)

Cheering reports that continued to come from the bedside of William Howard Taft lessened the tension yesterday of friends who have been watching his condition anxiously since his return last Tuesday from Asheville, N. C.

Already the former President and Chief Justice has shown such a marked improvement that his physicians have said that he might recover his strength sufficiently to leave the sick room. Notwithstanding, they reminded that his illness was a serious one and there were warnings against overoptimism. He is suffering from a weakened heart, a breakdown of his circulatory system and a recurrence of a bladder complaint.

COUNTY'S ATTORNEY QUIZZED ON MURDER

Prosecutor Accused in Rum Plot Holds Killing Justifiable.

102 UNDER INDICTMENT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 10 (A P.).—Randall Pittman, county attorney of Pottawatomie County and a defendant in the liquor conspiracy case on trial in Federal Court here, today was questioned regarding an unprosecuted murder case and in action in other purported law violations.

On cross-examination Pittman testified he took no action against Oscar Motley, deputy sheriff, in connection with the killing of Harold McChesney, oil operator, at Earlsboro in 1927, because an investigation by Leroy Cooper, then an assistant county attorney, and other officers convinced him the killing was justified. Motley, now dead, has been named in testimony as director of collections of protection money from bootleggers.

The way to the questioning was opened when Pittman testified on direct examination as to his record as prosecutor, asserting he had instituted at various times criminal actions against 26 of the 101 other persons indicted by the Government in the conspiracy case.

"Didn't your assistant tell you that a gun was planted at the side of the dead man and that the gun had been seen in the sheriff's office several days before?" Pittman was asked by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney.

"I can't remember if he did," Pittman replied.

Lewis asked the county attorney if it was not a fact that Clyde Pittman, his brother, and J. W. (Smoky) Motsenbacher, "are now operating a line of slot machines in Pottawatomie County and that Clyde Pittman is receiving 17 per cent of the receipts from the machines."

Pittman answered he did not know.

A record purporting to show that Pittman dismissed 231 cases in County Court alone since he has been county attorney was introduced by Lewis. The record also showed that during the same period, 135 pleas of guilty had been obtained, 42 convictions and 19 acquittals.

WASHINGTON STATE DRY INQUIRY ASKED

LaGuardia Demands Senate Quiz When Jones Denies Halting Investigation.

CONDITIONS BAD, CLAIM

(Associated Press.)

A denial by Senator Jones (Rep.), Washington, that he had halted an inquiry by the Justice Department into the work of prohibition enforcement officers in his State was met yesterday by a demand from Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), New York, for a Senate investigation of conditions there.

Senator Jones sent his denial in a letter replying to a charge made in the House by Mr. LaGuardia on Saturday. Answering the dry leader several hours later, the New York wet urged that a special Senate committee be created to conduct the inquiry.

Mr. LaGuardia wrote: "Every one knows that Puget Sound is the receiving point for wholesale liquor in such enormous quantities and in daily shipments to such an extent that such conditions could not exist without the knowledge and connivance of the very officials entrusted with the enforcement of the law."

Senator Jones said in his letter to Mr. LaGuardia, "I have never sought to stop the investigation of any prohibition agent by the Department of Justice or any other department of the Government.

"On the contrary," he added, "I assert most emphatically that I have insisted upon fair, full and complete investigation in every case of this kind that has come to my attention."

"Let the officials who have been accusing each other in your State come before a committee and tell all they know," said LaGuardia.

"I doubt not your sincerity in the cause of prohibition, but I was somewhat surprised that with the conditions existing in your State, you still adhere to the belief that prohibition is a success."

Five Are Arrested In Series of Raids

Letterman Squad Makes Forays Against Alleged Rum, Gaming Dives.

In a series of early morning liquor and gambling raids today, Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and his aids, Detective Richard J. Cox and Policemen F. A. Truscott and J. A. Mostyn arrested five people and seized a large quantity of assorted liquors.

After first arranging for a delivery on I street northwest, the squad raided an apartment on California street near Seventeenth street northwest and arrested James Palmer, 24, of Seventeenth street near Irving street northwest, and Russell Baker, of Twelfth street near N street northwest on charges of possession of liquor. They seized two gallons of alcohol, 22 pints of gin 7 quarts of bacardi rum, 8 pints of rye and some bottles.

The men were seized when they delivered some goods on I street, but they broke the bottles in the street. A charge for this was placed against them. Within a few minutes the same raiders visited a house on Fourteenth street near Belmont, and arrested James Magruder, 38 years old, and Leonard Duffell, 25 years old, both on charges of sale and possession. Four and one-half quarts of liquor were seized.

In a third raid on I street near Fourteenth street northwest, 27 men, alleged visitors in a gambling house, were listed as witnesses. Edward S. Ford, 27 years old, was arrested for permitting gaming.

ALCOHOL DIVERSION IS CHARGED TO 186

Nation-wide Plot Centered Around Redistilled Perfume Method.

YEAST COMPANY NAMED

Chicago, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Striking at bootleg alcohol, one of the major problems of enforcement, the United States Government delivered three major blows today.

A conspiracy indictment was brought here against 155 individuals and 31 firms and corporations, charging them with complicity in a conspiracy which has diverted more than 1,000,000 gallons of alcohol a year for seven years. The plot is said to have extended from coast to coast.

The Great Corn Products Co., the Fleischmann Yeast Co. and 17 alleged bootleggers were indicted in Springfield, Ill., on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

Former Dry Agents Named.

Three former prohibition agents, four employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Glenwood Industrial Distilling Co. and three of its officers were indicted in Philadelphia on the charge of diverting 115,000 gallons of alcohol in two years.

Anastassoff Srebren, Bulgarian perfume chemist, was named as the king pin of the organization. He discovered a method of extracting essential oils from perfumes, the Government charges, and through his discovery conspirators have converted the products into drinkable alcohol.

Of the $35,000,000 estimated as profit on alcohol diverted, it is charged, he received a fat share. He was on the pay roll of approximately 30 concerns engaged in violating the dry laws, it is alleged, usually as an adviser to the still operators.

Clew Found in Chicago.

The indictment also names St. Paul, Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Minneapolis and North Bergen, N. J., as scenes of one or more of the 287 overt acts charged against the ring.

The first clew to the conspiracy was found last July in Chicago, when agents discovered thousands of substandard toilet products capable of being redistilled into pure grain alcohol.

Alexander G. Jamie, chief of the special prohibition unit in Chicago, was placed in charge of the investigation. He was assisted by agents in a dozen other cities. When the evidence was finally accumulated, it was taken before the December Federal grand jury.

List Is Notable.

Bench warrants had been prepared for the arrest of all the persons named in the indictment and were issued immediately. The list of those indicted was notable for the entire absence of names known in Chicago gangland, all of those named being officials of the various companies, or their employes. No prohibition officials were involved in the present case.

The Chicago firms indicted included:

Arend Drug Co., Cantrapher Pharmacal Co., Chicago Toilet Supply Co., Columbia Bottles Products Co., Century Laboratories, Inc., Chicago Sales & Distributing Co., Godiva Co., Holman Soap Co., Humboldt Drug Co., and Le Roy Manufacturing Co.

The out-of-town firms named included Nipola Co. of St. Paul and Standard Laboratories of St. Louis.

Chauffers Robbed At Point of Rifle

Two Taxi Drivers Victims of Pair of Footpads; Losses Small.

Two Negroes, armed with a rifle, held up two taxi drivers a short time apart in the northwest section last night, to escape with an insignificant amount of money, following a similar holdup the previous night.

Ernest B. Lyon, of 811 Tuckerman street northwest, was robbed of $1 by the pair of footpads at Tenth and W streets northwest when the men stepped from the taxi after having ordered Lyon to drive them to that corner.

Earlier in the night the two Negroes at Seventh and R streets northwest boarded a taxi driven by William Bedford, colored, of 1939 Thirteenth street northwest, and instructed him to drive them to Seventh and Girard streets northwest. On nearing that corner they cowed him with the rifle, emptied his pockets of $1.65 and escaped.

Assailants in Hospital.

The policeman awakened later at the hospital, unable to explain how he arrived there. Henderson, suffering from the bullet wound, and his wife, apparently struck over the head during the alteraction, were taken to Freedmen's Hospital. Her injury was not regarded as serious.

Acting on information given him by the Harrison woman, Second Precinct Detective J. F. Flaherty arrested Robert Harrison a short time after the affray at the latter's home. The detective said Harrison readily admitted participation in the fight and that the man led him to the rear of the oyster shop, where he dug out from coal ashes the missing night stick and revolver of Policeman Foster, which Harrison was said to have concealed there.

ENFORCEMENT QUIZ ASKED BY WHEELER

Montana Senator Declares Dry Law Has Experienced Complete Breakdown.

WITNESSES ARE NAMED

(Associated Press.)

While preparations were going ahead for the first congressional hearing on proposals for modification and for repeal of the prohibition law, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, introduced a resolution yesterday for a thoroughgoing investigation of Volstead enforcement.

The House judiciary committee tomorrow begins what is expected to be a protracted airing of the dry-wet controversy. The outlook is for the appearance of numerous prominent persons to testify, with prohibition opponents being heard first. The first witnesses were named yesterday.

Mr. Wheeler, who voted dry in Montana ten years ago, declared in the Senate there was "a complete breakdown of prohibition enforcement." He was challenged by Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, with a reply that the dry law has been a "gratifying and tremendous success." The Texan sponsored the eighteenth amendment.

Referred to Committee.

The Wheeler resolution, after this brief outburst, was referred to the judiciary committee, which the Montana senator had recommended make the inquiry. Chairman Norris of this committee said it would be considered at the regular meeting next Monday. There was no indication of the sentiment in the Senate toward the proposal.

Chairman Graham, of the House judiciary committee, has said that all persons who want to appear at the prohbition hearings will be heard. The association against the prohibition amendment has named some of its most widely known members to be called, including W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Samuel Harden Church, of Philadelphia, president of the Carnegie Institute; Pierre S. duPont, chairman of the board of the E. I. duPont de Nemours Co.; Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, president of the New York Academy of Medicine; Grayson M.-P. Murphy, New York financier; Linsley R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine, and Frederick R. Coudert, New York lawyer.

Henry H. Curran, president, and William H. Stayton, chairman of the board for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, will be among the witnesses.

Committee Gets Transfer Bill.

Legislative activity on prohibition topics was lacking through the day. The House bill transferring enforcement responsibilities from the Treasury to the Justice Department was referred to the Senate judiciary committee.

Senator Wheeler told the Senate he would press for action on his resolution, but even if the committee makes an early report, it is unlikely that the Senate will give consideration to it until the tariff bill is out of the way. In the preamble of the measure Senator Wheeler concluded, "Congress should have authoritative information as to whether the complete breakdown of the prohibition enforcement is due to the inefficiency, corruption, or lack of sympathy on the part of the majority of the people with the law, before enacting other laws or appropriating huge sums of money for its enforcement."

In the House two bills were introduced by Representative Christopherson (Republican), South Dakota, to carry out other recommendations of the law enforcement commission. They would provide for service of padlock injunctions by publication, and for seizure by any State officer of vehicles carrying liquor.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, a wet, introduced a bill to repeal the national prohibition act, in accordance with the plan suggested by Representative Beck (Republican wet), Pennsylvania, in the House Friday.

agents had been living at the hotel, shifting from room to room.

Other agents, he said, dined in the hotel dining room regularly in their effort to gain evidence.

The management of the hotel said tonight, more than an hour after the time given for the raid, that no arrests had been made in the hotel.

Maj. Campbell said his men had no difficulty obtaining evidence. They simply took rooms in the hotel, he said, and did not even have to ask for liquor. Bellboys solicited them to buy, the prohibition administrator declared. The agents, he continued, gave the money to the bellboys, and the bootleggers, who had quarters outside the hotel, made the deliveries.

LOWMAN INDORSES FLYNN'S DISMISSAL

Papers in Case to Be Sent for Review by Civil Service Commission.

COURT ACTION SCOUTED

In so far as the Prohibition Bureau and the Treasury Department are concerned "finis" was written to the case of Capt. Frank S. Flynn, former Prohibition Bureau clerk, yesterday afternoon, when Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman approved the recommendation of the bureau that Flynn be dismissed from the service for "insubordination."

The official papers now go to the United States Civil Service Commission for review and in the event that the commission finds nothing irregular, or contrary to law, with the procedure by which Flynn was charged and dismissed, the dismissal will become a part of the commission's records.

Prohibition and Treasury Department officials scout the threat of Capt. Flynn to carry the case to the civil courts. One official pointed out that in the two letters Capt. Flynn made public to the press before forwarding them to Commissioner Doran, he failed to make public the specific nature of the charges.

Grand Stand Play Charged.

"Flynn is playing to the grandstand; trying to create public sentiment in his favor," said this official. "He is loudly denying the charges filed against him, saying that he was given a 'raw deal,' yet it was noticeable in the two letters to Commissioner Doran, which he made public before they ever reached the Prohibition Bureau, that he evaded discussing the charges that led to his dismissal."

Assistant Secretary Lowman emphatically denied that any prohibition investigators, as reported, had been "snooping" about Senator Wheeler's office.

"It wouldn't surprise me in the least to positively know that someone has been shadowing the senator from Montana and others," said Mr. Lowman.

Discharged Agents in Town.

"I have been informed that right now there are fully a score or more of discharged former prohibition agents in Washington, many of them with an ax to grind as a result of their dismissal. That they are trying to create news by 'snooping' tactics does not surprise me in the least.

"However, you can say for me that neither the department nor the prohibition unit has ever instituted a 'snooping' campaign against any member of Congress. If one or more of our agents have shadowed any senator or representative he or they have done so without the knowledge of the bureau or the department.

"It is a practice we will not stand for and in the event of a case of this kind being brought to our attention the guilty person will be summarily dealt with."

Austria, Italy Agree To Arbitrate Disputes

Vienna, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The newspaper Neue Freie Presse said today that in the 10-year friendship, conciliation and arbitration treaty just concluded between Austria and Italy both countries undertook to submit disputes and conflicts of all kinds to a conciliation board, which must pronounce judgment within six months.

If the board fails, the case is to be sent to the permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague.

CRUSADERS TO FIGHT ANTISALOON LEAGUE

Organization Will Seek 10,000,000 Votes for Modification.

WIDE PLANS ARE LAID

New York, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Plans whereby it hopes to adopt the strategy of the Antisaloon League to fight that organization and bring about the end of prohibition were outlined tonight by The Crusaders, an association which, under the leadership of a score of young men from America's upper frings of finance, hopes to enroll 10,000,000 young men into a great nonpartisan voting bloc—the 10,000,000 votes to go for candidates who advocate modification.

"We're not wet, we're not dry—join The Crusaders and substitute real temperance for prohibition intemperance." This was adopted as the organization's slogan at a meeting of the leaders held tonight at the Park Lane Hotel.

Building up of a strong nonpartisan voting strength, the tactics employed by the Antisaloon League, will be the primary objective of The Crusaders. Both organizations, incidentally, had their genisis in Ohio the latter having been initiated about three months ago by a group of young Cleveland business men.

Fred G. Clark, of Cleveland, with the title commander in chief, was in charge of tonight's meeting, and the program being mapped out calls for the organization of units of crusaders in every city of 100,000 or more within six months, and of every city of 25,000 or more within a year. Organization meetings will be held this week in Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee, and next week in Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Columbus.

Among those present at tonight's meeting were Charles A. Sabin, jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Avery Rockefeller, William D. Carr, Lamont duPont 3d, Charles S. Payson, John Hay Whitney, John S. Williams and Sturtevant Erdmann, all of New York, and Charles A. Otis, John A. Newell and Dean Solenberger, of Cleveland.

Noted Orchestra On Radio Network

New York Musicians Sign to Broadcast Over Columbia System.

A contract was signed last night whereby the concerts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra of 110 pieces will be heard through the Columbia Broadcasting System, of which the local station is WMAL. There will be 20 or more Sunday afternoon concerts, 10 children's and 5 young people's concerts, the last-named to be heard on Saturday mornings.

William S. Paley, president of Columbia, said that the broadcasting of the orchestra, one of the largest in the United States, which was recently formed by merging the old Philharmonic and New York Symphony orchestras, was motivated by the expense of traveling, which has necessitated the orchestra's canceling future appearances in Washington, Baltimore and certain other cities.

The broadcasting of the concerts has been heretofore done exclusively by Station WOR, of Newark, on Sunday afternoons, but Washingtonians have frequently had difficulty picking up this station during the daylight hours. The present conductor of the Philharmonic is Ernest Schelling. The last conductor of the New York Symphony before it combined with the Philharmonic was Walter Damrosch.

Horse Steps Upon Man Just Hit by Automobile

An automobile and a horse caused leg and foot injuries to Richard Shorter, colored, 30 years old, of 609 Freedman's court, a street cleaner for the District, in quick succession yesterday morning.

Shorter was crossing Fifth street at Q street northwest, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Timothy W. Fisher, of 1828 Seventh street northwest, police said. Before he could regain his feet, he was stepped on by a horse, attached to a wagon driven by John Myers, of 2446 Georgia avenue northwest, police also reported.

no surprises or sensations at tomorrow's plenary session. Mr. Stimson at a late hour tonight had not written his speech, but it was intimated that this would follow the general tenor of his remarks on submarines in his speech recently broadcast to America.

Premier MacDonald, reporting in the House of Commons today on the progress of the conference, said: "I can say with confidence that progress is being made all along the line. We are nearing an agreement on difficult questions relating to a method of limitation of naval armaments which for years have been a stumbling block to progress in the preparatory commission of the League of Nations. In addition, we are engaging in frank discussions with other delegations with regard to an equilibrium of naval strength to be established between the powers, and I have every hope that we shall ultimately reach an agreement also on this difficult problem.

Time Not Wasted, He Says.

"Everything is being done which can be done to prevent waste of time, but the House will readily realize that to rush delicate negotiations of this description in which foreign powers are concerned would be likely to cause disaster."

The subcommittee, which has been struggling with the dispute over whether navies should be limited by total tonnage or by classes of ships, referred its troubles to the committee of the whole, called "Committee No. 1," today without having been able to agree on anything, a failure disguised by the communique issued.

The subcommittee has prepared a table for Committee No. 1 to consider at a meeting scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, but this is a table of contents, not of agreements, but of wishes expressed by the various powers. There are also attached a great number of reservations by all the powers on points of detail.

For example, Great Britain asks for a maximum limit if from 7,000 to 7,500 tons on light cruisers. Japan agrees with Great Britain on this point; France and the United States disagree.

Minimum Limit in Dispute.

Japan wants 2,500 tons set as a minimum limit for light cruisers and Great Britain suggests 1,850 tons. France agrees with Japan. The point of this dispute is that the French want their large destroyer leaders, which exceed 1,850 tons, placed in the light cruiser class so they won't be affected when it comes to limiting destroyers.

Great Britain wants a maximum of 5-inch guns allowed for destroyers and destroyer leaders; France desires bigger guns in the latter class.

These illustrations show some of the innumerable complexities now that the powers have come to grips on concrete figures.

France, it is understood, will give out her total tonnage figures for her whole navy probably tomorrow, if not Wednesday. The Italian naval staff here has worked out the French claim, on the basis of the French naval status of 1924, as 644,000 tons to be attained by 1936, but in French circles it is thought a higher figure will be set up.

712,900 Tons Authorized.

France now has built or building and authorized 712,900 tons, but this has no relation to the figure she will place before the conference because it includes 66,000 tons of special vessels not included in the global amount and also 105,000 tons of obsolete tonnage to be scrapped.

From the British viewpoint the possibility of carrying out the agreed cruiser compromise with the United States depends upon what ships France proposes to build with this tonnage and especially on whether fast battle cruisers, of a type in some ways superior to anything now afloat, are contemplated by France as a reply to the German pocket battleship, the Ersatz Preusen.

Japan, it was intimated today at Japanese headquarters, will name no figures until after the election in Japan ten days hence, and then may be content to put forward her claims without replying to the United States memorandum.

Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow saw Tsuneo Matsudairo, Japanese Ambassador here today, but nothing was said about their interview.

U. S. and Japanese Viewpoints.

The Americans here feel that they have made some concessions in offering Japan 12 ships carrying 8-inch guns against 18 American, a ratio as the Americans put it at 66 2-3 per cent, or nearly all Japan asks.

The Japanese don't see it that way. The twelve ships offered by the Americans include only eight 10,000-ton cruisers carrying 8-inch guns to oppose 18 American ships so armed. The other four Japanese ships, the United States appears to wish to class as 8-inch gun cruisers on a par with bigger ones, are of the Fukutara class of 7,100 tons carrying only 6 eight-inch guns each, and a Japanese authority triumphantly told me tonight, as spiking the American suggestion that Japan should be content with this, that First Lord the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, speaking in the House of Commons last month, classed these four Fukutara ships as light cruisers and not as Washington treaty cruisers at all.

no word of an American superbattleship. Rumors originally emanating from the naval section of the United States mission, who are surprisingly vocal considering that statesmen are supposed to be running the conference, finally crystallized in an inspired statement in today's London Times that the United States had asked the right to build a 33,900-ton battleship if she scrapped four instead of three old battleships.

Fact Could Not Be Denied.

This could not be denied because it is true; Mr. Stimson had this proposal embodied in the memorandum which he took to Mr. MacDonald early last week. Why was not the subject mentioned in the summary of American proposals issued to the whole world Thursday? Admittedly the effect on British opinion of such a revelation after it was thought the United States' battleship plans were announced was most unfortunate, and a clean breast of the error was made in an authoritative American quarter today.

Two newspapermen asked questions Thursday of a member of our delegation which that statesman assumed, erroneously it turned out, to mean that his interviewers knew the terms of the American memorandum. Immediately a hasty summary of the American memorandum was prepared and given out to the press within a few hours to prevent unauthorized anticipation. This was done so hurriedly that nobody noticed that the proposal for a new battleship was left out.

That is the explanation given of an omission that greatly upset some of the other powers represented here and gave an opportunity for such ill-natured jibes as that the United States was proposing a battleship holiday for every power—except herself—the lines on which, she persuaded other nations to establish and bind themselves to the League of Nations.

Big Ship May Never Be Built.

The super-Rodney proposal, it was authoritatively explained by an informed American, does not mean necessarily that the United States will ever build such a ship. It is doubtful whether Congress would vote the necessary $50,000,000. Moreover, Mr. Stimson told Mr. MacDonald, it is not proposed to lay down the ship until 1934, so that she would not be finished until 1936 or 1937.

If there was some American blundering, there seems to have been an English mistake as well, for Mr. MacDonald is understood to have said he did not think his people would object to this new battleship. If he did say that, he has been rudely undeceived.

Coupled with this battleship surprise British opinion also for two days had to swallow a false Washington story which was given a two-day run by our delegation before denial, that the United States had asked Great Britain to scrap not her five oldest battleships but her newer Queen Elizabeths. But after the naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph had fulminated against this in high-sounding terms today and threatened resignation of the sea lords, the Americans made clear that the story was a fake. A copy of the memorandum of American suggestions was shown to Mr. MacDonald in which the British ships marked down to be scrapped are the Benbow, Emperor of India, Marlborough, Iron Duke and Tiger—the five oldest.

Ship Could Be Insisted Upon.

So for the present the battleship issue is solved. There is little doubt the United States can force the new superbattleship down British throats if she insists, but the moral cost must be considered and there is reason to believe that some Americans here agree with this view and hope that the ship will not be built, defending our claim to it by the pressure of our naval authorities who hold high opinions of the British battleships, the Nelson and the Rodney, which they claim outclass our battleships.

In return the British cite the gunpower of the two battleship fleets as reduced according to American proposals to twelve battleships each without the new American wonder ship—and these tables show that the American fleet would have 24 16-inch guns against 18 British, 124 14-inch guns against 100 British and 12 12-inch guns against no British, not to mention other inestimable advantages.

A conference summed it all up well in the comment, "Our admirals think your fleet is better than ours. Your admirals think our fleet is better than theirs. Let the politicians swap the two battle fleets. The admirals will hate that and will trade 'em back again and keep quiet afterward."

CARDINAL PACELLI.

CARDINAL PACELLI TAKES PAPAL POST

ANNIVERSARY IS MARKED

Vatican City, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Cardinal Pacelli, former papal nuncio at Berlin, today took over the office of secretary of state from Cardinal Gasparri, who had served in that post for the past sixteen years.

Today was the eve of the first anniversary of the signing of the lateran accords which, according to tonight's Observatore Romano, "thanks to the charity of a father, the wisdom of a king and the genius of a statesman, brought back religious peace to Italy."

The entire Roman press commented upon the anniversary, saying that the year had demonstrated plainly the important character of the event not only in Italy but throughout the world.

Pope Hears Fascist Secretary.

The visit of Augusto Turati, secretary of the Fascist party, to the Pope last week, is believed to have done much to smooth over outstanding divergencies between the papacy and the Fascist state, and it is felt that conditions auger well for the initiation of the service of the new papal secretary of state.

During the day the Pope gave an audience to Cardinal Pacelli lasting for more than two hours. The new secretary of state then went to his office where he received several of the diplomats credited to the Holy See.

Cardinal Gasparri, who is 77 years old, possibly may receive Italy's highest decoration, the Collar of Annunziata, making him a titular "cousin of the king." At the same time he will receive the insignia of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor from France at a formal farewell ceremony.

Italy Will Celebrate Today.

Italy will celebrate tomorrow's anniversary with flags flown on all public buildings while the Holy See will plant his standards, for the first time in 60 years, on the newly reacquired Castel Gandolfo, destined to be the Pope's summer residence.

Count De Vecchi, one of the Fascist quadrumviri of the march on Rome, will give a reception as Italian ambassador to the Holy See and on Wednesday Mgr. Borgongini Duca, papal nuncio to Italy, will give a reception in honor of the eighth anniversary of the Pope's coronation.

Dreyfus Witness In Hiding, Is Belief

Assistant District Attorney Unable to Get Reply to Subpena in Chicago.

The possibility that James E. Dowd, Chicago broker wanted here for questioning by the grand jury in connection with the Dreyfus case, may have gone into seclusion to evade service of a subpena to bring him to Washington was seen yesterday as all efforts by Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw to discover Dowd's whereabouts were unsuccessful.

Dowd, who last week announced his readiness to "tell all," provided he was "formally sworn before a grand jury," was due to have arrived in Washington in answer to a subpena issued several days ago. When he did not arrive Mr. Burkinshaw dispatched several inquiries, but all went unanswered.

The Chicagoan was a former business associate of Edmund J. McBrien, New York broker who was the companion of Mrs. Aurelia Fischer Dreyfus at a Potomac Boat Club dance, when she fell or was pushed from a balcony to her death last October 20.

Dowd is quoted as saying that he had "startling information" concerning the linking of the two cases.

Four Hurt as Fascist Paper Plant Is Bombed

Both legs of Guido Neri, a reporter, were amputated at a hospital and he was in danger of death. The police immediately started an investigation.

D.A.R. HEAD ANSWERS DR. PARKER'S CHARGE

SOCIAL WORKER RESIGNS

With the declaration that the United States "must be kept for Americans," and affirming the stand of the Daughters of the American Revolution on armaments for the United States as "one for adequate military, naval and air preparedness," Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R. Society, yesterday answered charges that the organization was a militarist body and against world peace.

The charges were made by Dr. Valeria A. Parker, of New York, who resigned because of alleged support by the D. A. R. of large armament programs in Congress. Dr. Parker's resignation was received yesterday, together with a letter stating her reasons. It was accepted automatically.

President General Hobart had little to say about Dr. Parker, who is prominent in the field of social service and education.

"It is hard to tell what a woman's real reason is," Mrs. Hobart, who had a son in the World War, said. "Perhaps she wanted publicity. Oh, we have had and will have a number like her, I suppose. Every large organization must have them. But I deny the truth of what Dr. Parker said about our society supporting large armaments."

Mrs. Hobart, a motherly person, had called the reporters to her offices in the Memorial Continental Hall. She frankly offered to answer any questions.

"It does bring up to mind the 'black list' charges against the D. A. R. of two years ago," she said at one time. "Yes, this charge by Dr. Parker looks like a concerted movement of the discontents. But with a membership which has increased by 7,325 in the last year, I should imagine that we will be able to get along without Dr. Parker.

"We regret her action, and her letter given to the press long before it reached us, but, oh well, what's the use * * *?"

Employe of Store Beaten and Robbed

Clerk Is Struck Down Soon After Entering Place in Morning.

Knocked unconscious and robbed, Joseph Hirshman, 62 years old, of 4815 Georgia avenue northwest, a clerk at the Capitol Five and Ten Cent Store, 1248 Seventh street northwest, was found on the floor of the store about 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Mr. Hirshman was discovered by Ernest Fields, colored, of 618 M street northwest, a trash man. Mr. Hirshman, it was learned, was an early arrival at the store yesterday morning, and he is believed to have been attacked soon after entering the establishment.

Mr. Hirshman was taken to Emergency Hospital and treated for severe scalp lacerations. He was later removed to his home. The clerk discovered that he had been robbed of $10 in bills and $5 in change. He told police that all he recalled was being hit with a blunt instrument.

Runaway Tractor Crushes Two Men

Machine Goes Wild Along Houston Street; Cars Are Smashed.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An ambling tractor turned engine of destruction here today, crushing out two lives and wrecking a dozen motor cars as it ran wild in a street.

The machine, a combination tractor-grader used in street construction, began its swath of destruction when the driver, A. McCarthy, lost his balance in rounding a corner and fell beneath it to be ground to death. The uncontrolled tractor lumbered its way, battering and smashing automobiles.

Wade Gatewood, a pedestrian, essayed to stop the wild charges as other frightened persons fled to safety. He met the fate of the driver. Gatewood, employed by the State highway department as a tractor operator, leaped on the machine and grasped the emergency brake. It broke and he was thrown under the plunging monster. The machine continued its destructive progress for more than 100 feet before it came to a stop.

WURZBACH SEATED AS HOUSE MEMBER

Republican Who Laid Fraud Charge to Democrat, Wins Contest.

CHARGES ARE UPHELD

(Associated Press.)

Harry M. Wurzbach was seated yesterday as representative from the Fourteenth Texas District, ending a controversy between himself and Augustus McClosky that sprang up immediately after the 1928 elections with the charge by Mr. Wurzbach that his Democratic opponent had been seated by fraudulent alterations of returns.

While the elections committee in its report said only that Mr. Wurzbach had been elected and Mr. McCloskey had failed of election, Chairman Sears, of the group which investigated the contest, said on the floor that the fraud charges had been substantiated.

The elections committee was roundly criticized last night by Representative O'Connor (Republican), Oklahoma, who resigned from the committee yesterday because the report filed did "not make any finding of fraud, and, in my opinion, such a finding should have been made."

Mr. O'Connor said he resigned because his further insistance on making a finding of fraud "would have been a futile effort and could have resulted only in longer keeping out of his seat a duly elected member of Congress."

Chairman Sears told the House that the evidence which substantiated the fraud charges could be found in the record. The committee concluded, he said, with the exception of the Oklahoman, that the report presented would save a "good deal of rancorous talk here."

After adoption by the House of the committee report, Mr. Wurzbach, the only Republican member from Texas since reconstruction days, was sworn as a member.

doing precisely what the State Department characterized as "against the spirit of the conference." As Mr. Cotton has been kept advised of each important step at London, and as the American delegation has taken pains to communicate freely and frequently with Washington, the conflicting statements added somewhat to the confusion that has characterized last week's developments at London.

The stormy seas to be encountered this week are regarded as more dangerous to ultimate success of the conference than the squalls of dissension which have so far annoyed and embarrassed the respective delegations. The chief fear now is that Premier Tardieu's statement of French policy will seriously jeopardize the prearranged Anglo-American accord set forth late last week by the Stimson and MacDonald statements.

The fact that Secretary Stimson failed to inform M. Tardieu that the American statement was to be made public further nettled the leader of the French delegation. Apparently Secretary Stimson's hand was forced in making public the American statement without notifying M. Tardieu that he was about to do so. It develops that one of the American correspondents at London obtained detailed information as to the purport of the statement which Mr. Stimson was holding in reserve for use at the proper moment.

The correspondent imparted his information to Ambassador Dawes, who forthwith informed Mr. Stimson. The American Secretary made a hurried visit to Mr. MacDonald and it was decided to make public the American statement at once in order to avoid criticism which Mr. Stimson feared would result from an unfriendly unofficial presentation.

It is now Tardieu's turn to make a statement of French policy if he so desires and it is an open secret that whatever the French premier says may have a profound effect on the fate of any Anglo-American accord for limitation or reduction. Unless France cooperates, the British program of limitation can not be put into operation for the British program must be based on the size of the future French navy.

No surprise will be felt if M. Tardieu announces that France intends to construct 12 cruisers of 10,000 tons, an unlimited number of smaller cruisers two 18,000 supercruisers to meet the menace of Germany's Ersatz Preussen and an aggregate tonnage of 135,000 in submarines.

These definite figures may be held in reserve but the present mood of the French premier is to strike straight from the shoulder.

Blessing in Disguise.

The American delegation will not be dismayed by the anticipated objection of France and Japan to abolishing the submarine. In promoting Anglo-American accord, the United States went on record as favoring the British policy of abolishing the submarine. But any treaty providing for such abolition would meet a sad fate in the United States Senate, according to all indications, so that the technical defeat of this part of the Anglo-American program may be a blessing in disguise.

The reported request of the American delegation to build a giant battleship, coupled with the statement that such a ship will probably never be actually built if permission is granted, has added the crowning note of confusion to the proceedings.

It is realized that such confusion is to be expected during complicated and delicate international negotiations but the London conference has reached the bewildering stage sooner than anticipated.

FREE BRICKS BARRED BY SENATE TIE VOTE

Tariff Amendment Beaten 36 to 36 as Business Conditions Are Argued.

SPEEDY ACTION IS URGED

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday declined by a tie vote to return building brick to the free list during a session on the tariff bill which was marked by charges and by denials that the Republican administration was failing to meet unemployment and general business problems.

The vote on brick, the most important of the day, came on a proposal of Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, to eliminate the proposed tariff of $1.25 a thousand on plain and $1.50 on glazed brick. A tie, 36 to 36, resulted and the amendment was rejected.

Senator Barkley served notice he will demand a separate vote later.

Eleven Republicans and 25 Democrats voted for free bricks, while 32 Republicans and 4 Democrats favored a duty.

Unemployment Is Argued.

Unemployment conditions were brought to the fore for the second time within a week when Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, arguing for protection for the brick industry, asserted more workers would be thrown out of employment in the Hudson River district if a tariff were denied the brick producers.

Previously, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, had asserted that business was "lagging" and in a state of uncertainty as to orders in view of the long tariff debate. He urged speedy action and was joined in this plea by leaders of all other factions.

Seizing upon the point raised by Senator Copeland, Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, asserted the Democratic party has a "very excellent chance to win the next election, if it uses care and does not go to extremes during the consideration of the pending bill and will take advantage of the general discontent in this country that is prevailing in all quarters."

Take No Holiday, Watson Plea.

In appealing to the Senate not to take any adjournment over Lincoln's Birthday, tomorrow, Senator Watson said:

"The country is anxiously awaiting action. Our duty is to stay here and work at this problem. Business is lagging and industry, in some instances I know, is waiting for us to pass the bill. Wholesalers and retailers do not know what the future will develop, what orders to give, what business to take. If we represent the business interests in this as we do in other things, it is up to us to pass this bill."

The only other important vote of the day saw the defeat, 42 to 32, of an amendment by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, for a flat rate of 2½ cents a pound on all starches. The bill provides an increase in duty on potato starch and starches not specifically mentioned in the measure. Under the Kansan's proposal, all of these would have been made dutiable at 2½ cents along with tapioca, sago, cassava and arrowroot starches, now on the free list.

Owner Claims Dog Rescued From Ice

Virginian Reads Story in Post and Comes to Take His Pet.

The collied dog rescued from an island of ice in the Potomac River Sunday was back at home yesterday.

His master, J. W. Barton, who lives near Simpson's boathouse on the Virginia side of the river, read The Post yesterday morning, saw the story about the marooned dog and inquired at the Animal Rescue League, where he discovered that the canine hero of the story was his own pet.

The dog, answering to the name of Boy, might have been in dog heaven today if it were not for J. F. Windsor, of 3418 Connecticut avenue, who saw the animal from a train crossing the Potomac River. Mr. Windsor sent a telegram from Richmond to his brother here, and in this way Boy was rescued.

Cheering Reports Come From Taft

Physicians Say He May Be Able to Emerge From Sick Room.

(Associated Press.)

Cheering reports that continued to come from the bedside of William Howard Taft lessened the tension yesterday of friends who have been watching his condition anxiously since his return last Tuesday from Asheville, N. C.

Already the former President and Chief Justice has shown such a marked improvement that his physicians have said that he might recover his strength sufficiently to leave the sick room. Notwithstanding, they reminded that his illness was a serious one and there were warnings against overoptimism. He is suffering from a weakened heart, a breakdown of his circulatory system and a recurrence of a bladder complaint.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Virginia Senate today adopted a joint resolutoin deploring the illness of William Howard Taft and expressing the wishes of the General Assembly for the early recovery of the former President and Chief Justice

Prosecutor Accused in Rum Plot Holds Killing Justifiable.

102 UNDER INDICTMENT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 10 (A P.).—Randall Pittman, county attorney of Pottawatomie County and a defendant in the liquor conspiracy case on trial in Federal Court here, today was questioned regarding an unprosecuted murder case and in action in other purported law violations.

On cross-examination Pittman testified he took no action against Oscar Motley, deputy sheriff, in connection with the killing of Harold McChesney, oil operator, at Earlsboro in 1927, because an investigation by Leroy Cooper, then an assistant county attorney, and other officers convinced him the killing was justified. Motley, now dead, has been named in testimony as director of collections of protection money from bootleggers.

The way to the questioning was opened when Pittman testified on direct examination as to his record as prosecutor, asserting he had instituted at various times criminal actions against 26 of the 101 other persons indicted by the Government in the conspiracy case.

"Didn't your assistant tell you that a gun was planted at the side of the dead man and that the gun had been seen in the sheriff's office several days before?" Pittman was asked by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney.

"I can't remember if he did," Pittman replied.

Lewis asked the county attorney if it was not a fact that Clyde Pittman, his brother, and J. W. (Smoky) Motsenbacher, "are now operating a line of slot machines in Pottawatomie County and that Clyde Pittman is receiving 17 per cent of the receipts from the machines."

Pittman answered he did not know.

A record purporting to show that Pittman dismissed 231 cases in County Court alone since he has been county attorney was introduced by Lewis. The record also showed that during the same period, 135 pleas of guilty had been obtained, 42 convictions and 19 acquittals.

WASHINGTON STATE DRY INQUIRY ASKED

LaGuardia Demands Senate Quiz When Jones Denies Halting Investigation.

(Associated Press.)

A denial by Senator Jones (Rep.), Washington, that he had halted an inquiry by the Justice Department into the work of prohibition enforcement officers in his State was met yesterday by a demand from Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), New York, for a Senate investigation of conditions there.

Senator Jones sent his denial in a letter replying to a charge made in the House by Mr. LaGuardia on Saturday. Answering the dry leader several hours later, the New York wet urged that a special Senate committee be created to conduct the inquiry.

Mr. LaGuardia wrote: "Every one knows that Puget Sound is the receiving point for wholesale liquor in such enormous quantities and in daily shipments to such an extent that such conditions could not exist without the knowledge and connivance of the very officials entrusted with the enforcement of the law."

Senator Jones said in his letter to Mr. LaGuardia, "I have never sought to stop the investigation of any prohibition agent by the Department of Justice or any other department of the Government.

"On the contrary," he added, "I assert most emphatically that I have insisted upon fair, full and complete investigation in every case of this kind that has come to my attention."

"Let the officials who have been accusing each other in your State come before a committee and tell all they know," said LaGuardia.

"I doubt not your sincerity in the cause of prohibition, but I was somewhat surprised that with the conditions existing in your State, you still adhere to the belief that prohibition is a success."

Five Are Arrested In Series of Raids

Letterman Squad Makes Forays Against Alleged Rum, Gaming Dives.

In a series of early morning liquor and gambling raids today, Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and his aids, Detective Richard J. Cox and Policemen F. A. Truscott and J. A. Mostyn arrested five people and seized a large quantity of assorted liquors.

After first arranging for a delivery on I street northwest, the squad raided an apartment on California street near Seventeenth street northwest and arrested James Palmer, 24, of Seventeenth street near Irving street northwest, and Russell Baker, of Twelfth street near N street northwest on charges of possession of liquor. They seized two gallons of alcohol, 22 pints of gin 7 quarts of bacardi rum, 8 pints of rye and some bottles.

The men were seized when they delivered some goods on I street, but they broke the bottles in the street. A charge for this was placed against them. Within a few minutes the same raiders visited a house on Fourteenth street near Belmont, and arrested James Magruder, 38 years old, and Leonard Duffell, 25 years old, both on charges of sale and possession. Four and one-half quarts of liquor were seized.

In a third raid on I street near Fourteenth street northwest, 27 men, alleged visitors in a gambling house, were listed as witnesses. Edward S. Ford, 27 years old, was arrested for permitting gaming.

ALCOHOL DIVERSION IS CHARGED TO 186

Nation-wide Plot Centered Around Redistilled Perfume Method.

YEAST COMPANY NAMED

Chicago, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Striking at bootleg alcohol, one of the major problems of enforcement, the United States Government delivered three major blows today.

A conspiracy indictment was brought here against 155 individuals and 31 firms and corporations, charging them with complicity in a conspiracy which has diverted more than 1,000,000 gallons of alcohol a year for seven years. The plot is said to have extended from coast to coast.

The Great Corn Products Co., the Fleischmann Yeast Co. and 17 alleged bootleggers were indicted in Springfield, Ill., on charges of conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

Former Dry Agents Named.

Three former prohibition agents, four employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Glenwood Industrial Distilling Co. and three of its officers were indicted in Philadelphia on the charge of diverting 115,000 gallons of alcohol in two years.

Anastassoff Srebren, Bulgarian perfume chemist, was named as the king pin of the organization. He discovered a method of extracting essential oils from perfumes, the Government charges, and through his discovery conspirators have converted the products into drinkable alcohol.

Of the $35,000,000 estimated as profit on alcohol diverted, it is charged, he received a fat share. He was on the pay roll of approximately 30 concerns engaged in violating the dry laws, it is alleged, usually as an adviser to the still operators.

Clew Found in Chicago.

The indictment also names St. Paul, Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Minneapolis and North Bergen, N. J., as scenes of one or more of the 287 overt acts charged against the ring.

The first clew to the conspiracy was found last July in Chicago, when agents discovered thousands of substandard toilet products capable of being redistilled into pure grain alcohol.

Alexander G. Jamie, chief of the special prohibition unit in Chicago, was placed in charge of the investigation. He was assisted by agents in a dozen other cities. When the evidence was finally accumulated, it was taken before the December Federal grand jury.

List Is Notable.

Bench warrants had been prepared for the arrest of all the persons named in the indictment and were issued immediately. The list of those indicted was notable for the entire absence of names known in Chicago gangland, all of those named being officials of the various companies, or their employes. No prohibition officials were involved in the present case.

The Chicago firms indicted included:

Arend Drug Co., Cantrapher Pharmacal Co., Chicago Toilet Supply Co., Columbia Bottles Products Co., Century Laboratories, Inc., Chicago Sales & Distributing Co., Godiva Co., Holman Soap Co., Humboldt Drug Co., and Le Roy Manufacturing Co.

The out-of-town firms named included Nipola Co. of St. Paul and Standard Laboratories of St. Louis.

Two Taxi Drivers Victims of Pair of Footpads; Losses Small.

Two Negroes, armed with a rifle, held up two taxi drivers a short time apart in the northwest section last night, to escape with an insignificant amount of money, following a similar holdup the previous night.

Ernest B. Lyon, of 811 Tuckerman street northwest, was robbed of $1 by the pair of footpads at Tenth and W streets northwest when the men stepped from the taxi after having ordered Lyon to drive them to that corner.

Earlier in the night the two Negroes at Seventh and R streets northwest boarded a taxi driven by William Bedford, colored, of 1939 Thirteenth street northwest, and instructed him to drive them to Seventh and Girard streets northwest. On nearing that corner they cowed him with the rifle, emptied his pockets of $1.65 and escaped.

twice before I lapsed into unconsciousness."

Assailants in Hospital.

The policeman awakened later at the hospital, unable to explain how he arrived there. Henderson, suffering from the bullet wound, and his wife, apparently struck over the head during the alteraction, were taken to Freedmen's Hospital. Her injury was not regarded as serious.

Acting on information given him by the Harrison woman, Second Precinct Detective J. F. Flaherty arrested Robert Harrison a short time after the affray at the latter's home. The detective said Harrison readily admitted participation in the fight and that the man led him to the rear of the oyster shop, where he dug out from coal ashes the missing night stick and revolver of Policeman Foster, which Harrison was said to have concealed there.

ENFORCEMENT QUIZ ASKED BY WHEELER

Montana Senator Declares Dry Law Has Experienced Complete Breakdown.

(Associated Press.)

While preparations were going ahead for the first congressional hearing on proposals for modification and for repeal of the prohibition law, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, introduced a resolution yesterday for a thoroughgoing investigation of Volstead enforcement.

The House judiciary committee tomorrow begins what is expected to be a protracted airing of the dry-wet controversy. The outlook is for the appearance of numerous prominent persons to testify, with prohibition opponents being heard first. The first witnesses were named yesterday.

Mr. Wheeler, who voted dry in Montana ten years ago, declared in the Senate there was "a complete breakdown of prohibition enforcement." He was challenged by Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, with a reply that the dry law has been a "gratifying and tremendous success." The Texan sponsored the eighteenth amendment.

Referred to Committee.

The Wheeler resolution, after this brief outburst, was referred to the judiciary committee, which the Montana senator had recommended make the inquiry. Chairman Norris of this committee said it would be considered at the regular meeting next Monday. There was no indication of the sentiment in the Senate toward the proposal.

Chairman Graham, of the House judiciary committee, has said that all persons who want to appear at the prohbition hearings will be heard. The association against the prohibition amendment has named some of its most widely known members to be called, including W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Samuel Harden Church, of Philadelphia, president of the Carnegie Institute; Pierre S. duPont, chairman of the board of the E. I. duPont de Nemours Co.; Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, president of the New York Academy of Medicine; Grayson M.-P. Murphy, New York financier; Linsley R. Williams, director of the New York Academy of Medicine, and Frederick R. Coudert, New York lawyer.

Henry H. Curran, president, and William H. Stayton, chairman of the board for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, will be among the witnesses.

Committee Gets Transfer Bill.

Legislative activity on prohibition topics was lacking through the day. The House bill transferring enforcement responsibilities from the Treasury to the Justice Department was referred to the Senate judiciary committee.

Senator Wheeler told the Senate he would press for action on his resolution, but even if the committee makes an early report, it is unlikely that the Senate will give consideration to it until the tariff bill is out of the way. In the preamble of the measure Senator Wheeler concluded, "Congress should have authoritative information as to whether the complete breakdown of the prohibition enforcement is due to the inefficiency, corruption, or lack of sympathy on the part of the majority of the people with the law, before enacting other laws or appropriating huge sums of money for its enforcement."

In the House two bills were introduced by Representative Christopherson (Republican), South Dakota, to carry out other recommendations of the law enforcement commission. They would provide for service of padlock injunctions by publication, and for seizure by any State officer of vehicles carrying liquor.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, a wet, introduced a bill to repeal the national prohibition act, in accordance with the plan suggested by Representative Beck (Republican wet), Pennsylvania, in the House Friday.

agents had been living at the hotel, shifting from room to room.

Other agents, he said, dined in the hotel dining room regularly in their effort to gain evidence.

The management of the hotel said tonight, more than an hour after the time given for the raid, that no arrests had been made in the hotel.

Maj. Campbell said his men had no difficulty obtaining evidence. They simply took rooms in the hotel, he said, and did not even have to ask for liquor. Bellboys solicited them to buy, the prohibition administrator declared. The agents, he continued, gave the money to the bellboys, and the bootleggers, who had quarters outside the hotel, made the deliveries.

LOWMAN INDORSES FLYNN'S DISMISSAL

Papers in Case to Be Sent for Review by Civil Service Commission.

COURT ACTION SCOUTED

In so far as the Prohibition Bureau and the Treasury Department are concerned "finis" was written to the case of Capt. Frank S. Flynn, former Prohibition Bureau clerk, yesterday afternoon, when Assistant Secretary Seymour Lowman approved the recommendation of the bureau that Flynn be dismissed from the service for "insubordination."

The official papers now go to the United States Civil Service Commission for review and in the event that the commission finds nothing irregular, or contrary to law, with the procedure by which Flynn was charged and dismissed, the dismissal will become a part of the commission's records.

Prohibition and Treasury Department officials scout the threat of Capt. Flynn to carry the case to the civil courts. One official pointed out that in the two letters Capt. Flynn made public to the press before forwarding them to Commissioner Doran, he failed to make public the specific nature of the charges.

Grand Stand Play Charged.

"Flynn is playing to the grandstand; trying to create public sentiment in his favor," said this official. "He is loudly denying the charges filed against him, saying that he was given a 'raw deal,' yet it was noticeable in the two letters to Commissioner Doran, which he made public before they ever reached the Prohibition Bureau, that he evaded discussing the charges that led to his dismissal."

Assistant Secretary Lowman emphatically denied that any prohibition investigators, as reported, had been "snooping" about Senator Wheeler's office.

"It wouldn't surprise me in the least to positively know that someone has been shadowing the senator from Montana and others," said Mr. Lowman.

Discharged Agents in Town.

"I have been informed that right now there are fully a score or more of discharged former prohibition agents in Washington, many of them with an ax to grind as a result of their dismissal. That they are trying to create news by 'snooping' tactics does not surprise me in the least.

"However, you can say for me that neither the department nor the prohibition unit has ever instituted a 'snooping' campaign against any member of Congress. If one or more of our agents have shadowed any senator or representative he or they have done so without the knowledge of the bureau or the department.

"It is a practice we will not stand for and in the event of a case of this kind being brought to our attention the guilty person will be summarily dealt with."

Austria, Italy Agree To Arbitrate Disputes

Vienna, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The newspaper Neue Freie Presse said today that in the 10-year friendship, conciliation and arbitration treaty just concluded between Austria and Italy both countries undertook to submit disputes and conflicts of all kinds to a conciliation board, which must pronounce judgment within six months.

If the board fails, the case is to be sent to the permanent Court of International Justice at The Hague.

CRUSADERS TO FIGHT ANTISALOON LEAGUE

Organization Will Seek 10,000,000 Votes for Modification.

WIDE PLANS ARE LAID

New York, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Plans whereby it hopes to adopt the strategy of the Antisaloon League to fight that organization and bring about the end of prohibition were outlined tonight by The Crusaders, an association which, under the leadership of a score of young men from America's upper frings of finance, hopes to enroll 10,000,000 young men into a great nonpartisan voting blow—the 10,000,000 votes to go for candidates who advocate modification.

"We're not wet, we're not dry—join The Crusaders and substitute real temperance for prohibition intemperance." This was adopted as the organization's slogan at a meeting of the leaders held tonight at the Park Lane Hotel.

Building up of a strong nonpartisan voting strength, the tactics employed by the Antisaloon League, will be the primary objective of The Crusaders. Both organizations, incidentally, had their genisis in Ohio the latter having been initiated about three months ago by a group of young Cleveland business men.

Fred G. Clark, of Cleveland, with the title commander in chief, was in charge of tonight's meeting, and the program being mapped out calls for the organization of units of crusaders in every city of 100,000 or more within six months, and of every city of 25,000 or more within a year. Organization meetings will be held this week in Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee, and next week in Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Columbus.

Among those present at tonight's meeting were Charles A. Sabin, jr., Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Avery Rockefeller, William D. Carr, Lamont duPont 3d, Charles S. Payson, John Hay Whitney, John S. Williams and Sturtevant Erdmann, all of New York, and Charles A. Otis, John A. Newell and Dean Solenberger, of Cleveland.

Noted Orchestra On Radio Network

New York Musicians Sign to Broadcast Over Columbia System.

A contract was signed last night whereby the concerts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra of 110 pieces will be heard through the Columbia Broadcasting System, of which the local station is WMAL. There will be 20 or more Sunday afternoon concerts, 10 children's and 5 young people's concerts, the last-named to be heard on Saturday mornings.

William S. Paley, president of Columbia, said that the broadcasting of the orchestra, one of the largest in the United States, which was recently formed by merging the old Philharmonic and New York Symphony orchestras, was motivated by the expense of traveling, which has necessitated the orchestra's canceling future appearances in Washington, Baltimore and certain other cities.

The broadcasting of the concerts has been heretofore done exclusively by Station WOR, of Newark, on Sunday afternoons, but Washingtonians have frequently had difficulty picking up this station during the daylight hours. The present conductor of the Philharmonic is Ernest Schelling. The last conductor of the New York Symphony before it combined with the Philharmonic was Walter Damrosch.

Horse Steps Upon Man Just Hit by Automobile

An automobile and a horse caused leg and foot injuries to Richard Shorter, colored, 30 years old, of 609 Freedman's court, a street cleaner for the District, in quick succession yesterday morning.

Shorter was crossing Fifth street at Q street northwest, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Timothy W. Fisher, of 1828 Seventh street northwest, police said. Before he could regain his feet, he was stepped on by a horse, attached to a wagon driven by John Myers, of 2446 Georgia avenue northwest, police also reported.

RED ENVOY'S PAPERS SEIZED BY MEXICANS

Agents Search Legation; Minister Claims He and His Wife Were Arrested.

DOCUMENTS NOT KEPT

Mexico City, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Estrada tonight said he had ordered the papers and documents seized in the luggage of Alexander Makar, recalled Russian Minister to Mexico, at Vera Cruz yesterday to be returned to him. No obstacles had been placed in the way of M. Makar's sailing for home today.

Pointing out that the Russian legation here no longer enjoyed official status, he said that the raid yesterday was the affair of the police and the department of the interior.

The legation was thoroughly searched and some papers were confiscated. It was said this afternoon that Mexican agents had even torn up some of the floor boards of the building during their search.

Papers Ordered Returned.

Senor Estrada said that he had ordered M. Makar's papers returned as soon as he learned of the searching at Vera Cruz, but earlier reports were that government agents were on their way to Mexico City with important documents they had found.

Secret service agents last night raided the Soviet legation, made a thorough search of all the papers of the departing minister, questioned the servants and arrested Juan Gonzalez, a house servant.

The commercial attache's office was not touched. Legation employes said that various papers, including many personal calling cards, were seized. They said the agents displayed credentials but did not show any written order for the search.

Mr. Makar today sent a telegram to Mexico City correspondents, declaring that he had been arrested and held for three hours at Vera Cruz, during which time diplomatic seals on his trunks were broken and many papers taken out. He said he was energetically protesting against "this unspeakable violation of diplomatic rights and this incredible assault by official persons against me as a diplomat."

Diplomat Files Protest.

His message read:

"Through trickery, I and my wife were taken by the police of Vera Cruz to the terminal warehouse of Vera Cruz and declared under arrest. In spite of my protest and my diplomatic immunity I and my wife were personally searched by policemen. Diplomatic seals were broken open and many things taken out in my absence. We were under arrest about three hours. I energetically protest against this unspeakable violation of diplomatic rights and this incredible assault by official persons against me as a diplomat."

Secretary of the Interior Porres Gil said that the detention of M. Makar at Vera Cruz and the search of his baggage were entirely due to unauthorized action by the local police. The federal authorities had had no part in it.

He refused to comment on the legation raid, other than to say that the department of the interior had nothing to do with it.

Vera Cruz, Mex., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Alexander Makar, Russian Minister to Mexico until the recent break in diplomatic relations between the two countries, sailed for Europe aboard the French liner La Bordelaise this evening.

The former minister attacked the police for "violation of diplomatic rights," charging that they had held him and his wife for three hours yesterday and after breaking diplomatic seals on his trunks had taken out papers.

SIZABLE VOTE WILL BE CAST IN SENATE AGAINST HUGHES

in 54 cases in the last five years, always on the side of corporations of untold wealth. Without in any way charging him with being dishonest or unconscientious, his environment has become a part of him, and this environment would influence him in spite of himself.

Radio Controversy Cited.

"His viewpoint is clouded," the Nebraskan declared. And it is a matter of importance when so many cases involving combines, mergers and the like are coming before the court, Norris declared. He cited the radio controversy as an example.

"Mr. Hughes," he said, "represented a great radio combination in its claim of a vested right in this respect. The air is about the only thing that is left free to the people and if a monopoly is to control that and get a vested right in such control, then the evils which will follow can not be told and human imagination is not sufficiently penetrative to fully realize conditions which will confront civilization in the very near future."

Senator Glass, of Virginia, asked Norris if Mr. Hughes had not once participated in a court decision which "removed every vestige of a State's right." Subsequently he explained that he referred to a case in which the Interstate Commerce Commission was given jurisdiction over a purely intrastate matter. He said he planned to vote against Mr. Hughes.

Norris Speech Surprise.

Senator Norris' speech was a surprise. He had made known from the first that although he opposed Mr. Hughes he questioned the propriety of interfering with the President's appointment in a matter of this kind. The progressives generally explained that they realized that in fighting Mr. Hughes they would be accused of being "Bolsheviks" and would probably not get anywhere.

The Nebraskan explained yesterday that there was much weight to the argument that the people had shown by the last election that they approved of the "extension of mergers, consolidations and big business," but that it would not be perpetuated with his vote.

Mr. Doherty, in his protest to the committee, declared that the tactics of Mr. Hughes and lawyers like him had prevented a solution of the oil problem. The American Petroleum Institute employed him, Mr. Doherty charged, "because of his influence with President Coolidge and Secretary of Commerce Hoover" to prevent the Federal Oil Board from interefering with the oil industry.

Attempt to Clear Skirts Charged.

Mr. Hoover's recent proposal to create a separate oil board in the place of the one now constituted of Cabinet members was the President's efforts to wash his hands of the matter because of political consequences, Mr. Doherty charged.

"Perhaps the extent of the dreams and plans for the political control of the country are known only to the President himself or his political managers," Mr. Doherty declared, "and I do not see how the situation can fail to alarm every thoughtful citizen. If the highest offices in the land are to be distributed as personal favors or to build up an unbreakable political machine, he will drag national politics to the level of ward politics which have at times characterized some of the worst conditions that have prevailed in some of our individual cities."

Conceit is Mr. Hughes' greatest asset, Mr. Doherty declared. His letter, in fact, made it quite evident that he did not like Mr. Hughes.

MONTGOMERY ASKS GREAT FALLS BRIDGE

Amendment of Cramton Bill to Protect Toll Plan Is Sought.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED

Congress was urged to make more definite provisions with regard to a bridge at Great Falls and to preserve the integrity of the Maryland parks in resolutions adopted last night by the Montgomery County Civic Federation meeting in the Woodside School.

The resolution sets forth that the Crampton bill, as passed by the House of Representatives, includes an amendment prohibiting the erection of any toll bridge within the limits of the supposed Potomac River Park, also an amendment authorizing a free bridge, but does not authorize funds for building the bridge except upon the same basis as the Potomac Park development as a whole, namely, one-half to be paid by the Federal Government and one-half by the States of Maryland and Virginia and declared procedure along this line would in all probability delay the construction of a bridge at Great Falls for many years and deprive the public of the use of the toll bridge which has been authorized by Congress and is now in the process of construction.

Change in Bill Asked.

The federation requested Congress to amend the bill so as to eliminate all reference to a bridge at Great Falls, thereby restoring the charter of the private toll bridge company, or to add a section definitely providing for the financing and erection of a free bridge at an early date and not requiring appropriations from the two States.

A special committee was named, consisting of O. M. Kile, J. Bond Smith, J. J. Miller, Col. A. B. Barber and C. A. Corbly, to arrange the conference with the Maryland and Virginia senators to determine which of these plans shall be followed and to assist in securing its enactment into law.

A resolution presented by E. Brooke Lee, which further asked Congress to preserve the integrity of the Montgomery County park system as it is now being organized and carried into into effect under Maryland law, was adopted.

The Cramton bill would give title to these park lands to the Federal Government. The federation reaffirmed its position favoring the granting of a franchise to residents of the District of Columbia.

Burton T. Doyle, delegate from the Rockville Pike Citizens Association, had offered a resolution favoring such suffrage. A resolution advocating a city manager form of government for the county, presented by J. B. Matre, of the North Woodside Citizens Association, was referred to the committee on legislation and legal action, which already is studying the question of securing a charter form of government.

"Fool-Proof" Airplane Is Tested in Germany

Berlin, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—A "fool-proof" plane which refuses to tip over or go into a tail spin was demonstrated before a large group of aeronautical experts and newspaper men at the Tempelhofer Airport today.

The test was made by Herr Von Koeppen, director of the flying section of the German Aeronautical Testing Institute.

Although Von Koeppen tried every conceivable stunt, the machine refused to tip over or tail spin either at full speed or with the motor retarded. He tipped the plane right and left, but the machine always returned to a horizontal position.

Fire-Trapped Girl Hurt in Net Leap

Body Falls to Street After Eight-Story Jump in Blaze.

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—While a crowd estimated at 5,000 looked on, Margaret Paine, 25, one of about 200 employes of seven different firms trapped on the upper floors of a burning building near the Loop, leaped from the eighth story and was probably fatally injured late today when she struck the edge of a life net and fell into the street. All the others escape without serious injury.

A number of firemen and volunteers were unable to support the net under the impact of her body. Witnesses said her body struck a projection on the facade of the building on its way down. Her skull was fractured. Three men also leaped from the eighth floor into the net and suffered no more than minor bruises.

The fire which caused damage estimated at $50,000 was in the Gunther Building at 1018 South Wabash avenue just south of the Loop.

Judge Frees Woman Who Slew Son-in-Law

Taxarkana, Ark., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Municipal Judge Louis Josephs today dismissed a charge of murder against Mrs. Hannah Johnson, 40, for the slaying of her son-in-law, John Porier, 20.

Porier was shot by Mrs. Johnson at the latter's home near here last Saturday. She said he was advancing toward her with a hoe after threatening to kill her entire family. The 14-year-old widow of the slain man, Gertrude Johnson Porier, testified for her mother. Judge Josephs, in discharging Mrs. Johnson, said: "I have never seen a more clear-cut case of justifiable homicide and self-defense than this one. The day has not yet come when a woman can not protect her home."

"CONDEMNING SHADOWS"
[Shakespeare, 1564-1616]

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—you men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Relative Arrested In Woman's Death

Brother-in-Law Is Held on Suspicion of Murder in Payne Case.

Los Angeles, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Orin K. Kidd, brother-in-law of Mrs. Billie Payne, 33, whose mangled body was found on Long Beach Boulevard in the Signal Hill district yesterday, was booked today on suspicion of murder.

Deputy sheriffs declared they were dissatisfied with the story told by Kidd, that he had left Mrs. Payne sitting on a curbing near Long Beach while he went for his car and that when he returned she was gone. The officers pointed out Mrs. Payne's body was found at 3 a. m., less than three hours after Kidd, a bakery salesman, said he last saw her, and that she apparently had been dead much longer.

Ed Piasco, another brother-in-law of Mrs. Payne, also was questioned. Kidd and Mrs. Payne had been at Piasco's home earlier in the evening. The investigators said liquor had been served and that the woman was intoxicated when she left. A theory that vengeful gangsters were responsible for the slaying still was being considered.

Divorcee Asks Property Transfer, Not Alimony

Mrs. Olice S. McGrew, divorced wife of J. L. McGrew, yesterday asked The Post to correct a statement that the suit she had instituted against her former husband and his present wife and which was decided last week by the Court of Appeals involved alimony.

Check of the court records shows that the first Mrs. McGrew admitted that she agreed to permit her husband to obtain a divorce from her in Alexandria, Va., on condition that he would transfer to her certain property. It was in an effort to obtain this property, Mrs. McGrew states, that she brought suit for receivership against her former husband and his present wife. Mr. McGrew, a Government employe, was held not subject to attachment by the decision.

PLANS FOR PACIFIC ZEPPELINS OUTLINED

Round Trip Weekly From California to Hawaii to Be Initial Line.

ORIENT MAY BE REACHED

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Commander J. C. Hunsaker, airship designer, in an address before the Ohio Society of New York at its monthly meeting in the Hotel Pennsylvania tonight outlined plans of the newly organized Pacific Zeppelin Transport Co. to operate an air passenger and freight service over the Pacific Ocean.

Commander Hunsaker said the first dirigible to be put into service would make one round trip weekly between Honolulu and California. To Honolulu the voyage will take 36 hours. The return will be made in 48 hours. The ship will be able to carry about 80 passengers and 20,000 pounds of mail and express.

"The California-Hawaii route should prove both an ideal training ground of initial operations, and should develop enough traffic to render such operations reasonably profitable," the commander said.

Edward P. Farley, of the American Hawaiian Steamship Co. and former chairman of the United States Shipping Board, told the society that he and experts with whom he had discussed air transportation, agreed that there is little future for the airplane over long stretches of water.

"The airship offers an answer to the demand for closer connection between our business centers in this country and our representatives in the Far East," he said.

The expense involved in the building and operating of airships of sufficient size to operate safely and regularly across the Pacific, he explained, is too great to be met from passenger and express revenue, but a regular service between the West Coast and the Philippines, with, perhaps, further stops at Shanghai or Hongkong, Yokohama or some other Japanese point, could be maintained with mail contracts.

Tonight's rally is expected to be the greatest meeting in interest of charitable and philanthropic enterprise ever held in Washington. Notable speakers have been engaged for the occasion and the meeting has been thrown open to the public, workers being invited to bring in friends and relatives. The meeting opens promptly at 8 o'clock.

Following a concert by the United States Marine Band and the invocation by Rabbi W. F. Rosenblum, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, community singing will be led by William Schmucker.

There will be an address by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington; several features by two of Washington's best-known entertainers, George O'Connor and Matt Horn; solos by Fred East, barytone. Mgr. P. C. Gavan, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, and Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, are next on the program with short addresses.

Chairmen to Report.

Reports of the final reports on campaign solicitation will be led by unit chairmen, starting with Merritt O. Chance, chairman of the Metropolitan unit, who will report through his regional chairmen.

Frank R. Jelleff, chairman, will report for the group solicitation unit, and the report of the special gifts committee will be made by Newbold Noyes, its chairman.

Frederick A. Delano, president of the Community Chest, will speak on "Our Community;" John Poole, campaign chairman, will discuss "What We Have Done;" Elwood Street, director of the Chest, will talk on "What We Shall Do." The whole program is timed to start at 8 o'clock sharp and to adjourn at 10 o'clock.

Officials of the Community Chest are extremely hopeful that the whirlwind campaign conducted over the last week-end will result in reaching the quota set for the Chest this year. Regardless of whether that quota is reached, however, tonight's meeting will be the closing event of the campaign.

In his radio talk last night Mr. Street said in part:

"All citizens of Washington should realize how serious is the situation which their Community Chest faces. Washington's greatest adventure in charitable service and unified civic endeavor is certain not to reach its goal at the present rate of progress. Extraordinary things must be done. Many who have already given must increase their subscriptions in accordance with the need which they did not realize existed, and thousands who have not yet given generously must give in accordance with the 75-fold need if that well-authenticated goal of $1,786,737.07 is to be attained at the campaign's closing meeting in Constitution Hall, which all Washingtonians are invited to attend."

"I warn against the irritation produced by many ordinary soaps —use only Palmolive"

says S. PESSL

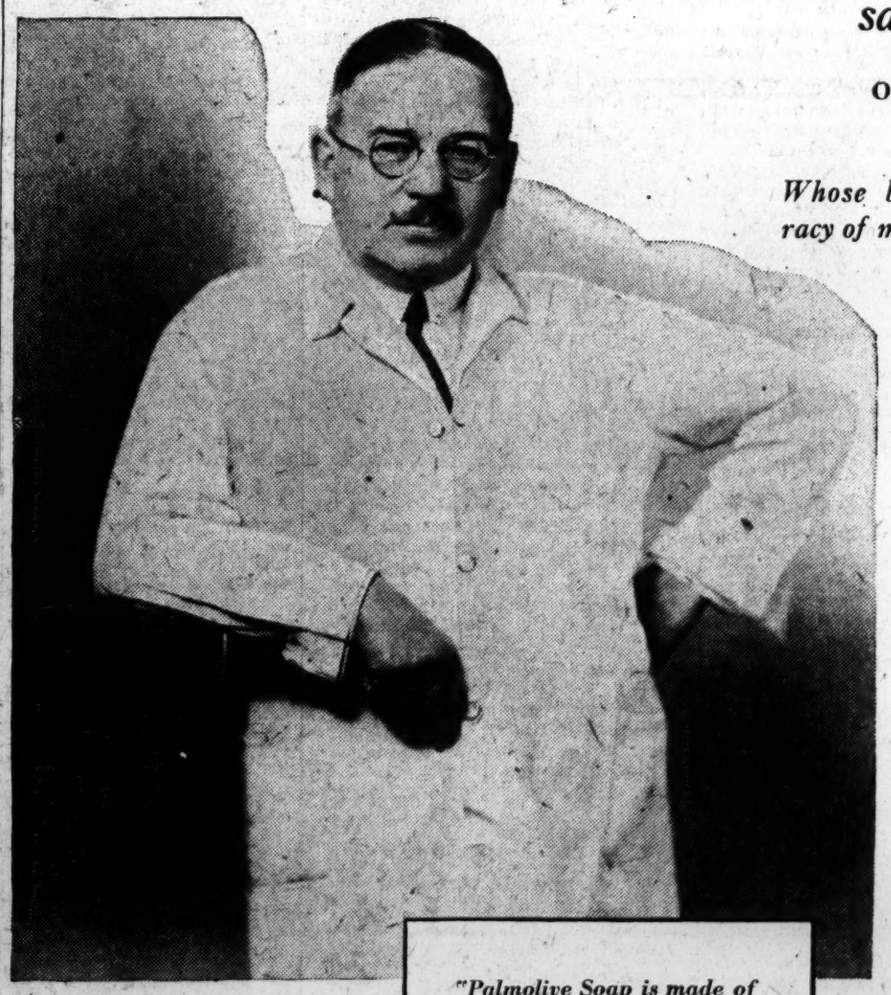
of Vienna and Budapest



Whose beauty house has served the aristocracy of many nations for over a hundred years.

Every skin needs the deep, thorough cleansing which only the vegetable oils of palm and olive can give.

"NO skin can remain beautiful," says the famous Pessl, of Vienna and Budapest, "if it is not regularly cleansed with soap and water. But to say 'Use any soap' is dangerous. You should be particular in choosing a soap for your face.

"Only a pure soap—a soap made of fine, soothing cosmetic oils—will do. That is why I recommend only Palmolive."

Pessl, international authority

To Pessl's shop, across from the Opera House in Vienna, come women whose names are famous in society, the world of opera and the stage. And he advises them all to use this home beauty treatment which takes so little time and produces such gratifying results.

Massage a bland lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water gently into the skin, letting the lather get deep into every tiny pore. Then rinse away soap, dirt, make-up with warm water, finally with cold. And you'll find that your skin is wonderfully soft, smooth, protected against the many abuses of modern life.

Beware of irritation

So many soaps irritate while they cleanse. They are apt to roughen the texture of the skin and spoil its delicate coloring. Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color, its odor, its very feeling is that of nature's great cosmetic oils. It cleanses safely, easily.

Herr Pessl is one of a great international group of beauty specialists who have discovered the facts about Palmolive for themselves and who now tell their patrons to use this soap in preference to any other. Today, there are over 18,900 such experts. Think of that! Thousands and thousands of those best fitted to know proclaim Palmolive best.

You will like Palmolive. You will be using it soon for the bath, too, since it costs even less than quite ordinary soaps. Follow Pessl's advice. Begin this very day.

"Palmolive Soap is made of pure vegetable oils. It is safe for the most delicate skin. I warn my clients against the irritation produced by ordinary soaps. Those who use Palmolive show the best results after our own beauty treatments."

Pessl's salon, across from the famous Opera House in Vienna, bears the seals of many royal houses which he has served as beauty adviser.

BIGGER NAVIES.

The American delegation at London permits the information to leak out that it "hopes to be allowed to build one new giant battleship as part of the American program of establishing naval parity with Great Britain." The new ship would be equal in tonnage and gunpower to the Rodney, the foremost British battleship. But the American spokesman adds, according to the Associated Press, that "the United States probably would not build this ship if the privilege is granted to them, although they wished the right to do so if desired."

This report is seemingly authentic. If true, it is evidently an attempt to offset in the American mind the damaging effect of the proposed surrender of cruiser parity. Instead of insisting upon building cruisers suitable to American needs, having a wide radius of action, the American delegation has yielded to the British argument that the United States should have not more than 18 cruisers of the kind it needs, and that then, if it wishes to have parity with Great Britain, it shall build at great expense a lot of small cruisers that it does not need. Now the American delegation intimates that another huge expenditure may be necessary in the form of a battleship, in order to reach parity with Great Britain.

Where is the reduction of armaments in this program? Where is economy? Is limitation to mean the additional expenditure of millions of dollars by every country except Great Britain? If this is to be the case, the London conference never should have been called. The various powers would have been better off if left to their independent programs.

The course of the conference is intensely disappointing to Americans. They had been led to believe that an agreement could be reached whereby all the leading naval powers would curtail building and postpone costly replacements. Now they learn that every foreign power at the conference, except Great Britain, insists upon larger naval forces, and that the British program is aimed at maintaining the supremacy of the British fleet above all others, the United States Navy included.

The delegations are not obeying the wishes of the peoples of the nations concerned. The conference is developing bad feeling and rivalries that could have been avoided. A treaty emanating from London, calling upon all the naval powers except Great Britain to increase their expenditures for ships, resulting from the refusal of Great Britain to cut down its navy, would give the lie to the professions of poverty and overtaxation so pitifully expressed by Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden. Every day makes it more apparent that the London conference will not succeed in reducing naval forces, because the strongest power of all refuses to cooperate with the others in making proportionate reductions.

BEGGARLY SERVICE PAY.

Army circles are not satisfied with the make-up of the joint congressional committee that will study the pay situation obtaining in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Public Health Service. The members appointed from the Senate meet with approval, but the House members are said to be opposed to pay adjustment.

Army officers comfort themselves in the knowledge that sooner or later, if Army morale is to be sustained, Congress will have to meet the pay issue fairly and squarely. In the Air Corps, where the "hump" that stands in the way of advancement is magnified, resignations have become alarmingly prevalent. Outstanding Air Corps officers are succumbing to the offers of the commercial aeronautic industry. If conditions in the service were right these officers would not resign.

The most recent resignations from the Air Corps are those of Maj. John H. Jewett and Lieut. Carl Cober. Maj. Jewett is a pilot of craft both heavier and lighter than air. He has had 20 years' service. Lieut. Cober is regarded as an unusually efficient and well-qualified field engineer. Maj. Jewett, because of his long service and ability, would have been available for appointment as chief of the corps. The Army can not afford to lose such men because of insufficient pay.

What is happening in the Air Corps will happen in other branches of the service if living conditions are not made bearable. The joint committee is bound to realize that the future of the Army and the other services depends upon adjustment of the pay level.

THE TEST OF FARM RELIEF.

In a letter to Senator McNary Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, some time ago defined the board's policy in the matter of stabilization. The process of stabilization, he said, was divided into two distinct classes. The first class is what might be called normal operations involved in almost everything the board is doing. The second form of stabilization, he explained, "might be termed extraordinary or emergency operations whereby, because of a large surplus of any commodity, the action would consist of buying and taking off the market some considerable part of the tonnage so as to relieve the pressure, and carrying the product until some future date in the hope that there would be a more favorable opportunity of disposing of it." The Farm Board is now ready to embark on the extraordinary or emergency operation.

A few days ago the newly organized wheat advisory committee of Chicago asked the board to set up a wheat stabilization corporation. The law provides that such a body shall be established whenever the price of a commodity falls below the loan value, a situation that now obtains with respect to wheat. The board is authorized to provide working capital for such a corporation from the $500,000,000 revolving loan fund, and any losses arising from the "processing, holding or dumping" of the commodity are to be paid from the fund. Under the marketing act the board of directors of the stabilization corporation may be given almost unlimited authority as to the amount of grain to be purchased and the disposal of the surplus. It is the board's hope that any losses the corporation may incur in unusual years will be equalized with profits accruing in more favorable years.

It remains to be seen whether the stabilization corporation will make any profit. Elsewhere attempts have been made, sometimes on an extensive scale, to hold commodity prices up by withholding from the market portions of the product. Great Britain tried it with rubber. Brazil tried it with coffee. In both instances the project ended in disaster. In neither case did the anticipated lean production years materialize, and year after year the stored surplus increased. The mere fact that a huge store of a commodity was on hand, awaiting disposal upon a favorable market, tended to depress the price.

With the creation of the stabilization corporation the crucial test of farm relief will be at hand. The project of improving the marketing machine, upon which the Farm Board until now has concentrated its attention, promised to bring a modicum of relief to agriculture, but the crux of the farm problem is bound up in the fact that surpluses have been and are being produced, and its solution depends upon the evolution of a method of handling the surplus that will not depress the price and that does not involve driving the less efficient producers from the farm. Stabilization, or price pegging, by Government purchase of surpluses is the essential feature of the farm relief measure as enacted. Will it prove successful, or will it leave the Farm Board with a huge stock of wheat on its hands that can not be unloaded except disastrously, with the Treasury holding the bag?

THE GULF STREAM.

A question often asked by transatlantic steamship captains, "Is the Gulf Stream changing its course or stopping its flow?" has been answered by the National Geographic Society as follows: "History, botany, geology, meteorology and oceanography can be called as high-powered character witnesses to testify to the settled habits of the Gulf Stream. From the testimony of this array of sciences it can be assumed that the great 'river of the ocean' has been flowing along its course for centuries and even for scores of millenniums. The huge stream, which moves more water than all the rivers of the earth combined, can hardly be expected to change its age-old habits over night."

The Gulf Stream is created by certain geographical conditions. The Caribbean Sea forms a huge funnel which is hemmed in on the north by Cuba and Haiti and on the south and southwest by the coasts of Central America and Yucatan. The trade winds from the west blow the waters of the Caribbean into the Gulf of Mexico and then out into the Atlantic, through the small outlet between the southern coast of Florida and Cuba. The Gulf Stream which rushes through this nozzle is 40 miles wide and nearly 3,000 feet deep. It is guided northward by the Bahamas and then eastward by the continental shelf of North America, and thence to Europe. Upon reaching England it divides into two branches, one flowing northward to the Arctic Ocean and the other flowing southward to Portugal and then southwest, where it again comes under the influence of the trade winds. Thus, the stream plays the part of a merry-go-round, making a complete circuit in the North Atlantic waters.

The stream has very important geographical effects upon much of Northern Europe. Were it not for this warm current, England might have climatic conditions similar to those of Labrador, and Norway would have the bleak climatic conditions of Greenland. In answering the question of the age of the stream the Geographical Society says, "It is reasonably safe to say that there has been a Gulf Stream (although the gulf may have played no part in its early existence) ever since there has been an Atlantic Ocean and trade winds to blow upon it."

THE GOVERNMENT'S HELIUM.

The Government's helium plant at Amarillo, Tex., is idle this month, and will be in operation for only two more months this fiscal year. The cost of keeping the plant in a stand-by condition, according to a statement from the Bureau of Mines, amounts to $9,500 per month, which is only $3,000 less than the cost of operating it. The plant is inactive because the Navy ordered only 5,000,000 cubic feet of helium after it had estimated that 8,000,000 cubic feet would be needed.

At the same time the Navy has been receiving helium from a private concern at a price far higher than the cost of producing it in the Government plant. The average cost of Government production is now $9.70 per 1,000 cubic feet, while the price of the private concern is $34. Considering the expense of maintaining the Government plant in a stand-by condition, the cost of manufacturing an additional supply of helium would be reduced to $3 per 1,000 feet. The bureau estimates that it could have supplied for $9,000 extra the helium which has cost $105,000. It appears, however, that the contract with this private company was entered into when the Government was still making helium at Fort Worth, Tex., at a high production cost. Delay in delivery of this gas prolonged the contract, and in the meantime the Government has tapped a new supply of helium at Amarillo, which can be manufactured at a much lower figure. The Navy was obliged to fulfill its contract, but there is no reason why such contracts should be renewed.

The Amarillo plant has cost the Government more than $1,620,000 during the last three years. A source of helium ample for the requirements of both the Army and Navy has been developed. Helium, being noninflammable, is the most satisfactory gas known for use in dirigibles, and is therefore an important element in national defense. It is important that the Government should develop its own supply, and that the Army and Navy should take advantage of it. No doubt the Navy hereafter will draw only on the Federal plant for its helium.

IMMUNITY OF NEUTRALS.

By CHANDLER P. ANDERSON,
In the American Journal of International Law.

If the League of Nations should invoke its authority under Article 16 of the covenant, and demand the enforcement of an economic blockade against a member declared to be a covenant-breaker, and the British government, on behalf of the league, should undertake to use its sea power to prevent the United States from furnishing food supplies or having other intercourse prohibited by Article 16 with the offending state, the United States would be bound by the Kellogg pact not to attempt by force to exercise its right as a neutral to continue such intercourse. Assuming that the vital interests of the United States were not involved, it would have no choice but to acquiesce peaceably in whatever action the British navy might take to enforce the blockade declared by the league, and to submit the whole question to arbitration. Such a blockade might present a new question of international law, but the question of the legality of a blockade sanctioned by the League could not be decided by the United States alone. It may well be argued that a law which the league members have imposed upon themselves by adopting the covenant is international law so far as they and the permanent court are concerned, and as such would be binding even upon a covenant-breaking state.

The question is distinctly one of those listed for compulsory arbitration in the so-called optional clause of the court statute which Great Britain has now accepted. The United States, although not yet a member of the permanent court, would, nevertheless, be equally bound to submit this question to arbitration either by the court or by some specially constituted tribunal, because all of the questions listed for compulsory arbitration in the optional clause, which are quoted above, are universally recognized as legal questions of a justiciable character, and the United States by its traditions and official declarations, is thoroughly committed to the policy of settling such questions by arbitration.

In this connection it is important to take note of the following extracts from the British White Paper:

> . . . His Majesty's Government further consider that our acceptance of the Optional Clause makes no difference to the principle that prize cases must be decided first in our own prize courts before any question of a reference to the Permanent Court could arise.
> The rule of international law that arbitration can not be claimed unless and until the remedies provided by municipal courts have been exhausted is, in their opinion, as applicable to prize courts as to any other municipal tribunals. Moreover, the function of prize courts is to decide whether the action of the captor was legitimate, and until a final decision on this point has been given by those courts, it can not be known whether any case for international complaint has arisen.

On this theory of the law the United States would be obliged, by reason of the Kellogg pact, to await the outcome of arbitration, but Great Britain, on the other hand, relying upon the superior obligation of the league covenant, which was not superseded by the obligations undertaken by the league members in signing the Kellogg pact, would claim, with every hope of success in its own prize courts, and in the permanent court, to be justified in exercising force to give effect to Article 16 of the covenant. This recourse to arbitration would undoubtedly postpone the decision of the question at issue until after the end of the war, and thus indirectly accomplish the enforcement of the economic blockade against the covenant-breaking state throughout the war period, leaving the United States to whatever relief, if any, in the way of reparation or subsequent settlement of the question the decision of an arbitral tribunal might offer.

If the United States is willing to be placed in this position of inferiority at sea during a war in which it is a neutral, it would seem to be preferable to establish that situation on a basis of treaty stipulations voluntarily entered into by the United States, rather than to have it imposed by other nations through international agreements to which the United States is not a party.

And thought that no doubt
His good deed for the day.

To give an old suit
Is a wise thing to do,
But should it bear fruit
As a charity, too?

Old things which we know
We shall never put on
Are not much to bestow;
Are not missed when they're gone.

Such gifts are too small
To be born in the mind,
Not entitled at all
To be rated as kind.

But who gives what he needs

Does man's greatest of deeds,

If a Life Makes the World Better It Is Successful.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN is a man successful?

What is the minimum of wealth or fame he must acquire?

And if wealth and fame are not essential to success, what must he achieve?

Or is a man successful without achieving anything at all if he is content?

If success is a state of mind, those who have least and accomplish least may be more successful than the world's great benefactors and the builders of great fortunes.

Some years ago American capitalists who owned a mining concession in South America were unable to procure labor because the native Indians were content to live in poverty.

A Yankee engineer solved the problem by teaching the Indians discontent.

He imported and demonstrated the silly trinkets and cheap ornaments of civilization and troubled the Indians with new desires.

They worked to get money to buy the things they were taught to covet, and thus they qualified as go-getters and capitalists, but they were no longer successful in their own sight.

While they lived in primitive indolence they had health, happiness and plenty—the utmost to which men aspire.

Their new desires taught them discontent and doomed them to endless failure, for their wages were never sufficient to buy all they desired.

It is obvious that the definition of success can't be left to the individual, for the stupid content with little would be first to succeed and the modest man who served the world most might class himself as a failure.

The world's definition of success is the right one, and to win the world's admiration is to be successful; but the true definition must await the final revision of posterity.

Jesus, Savonarola, Galileo and Robert E. Lee were failures in the eyes of their contemporaries, and contemporaries praised Lincoln's success; but all alike are successful in the eyes of posterity, for all lived usefully and asked nothing for themselves.

The rich, the famous and the happy may be failures, but the man who is useful is a success in poverty, obscurity or wretchedness.

The successful machine is not the one most expensive or most celebrated, but the one that works.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ABOUT THIS TIME OF THE YEAR

I.

I yearn to high dive in the ocean
Some place where it's ninety degrees;
I'm filled with burning up action
To loaf in a tropical breeze,
I long to throw off flannel "undies"
And sip cooling drinks on a yacht
Where life is one round of swell Sundays
And snow-plows and shovels are not.

II.

I crave to disport in the briny
And teach lovely ladies to float,
Where day after day is sunshiny
And nothing's so rare as a coat.
I yearn to pack golf sticks and so forth
And dash for the next Southern train,
And feel that each day as I go forth
'Twill not be through snow, slush or rain.

III.

My yen is to beg, steal or borrow
The money to leave the town flat
And find "snow and colder tomorrow"
A memory only, if that;
I wanna go down where it's cozy,
Where people in scanty clothes loaf,
Where sunsets are red-hot and rosy—
And I can behave like an oaf.

IV.

I yearn to play golf in the morning
And dub in the afternoon, too,
Where clouds in the east die aborning
And skies know no color but blue;
I itch for a place where existence
Is largely a fight to keep cool
And one with a little persistence
Can live like a terrible fool.

V.

I long to get up and go fishing
For sailfish as big as a horse,
And send back some postal-cards wishing
My friends were all with me, of course,
I wanna be snapped in white linen
Beside a great tuna fish, sure—
And see my own foolish face grinnin'
On page 6, the rotogravure.

VI.

I'm sick of those newspaper headlines:
"Big Blizzard Is Sweeping This Way;"
My paper must bring me instead lines
Like "Bureau Says Heat Wave Will Stay."
My rubbers? I want to forget them—
To leave 'em on bus, train or tram;
My feet? Why, I'm crazy to wet them.
Yes, wet them and not give a damn!

VII.

I want to go far from all plumbers—
Away from all pipes and all leaks,
Where people just loaf in large numbers
And don't have a head-cold for weeks;
My urge is to get off a trolley
And leave my new umbrella there
And know when I lose it, by golly!
I'll never regret it or care!

L'ENVOI.

The trouble I'll have to admit is
I'm here in the office to stay;
I'm broke and the trouble, to wit, is
This winter I can't get away.

TURNING THE TABLES.

Governmental research, by taxpayers instead of tax spenders, says the Jerseyman, is essential to economical government. The object of such research is to ascertain the work performed by the various departments of local governments, what its costs, and to suggest how efficiency may be increased and overhead reduced.

It is an unfortunate fact that waste, in time, money and supplies, seems greatest in operation of local units of government. Burdensome taxation is caused by State, county and city government. Federal taxes have been steadily reduced for several years. Every State should have an organization which, on behalf of the taxpayers, scientifically and fairly investigates the operation of governmental machinery.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Friend of Gen. Crosby Tells Why He Is Qualified and Will Make a Good Commissioner.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: One of the objections in print to the appointment of a retired officer of the Army to the position of Commissioner of the District is that he is not a civilian.

In reply to this it may be asked why official circles, which make up perhaps, with their dependents, more than a majority of the local inhabitants, should not be represented on the commission. They are really the people, excepting a small leisure class, for whose service the remainder are here, industrial life being negligible.

Another objection is that military life unfits one for civilian duties.

But from the day that an officer first commands a company or performs staff duties his experiences fit him more and more for such duties as those of a Commissioner, with the Police Department in his portfolio, while command of a post involves every function of a city manager, technical, financial, executive and administrative.

A third objection seems to lie in the assumption that a retired officer can not be a resident of the District.

The grounds for this objection might well be applied to the cases of retired civil employes, to officers of military or naval reserves, to the National Guard or to pensioners, with the same lack of logic.

The District might well congratulate itself upon receiving the services of any retired Army or Navy officer of established reputation in the conduct of large affairs. Strictly trained in the just and orderly enforcement of law, regulations and authority, he is equally trained in subordination to them. Having no business to conduct, no profession actively to practice, he can give undivided and disciplined attention to his duties.

My acquaintance with Gen. Crosby over a period of sixteen years, my observation and knowledge of his activities under varied situations, prompt me to the above remarks and to the statement that in character, understanding of men, common sense, tact, personal force, adaptability and experience, he is fully up to the requirements of the office to which, it has been announced, he will soon be appointed.

Moreover, both the letter and the spirit of the law will be observed in his appointment, for he has actually lived within the District about eight years, he owns a home here and he has no voting residence elsewhere.

Protest Against New Plans and Further Delay in Amendment of Retirement Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is most discouraging to all persons expecting to retire soon, as well as to those already retired and living on meager allowances, to hear of a totally new plan to be proposed, which will necessarily delay action on the present bill, the result of ten years of controversy.

There seems no call for it whatever when the present bill is satisfactory, with one exception, to both the employes and the Civil Service Commission. The exception is the age limit for optional retirement, which they want to be 60 years instead of 68 years. This change could be easily made at one day's session of Congress and end the discussions, and relieve thousands of people through the use of funds belonging entirely to the employes.

Do those responsible for this delay know that of all persons who reach their sixtieth birthday, one-third die before they reach 70 (the present retirement age), and nearly one-fourth before they reach 68, the proposed age in the Senate bill?

Thousands, then, are dying every year between these ages, who get no benefit from their savings and whose lives could be preserved for years, perhaps, if they could get a much-needed rest.

The universal sentiment is for this one amendment and the immediate passage of the bill. If the new plan has any advantage over the present Senate bill with the proposed amendment, let it be drafted and submitted to the employes for consideration after the last-named plan is put into operation. After several years of trial, they can vote on the change and have their own choice.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYE.

Making Paper Out of Air Theoretically Possible, But It's a Long Way From Practical Production.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Associated Press story which came from London recently reporting that it will not be long before paper will be manufactured out of thin air seems a bit far fetched. Dr. Herbert Levinstein, president of the Society of the Chemical Industry, made such a prediction before the Institute of Civil Engineers in the British capital, explaining that cellulose, the basic substance for the manufacture of paper, can be produced from the normal ingredients of the atmosphere. Dr. Levinstein's expectations are based upon the fact that sugar and cellulose come from the same chemical foundation, and sugar has been prepared synthetically from the air.

If sugar can be produced from the air, why not cellulose? Think what this will mean economically. The air is, as Dr. Levinstein worded it, "a reservoir of wood pulp." Just because sugar can be synthetically prepared from the atmosphere and there are hopes of producing paper from the same source, this does not mean that after one finishes with his morning paper it can be used to sweeten his tea or coffee. Atmospheric paper, though containing the fundamental qualities of cellulose and sugar, can never be substituted for the latter until Dr. Levinstein makes more experiments with his most recent discovery.

PORTO RICAN NEEDS CITED BY ROOSEVELT

Governor Delivers Message to Twelfth Session of Legislature.

HE CALLS FOR ECONOMY

San Juan, Porto Rico, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt tonight delivered his first message to the regular session of the Twelfth Porto Rican Legislature. He spoke in Spanish. Picturing hunger, disease and unemployment as dangers that are as grave as attacks from a foreign foe, he urged the legislators to be courageous, unselfish and determined in meeting the island's needs and in building for a better future.

He said the Government's program was divisible into two phases, the first calling for administrative economy and the second for rehabilitation on a permanent basis.

As pointing to the urgency for administrative economy, he declared that government receipts for the first six months of the present fiscal year had fallen $1,381,556 below the estimates on which the budget had been based.

As demanding first attention the governor referred to the 77 municipalities of the island, all but four of which he had visited, and the condition of which he described as "desperate" and far worse than the condition of the insular government. In some instances, he said, municipal employes had not been paid for a year.

A bill calling for municipal reorganization would be presented to consolidate and reduce the number of municipal administrative units, he said.

Gov. Roosevelt concluded by saying that aid from Washington would be needed in solving some of the island's problems.

PRESIDENT CATCHES 45-POUND SAIL FISH

arrived in Long Key before daylight today, after an uneventful trip from Washington. As soon as it was light Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Hoover left their private car, which had been set off at the small Long Key station, and went aboard the Saunterer, the commodious houseboat of Jeremiah Milbank.

Mr Hoover has chartered the craft for the week he plans to be here.

A small group of fishermen, mostly from New York, Philadelphia and Boston, gave the party a quiet but warm welcome. Upon reaching the houseboat, tied up only about 100 yards from the railroad station, Mr. Hoover paused for a few minutes for the photographers, urging them to "get along and let's get this over, as I have more important things to do."

Party Has Breakfast.

The immediate matter of importance turned out to be breakfast, the President, Mrs. Hoover, Justice Stone and Mrs. Stone, Mark Sullivan and Mrs. Sullivan, and Dr. Vernon Kellogg ate on the Saunterer. Mr. Richey and Mrs. Richey, Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, who also is a fisherman of note, and the White House attaches who came along, had breakfast aboard the Department of Commerce boat, the Kilkenny.

After breakfast, Mr. Hoover took off his double-breasted blue business suit and donned a pair of white flannel trousers and a blue coat in which he did his fishing. While he was eating breakfast his trunk full of fishing tackle had been put aboard.

Other fishermen at the camp, not wanting to leave before the President, stood on the dock until the Saunterer had pulled out a mile or more from shore. Then there was an immediate rush for boats. Mr. Hoover very shortly put out in a small boat from the Saunterer and proceeded under the trestle of the Florida East Coast Railroad into the Atlantic Ocean where he will do most of his angling.

Today was the thirty-first wedding anniversary of the President and Mrs. Hoover, but the Chief Executive and his lady made no formal observance of the day. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover never make a practice of celebrating birthdays or anniversaries, it was learned. They were married in Monterey, Calif.

PARROT FEVER CASES BLAMED ON CANARY

sumed he received his infection from one of them.

Hope that Dr. Charles Armstrong, bacteriologist of the Public Health Service, had not been stricken by parrot fever, the dreaded disease against which he has been directing a fight, was given up yesterday when he developed a severe headache and an X-ray showed a blod clot on the lower part of one long, both definite symptoms of the malady.

Dr. Armstrong was taken to the Naval Hospital late Saturday, as a precautionary measure when he complained of a sore throat, and until yesterday the hospital physicians and his associates were inclined to believe he was suffering only from a cold, since he did not have a headache, which was one of the first symptoms shown by victims of the malady.

When the decisive symptoms appeared yesterday, the physicians administered convalescent serum, blood taken from persons recovering from the disease, in an effort to check the ravages of the fever. Since little is known by medical science of this mysterious fever, the antitoxin is still in an experimental stage, and several days will be needed to tell whether it will prove helpful in the present case. Capt. T. W. Richards, commanding officer at the Naval Hospital, stated, however, that the serum had proved helpful in a case at Baltimore, and additional injections of the antitoxin will be given Dr. Armstrong.

Condition Is Serious.

Although Dr. Armstrong does not have as severe a case as Harry B. Anderson, 42, attendant at the hygienic laboratory, who died Saturday, Capt. Richards stated his condition is very serious.

Dr. Armstrong was stricen a few hours after Mr. Anderson's death and both contracted the disease, technically known as psittacosis, while handling the bodies of dead parrots with which the Health Service was experimenting in an effort to discover the nature of the malady. Mr. Anderson was buried yesterday at the Arlington National Cemetery.

Meanwhile, the hygienic laboratory is continuing its experimental work and study of the disease, regardless of the danger of contracting it from the birds examined.

None of the other attendants or physicians, however, has shown any symptom of infection and Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming declared there is no danger of a general spread of the disease. It is not communicable between persons, so far as the Public Health Service has learned and the only means of contracting it is through diseased birds.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

NOW quite seriously, this business of the Republicans having a publicity man is most intriguing. The deeper one gets into it the more fascinating it becomes. One in thinking of it in fact, soon feels that he is absorbed in a Van Dine novel.

They are always up to tricks, these Republicans, not any more so, perhaps than the Democrats, but their tricks bear closer watching because they are the ins. They do not have much to say. In fact, one wonders if aside from one or two gutteral phrases about food and prosperity, if they have any speech at all. But tricks, vote-getting tricks, they have a bagful of them.

Now not being schooled in the publicity game we have only the manner in which Mr. Charles Michaelson, publicity man for the Democrats, functions, to understand what a publicity man should do.

Mr. Michaelson gets statements from Senator Glass, Senator Harrison or some other Democratic senator saying what an iniquitous thing the present tariff bill is.

* * * *

SURELY, Mr. James L. West does not intend to get any statements from Senator Smoot, Senator Goff or Senator Moses saying what a gift to the country it is. Because of he does that then the administration has committed itself to the regular wing of the party. Neither would Mr. West get a statement on the tariff from Senator Borah or Senator Norris, because then the administration would be giving publicity to the Western wing's views. Mr. Hoover has been a past master at not being drawn into this intraparty squabble. It is not believed that he intends to be drawn into it now.

It is difficult to see, in fact, just how Mr. West could get out any statement that would not offend either the regulars or the Progressives. They are that far apart.

Then just how will he peoceed.

* * * *

THERE is some talk that what the publicity man to do is to get out quaint little human-interest stories about the President, in fact, to humanize him.

It is true that the President has received nothing like the favorable publicity since he has been in office as he did when he was seeking it. It may be the natural reaction from the effusiveness with which the boys put it on then, but it is a fact that one now does not read such romantic episodes as Will Irwin and Mary Roberts Rinehart wrote during the campaign. Incidentally, Irwin is yet to be placed on a commission. Bill Hard seems, indeed, to be the only fervent publicist the administration has left.

So there may be something to the suggestion that Mr. West's job will be to sort of hanging around with the newspaper boys and tell them little stories like the one about the time when Mr. Hoover was in some outlandish place and the natives were afraid to bridge a river because of their belief in spooks or something. But Mr. Hoover wasn't afraid. He built that bridge in his efficient, engineering way and ever since the natives have worshiped him.

You know the story; Bill Hard tells it over the radio all the time.

Porto Rico Chiefs Quit Legislature

Heads of Upper and Lower Houses, Long Enemies, Withdraw.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Senator Antonio R. Barcelo, president of the upper house for 13 years, handed in his resignation when the regular session of the twelfth legislature met today. Senor Jose Tous Soto, speaker of the House, resigned at the same time.

The two men broke with each other last summer over personal and political difficulties, and the breach has resulted in new party and factional alignments in Porto Rico.

Sr. Barcelo and Sr. Tous Soto organized the dominant Alianza party six years ago, but Barcelo reorganized the Unionist party, which he had previously led, after the last session of the legislature and withdrew from the Alianza. There has been a bitter conflict between the two groups since that time.

As no party has a clear majority in the legislature, the selection of their successors may be delayed.

Alleged Shooting Veiled in Mystery

Police Uncertain Whether Auto Backfired or Trolley Men Were Shot At.

The case of Joseph H. Lewark, street car conductor and a witness in the McPherson case, that he was the target for bullets on two occasions early Sunday morning, left police of the Tenth Precinct undecided last night whether the reports were caused by an automobile's back-firing or whether they actually came from a gun.

Lieut. J. M. Walsh, of the Tenth Precinct, who took charge of an investigation into Lewark's charges yesterday, said last night: "A number of witnesses say they heard an automobile back-firing in the vicinity, but we have yet to hear from anyone, beside Lewark and the motorman on the car, who will support the shooting theory."

The automobile answering the description given by Mr. Lewark was recovered yesterday. It was stolen Saturday night.

COLOMBIAN ENVOY LEADS IN ELECTION

Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera 140,000 Votes Ahead in Presidential Race.

SPLIT IN CONSERVATIVES

Bogota, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, Colombian Minister to Washington and Liberal party candidate, tonight led his nearest opponent in the presidential elections by nearly 140,000 votes. The polling took place yesterday. The official canvass will be made Thursday.

Senor Olaya Herrera had 20,000 more votes than his two Conservative rivals combined, with returns from more than 400 communities not yet received.

The unofficial count of the ballots showed the following standings of the three leading candidates:

Enrique Olaya Herrera, Liberal, 280,000; Alberto Vasque Cobo, Conservative, 143,000; Guillermo Valencia, Conservative, 135,000.

The Liberals were jubilant over Olaya Herrera's success and several demonstrations were held tonight.

Olaya Herrera carried Bogota by at least 20,000 votes, according to unofficial canvasses. He also led in the cities of Medellin, Cali and Manizales.

Guillermo Valencia, poet standard bearer of one faction of the Conservative party, was victorious in Cartagena, Bucaramana, Popayan, Tunja and other towns, but fell behind Gen. Vasquez Cobo, rival Conservative, in the country-wide voting.

The country was calm today, as it was generally during the balloting.

the close of the lecture. Nothing will be sold, however, and no prices will be quoted.

Marketing costs will be emphasized each day. Suggestions will be made as how to buy, how to select inexpensive foods for their nutritious value as well as for variety in planning meals, and finally how modern cookery can retain the wholesomeness and appetizing appeal of less costly meats and vegetables.

The numerous gifts to be donated Friday afternoon by Washington merchants will be on display this and every afternoon the school is in session. The lecturer has advised that all women attending should bring pencil and note paper to take down some of the recipes they find most pleasing.

Greater Use of Radio Urged in Police Work

(Associated Press.)

Predicting that use of radio in apprehending criminals soon would become Nation-wide, Lieut. Kenneth Cox, of the Chicago police department, yesterday urged the Federal Radio Commission to increase the allotment of wave lengths for that service.

Cox said that there are not enough radio channels assigned for police work. Three channels have been set aside by the commission for police communication. Twenty stations owned by police or fire departments have construction permits or licenses to broadcast. The applications of ten other stations are pending before the commission.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Senator Baird Deserting Set Of Bachelors

New Jersey Man to Wed Mrs. B. F. Smith, of Camden.

By JEAN ELIOT.

So confirmed are most members of the Senate's bachelor and widower bloc in their state of single blessedness, that the engagement of one of the number would seem to be news of considerable importance. Yet the announcement that Senator David Baird, jr., of New Jersey, is to marry Mrs. Andrew B. F. Smith, of Camden, N. J., passed with little or no local comment.

Perhaps the reason for this is that Senator Baird is admittedly only warming Mr. Dwight W. Morrow's seat for him and will retire to private life as soon as Mr. Morrow, now in London with the naval arms conference, is free to accept an appointment from the Governor of New Jersey to fill out Senator Edge's unexpired term. Presumably, this has caused him to be less interested in Washington society—and society in him—than if he had a greater prospect of permanency.

At all events, dispatches from Miami Beach, Fla., first brought news of the engagement when Senator Baird went to Florida a few days ago to visit his fiancee. Mrs. Smith was quoted as saying that there had been and would be no formal announcement of the engagement but that all their friends knew about it. No date for the wedding has been set.

The group of marriageable men in the Senate is so large, some are so eligible, so charming or both, that it is a mystery how they all manage to escape the nets of designing maids and matrons. Yet most of them have—and presumably most of them will. Occasionally Senator Arthur Capper, Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, or Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts are seen more than twice in the company of the same women, which is enough to set Dame Rumor's tongue a'wagging. But Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, a distinctly eligible person, is so hard-boiled a bachelor that nobody—not even Dame Rumor—hints at the possibility of his marrying. And Senator Bronson Cutting is almost as bad, although he is so much younger that there is some chance of time softening his heart.

Born of a distinguished New York family, educated at Harvard and transplanted to the open spaces of New Mexico, Senator Cutting is a most versatile person and he has a keen sense of humor and a pretty wit which make him a most engaging dinner companion.

"Young Bob" La Follette is beginning to go about a bit more than he did when he first succeeded to his father's toga, but even yet he seems to find little time for girls and to have no special interest in them. Senator Millard Tydings is, perhaps, a bit more responsive and is said to give pleasant parties at the fine old house in Georgetown in which he is established. Others of the Senate's eligibles, who come to mind in passing, are Senator Kenneth McKellar, of Tennessee; Senator Robert Wagner, of New York, and Senator Park Trammell, of Florida, the last a widower, who is good looking and very charming if all too retiring.

St. Valentine Rules at Ball Of Bachelors

Cotillion at Mayflower Proves Enjoyable Social Event.

St. Valentine was master of ceremonies at the Bachelors' Cotillion last night, with decorations and favors carrying out the seasonable suggestion. This was the last of three brilliant balls given this season by an organization which is a reorganization of "the Bachelors" of a generation ago. Held in the long ballroom of the Mayflower, the dance had distinguished attendance from official and diplomatic groups, with most of the season's debutantes dancing in the cotillion—and enjoying for the last time their collective place in the spotlight.

Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, president of the Bachelors, had a double role last evening, directing the figures of the cotillion and introducing guests to the ladies in the receiving line. This group included Mrs. James J. Davis, Mrs. Henry J. Allen, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Mrs. Thomas Sim Lee, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose and Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr. Mr. Chewning was on the floor committee and this widely-heralded bride and bridegroom led one of the figures in the cotillion, the other being led by Maj. Gen. George Owen Squire, who had pretty Miss Barbara Vandenberg, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Arthur M. Vandenberg, as his partner.

Favors were scarlet heart-shaped boxes of bonbons for the ladies, with gaily festooned canes and jingling bells for the men. They were distributed by Miss Mildred Huston and Mr. William N. Jardine, a colonial couple quaintly framed in an old-fashioned valentine outlined with scarlet electric bulbs.

Boxes were reserved for the chaperones, revived by the bachelors with their reorganization and given important place at all of their festivities. In this distinguished group last evening were Mme. Wu, wife of the Minister of China; Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenburg, Mrs. Gibson Fahnstock, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Mrs. Ridley McLean, Mrs. Sydney A. Cloman, Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Mrs. Karl D. Klemm, Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews and Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard.

The floor committee, brave in the swallow-tailed coats, white gloves and beflowered buttonholes demanded by convention in an earlier day, included the Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. Van Royen; Senator Arthur Capper, Senator David I. Walsh, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Senator Henry J. Allen, Senator Millard E. Tydings; also by the Assistant Secretary of State, Mr. Wilbur J. Carr; Col. Campbell Hodges, U. S. A.; Brig. Gen. Francis Le J. Parker, U. S. A.; the military attache of the Cuban Embassy, Capt. Enrique A. Prieto; Mr. George H. Calvert, jr., Mr. Thomas Sim Lee, Maj. Reginald L. Foster, Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, Mr. Archibald C. V. Wells, Mr. Walter Davidge, Mr. Charles Delmar, Mr. Edward Burr Powell and Mr. William Jennings Price.

The Ambassador of Brazil, Senhor S. Gurgel do Amaral, was the guest of honor at a dinner given beforehand by Mme. Paul Lessinoff. Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh entertained at dinner at the Mayflower, going with her guests to the cotillion. Another pleasant dinner party was given before the ball by Prince Firouz, secretary of the Persian Legation, for Mr. and Mrs. Chewning. He entertained at the Carlton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. William Butterworth have as their guest in their apartment at 1785 Massachusetts avenue, Mrs. Joshua Hale, of Newburyport, Mass., who will remain several weeks.

Mrs. Edward C. Walker is passing some time at the Grove Park Inn at Asheville, N. C.

Miss Frances Lay is also spending some time at the Grove Park Inn.

Mrs. Thomas Rochester Shepard will be at home on Thursday after 4:30 o'clock when her cousin, Miss Haffelfinger, of Philadelphia, who is visiting her, will be the honor guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Storer, who spent the week-end with Mr. John Storer and Miss Emily Storer at Wardman Park Hotel, have gone to Sea Island, off the coast of Georgia. They will return to Washington Friday for another brief visit before returning to their home in Cambridge, Mass. Miss Storer has as her guest Miss Gwendolyn Moss, of Boston.

D. A. R. Chapter Marks Birthday Anniversary.

Capt. Molly Pitcher Chapter of the D. A. R., celebrated its twenty-fourth birthday yesterday with a luncheon in the Willard room at the Willard. Mrs. John L. Among the guests were Mrs. Samuel Koones, regent of the chapter; Miss Helen Harman, State vice regent of the District of Columbia; Mrs. G. Wallace Hanger, who acted as toastmistress, and other D. A. SCHOOL IMPROVISED IN STUDENT STRIKE

Chicago Pupils Go to Classes in Church as Parents Flout Officials.

TRANSFER AROUSES IRE

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Parents of 57 "striking" junior high school pupils, who converted a church into class quarters today rather than have their children attend a new school selected for them by school authorities, were in a deadlock in their controversy with the school officials tonight.

The parents were firm in their position that they would not permit their children to attend the new Burbank School on the ground that attendance there necessitates the crossing of 16 railroad tracks, and declared they will continue to hold classes in the Galewood Congregational Church.

Public school officials, on the other hand, said that the pupils will attend the new school tomorrow or their parents will face action by truant officers.

The situation arose from the transfer of 200 seventh and eighth grade students at Lovett School to the new Burbank institution. The parents of the 57 "strikers" stormed the Lovett School this morning and sought to enter the closed classrooms, but found them barred. On the advice of W. D. Anderson, principal at the Lovett School, the militant parents dispersed. Later they established classrooms in the church.

William J. Bogan, school superintendent, declared that first and second grade pupils crossed the railroad tracks in question twice a day for years before the Burbank School was built, and no accidents were reported. Since the new school was opened January 6 these primary graders were transferred from the Lovett School and no longer need to cross the tracks because their homes, like the Burbank School, are north of the rightaway.

"The crossing is protected at all times by policemen and appointed guards," Mr. Bogan declared. "If youngsters in the first and second grades could cross the tracks in safety all these years why can not the older pupils do it now? I have ordered truant officers to push action against all parents who do not permit their children to come back to school tomorrow."

High School Boy Held In Shooting of Father

Ashland, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—With charges withheld by police, Leslie Cale, 16, Polk High School sophomore, was in jail here today while his father, William Cale, 41, lay in a hospital with four revolver wounds.

Police said the boy fired the shots when the father attacked the boy's mother during an alleged quarrel last night. An emergency operation was performed at the hospital and the man was expected to recover. The elder Cale, before the operation, told H. E. Culbertson, prosecuting attorney, he did not want the boy prosecuted.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 9.

Two of the terms used in the income tax law, namely, "gross income" and "net income," should be noted particularly, inasmuch as they are vitally important to the whole subject of the income tax.

All income derived from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law, should be included in gross income. The gross income of the usual merchandizing or mercantile business consists of the total sales, less the cost of goods sold, plus any income from investments and incidental or outside operations or sources. Subtractions should not be made for selling expenses, depreciation, losses, or other items not ordinarily used in computing the cost of goods sold.

For example, if the gross sales were $50,000, the cost of goods sold $35,000, and the business expenses, &c., $12,000, the statutory gross income is $15,000 and the net income is $3,000. In this case, if the taxpayer was married and living with his wife, he would be required to file a return, although his net income is only $3,000. The return must show the gross sales, purchases, and cost of goods sold. To reflect income correctly, inventories are necessary at the beginning and end of each taxable year.

A lawyer, doctor, architect, author, clergyman, or other professional man must include in gross income all fees, salaries, and compensation for professional services.

The revenue act provides that certain items shall be excluded from gross income and shall not be subject to the income tax. Among such items are proceeds from life insurance policies, gifts, bequests and devises, interest from municipal bonds, &c., damages recovered from personal injuries or sickness, World War compensation payments, pensions for the service of the beneficiary or another, interest or dividends of not over $300 from a building and loan association, and rental value of a gospel minister's dwelling. Other items to be excluded from gross income are alimony, notary fees, city jury fees, salary credited to an employe but not actually or constructively received by him, or an insurance policy covering the death of a business partner.

Plane and Equipment Worth $800 Are Stolen

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An airplane belonging to E. R. Ewert, of Newark, Ohio, and $800 worth of equipment owned by the Air Express, Inc., were stolen from the municipal hangar at Port Columbus some time last night, airport officials revealed today.

The airplane thief left no clew as to his identity and Ewert was unable to offer any explanation. The license number of the ship, a three-seated Travelair biplane, was broadcast by police. It is NC-3823. Major airports also were notified. The equipment which disappeared with Ewert's plane consisted of goggles, flying suits, helmets and two parachutes.

Filipinos Broach Racial Problem

Base Independence Plea on Nonadmission to Social Equality.

(Associated Press.)

The problem of racial cleavage, was frankly broached yesterday before the Senate territories committee hearings on the King bill by Felipe Mabilangan, student witness, and Dr. Hilario Camino Moncado, president of the Filipino Federation of America.

Mabilangan argued that Americans would never admit the Filipino to social equality, and therefore should not insist upon maintenance of the present unsatisfactory political relation.

Dr. Moncado said most of the Filipinos now in the United States came to educate themselves," he said. "But they found they were looked upon with antagonism by American laboratories."

He declared that the recent Watsonville, California riots in which one Filipino was killed were a bitter example of the trend to exclude the Filipino from this country.

Filipino Student Says U.S. Lawmakers Inferior

(Associated Press.)

With great "reluctance," Felipe Mabilangan, student witness before the Senate territories committee, yesterday told the senators that Filipino legislators were of "higher type" than their American colleagues.

"Take the State Legislature of New York," he said. "They are boxers, fish mongers, undertakers, business men, farmers, lawyers and what not. Our legislators are of a much higher intellectual type."

"Well at least I'm not a lawyer," said Chairman Bingham.

Chicago's city government also came in for a verbal drubbing in Mabilangan's list of comparisons to show the educational fitness of the Philippines for liberty.

"I see by the papers that Chicago is the most progressive city in the United States," he said. "I also see that the city is 'busted.'

"That could not happen in the Philippines, or our leaders would have to take to the mountains."

Man Slays Three Children and Self

Young Trio Shot to Death Preparing to Start for School.

Covington, Ga., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Calling his three children as they were preparing to depart for school, J. R. Smith, 39-year-old farmer, today fired a .38-caliber bullet into the right temple of each and then killed himself. A note found in his purse attributed the act to his inability to "get along" with his second wife.

The note also directed that all of his cows, hogs and other property be sold and the proceeds used toward defraying his funeral expenses. A postscript named the hymns he wished sung at his last rites.

The slain children were by Smith's first wife, who died about two years ago. Shortly after her death he married Mrs. Minnie Woodruff, a widow, who had two children. Mrs. Smith was milking in the barn when the shooting took place. The children were Amie, 9, and two boys, Eulee, 7, and James, 3.

Man is Hanged for Slaying.

San Quentin, Calif., Feb. 10 (A.P.). James Chandler, 47, a negro, was hanged here today for the killing of his common-law wife, Jessie Gafford, in Los Angeles, in 1928.

Shopping with Bab

DEAREST Genevieve:
So many people are going South, and on Southern cruises and so on, that it is small wonder the shops are doing such a big business in advanced spring things.

As I have so often said the Southern wear styles are the models we see throughout the season with such additional whimsies as later developments contribute.

Suppose you've heard that the Junior Theater is beginning it's season on Saturday with a matinee and evening performance at the Shubert-Belasco Theater. It will be nice to attend something at the Belasco again, and great fun to see the Junior Theater Company favorites in that delightful play, "The Ivory Door," by A. A. Milne.

Pasternak Outfits Everyone

—it seems, who contemplates going away at this time. The new suits are a tremendous attraction, and few and far between are the women who can resist one or more of these gorgeous new models.

It is impossible to describe the materials and colors, the smart lines and exquisite tailoring. Silk plaque blouses in harmonizing shades, lingerie blouses of handkerchief linen add to their attractiveness. Hats for the new costumes are in the soft shiny Panamalac, and other smart developments.

Everything lovely for spring wear at Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

Colorful Crepes Arrived at Herron's

—in time for the buying you feel you must do this week. Herron's is up one flight at 1735 Connecticut avenue. In this new group are some attractive styles with the modish lattice work effect worked out in the neck-line, a black one I remember as especially good in this style. It was priced at $25. In fact, all the new crepes I looked at today, were marked at that price.

Aside from this you may enjoy the privilege of buying earlier arrivals at prices much lower than they were intended to be. Never overlook Herron's when shopping around.

Schwartz Has Marked Thirty-five Frocks

—at reduced prices for today and tomorrow's selling. They have been up to $32.50 and are now $19.75. In the collection are innumerable models you will want to wear immediately, under your winter coats.

There is a model with a little shoulder cape lined in burnt rose which you will like. The material is flat crepe in a sort of rose beige. This has pale pink and coral beads embroidered in a dainty design in the front.

All colors, nearly, are represented in this group of frocks. There are black nets and chiffons at $19.75. Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue.

Underwood & Underwood Are Unusually Busy

—making pictures for people who are anxious to have this little duty out of the way, before greater activities begin. Several girls I know went in for sittings just before leaving for a few weeks in sunnier climes. For one reason or another this happens to be the time when women seem to have a few spare moments to give to having a portrait made.

It is prudent to have a picture you like on file, for you never know when you will be "news" and if you must have your picture in the paper, be sure it is a good one.

Some of the best pictures made are those for which you pose on the spur of the moment, when you are perhaps so concerned in urgent matters that you have not time to worry about how you look, or what your expression is. In consequence you look perfectly natural and make an excellent picture.

You have such a wide choice in selecting the style of finish you want in a photograph, when you have them made at Underwood & Underwood's.

Vegetable Plate At Caroline's

—is one of the greatest attractions. Caroline's, 734 Fifteenth street, is the favorite place to dine, of everyone who enjoys good home-cooked food. Dinners are 55 cents and 65 cents. Probably cafeteria service makes it possible to serve such delicious food at such a low figure.

Out-of-season vegetables, fresh and crisp and well-cooked make up this famous plate. Knowing the value of a vegetable diet at this time of year, it is something to know where it can be found. All sorts of other good things at Caroline's, too.

Avignone Freres Plan Your Menu

—for your Valentine party, if you want them to. The catering department of this famous establishment is as well-equipped as every other branch of Avignone Freres.

All the delicious things ready to serve are so toothsome looking, that you can scarcely resist buying everything you see. The best chefs are in the staff of this restaurant. Have luncheon or dinner there, and you will agree with me.

Confections and sweets of all kinds appropriate for Valentine's Day are available now at Avignone Freres, 1777 Columbia road.

Affectionately,

HISTORY WEEK FETE IS HELD BY NEGROES

Event Ushered in by Meeting in Auditorium Attended by About 5,000.

DE PRIEST MAKES SPEECH

Before an audience of 5,000 colored men and women at the Washington Auditorium last night, Representative Oscar De Priest, of Illinois, and two former Negro members of Congress, Col. John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, and Thomas E. Miller, of South Carolina, ushered in the national celebration of Negro history week under the auspices of the National Association for Study of Negro Life and History. Another former Negro member of Congress, Henry P. Cheatham, of North Carolina, was prevented by illness from being present.

Earlier in the day Representative De Priest had entertained the former members of the House of Representatives at breakfast in the Capitol, where twelve were seated, including Mrs. De Priest, Garnet C. Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson, Dr. Charles J. West and Mrs. West, Armond W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, Dr. Carter G. Woodson and Morris Lewis. Later Representative De Priest presented Col. Lynch and former Representative Miller on the floor of the House.

Col. Lynch Speaks.

Sylvester L. McLaurin was master of ceremonies at the Auditorium. The invocation was said by the Rev. Walter R. Brooks, pastor of the Nineteenth Street Baptist Church, following the singing of "America" by the audience. Dr. John R. Hawkins, president of the historiacl association, was introduced as presiding officer. He presented Col. Lynch, now a resident of Chicago.

The former representative, who predicted fifteen years ago that he would live to see another colored man in Congress, at the age of 83 ventured the prediction that he would live to see several colored men there.

Former Representative Miller, who was a member of the Fifty-first and Fifty-second Congresses, paid a tribute to all of the former Negro representatives from South Carolina, and especially to Representative Robert Smalls.

De Priest Urges Suffrage.

Representative De Priest deplored appropriation by Congress of money for enforcement of the eighteenth amendment without a similar amount being appropriated for enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments. He expressed the hope that he would have the opportunity at some time to vote for suffrage in the District of Columbia. With reference to the Negro cadet who failed in examinations at West Point, he stated that he expected him to make good next month, and further, that he was returning to Chicago Thursday to certify two colored boys to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

He also expressed keen disappointment at President Hoover's failure to appoint a Negro on the Haitian commission. Senator Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois, presented a historical outline of the Negro's hardships and achievements in America since the beginning of continental history.

Dry Unit Chauffeur Taken on Traffic Charge

William Powell, colored, 40 years old, said to be a chauffeur in the Treasury Department and attached to the prohibition unit, was arrested last night by Sergt. Milton D. Smith, attached to the Traffic Bureau, and charged with leaving after colliding, reckless driving and with failure to change the address on his driver's card. Powell, who lives on H street near Twenty-fifth street northwest, was arrested after a chase leading from Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth and E streets northwest.

Powell is said to have been the driver of a car that struck another car Saturday afternoon. He left, it is charged, without making known his identity, and Sergt. Smith spotted him last night. The other car belonged to Augustus Roberts, of Neale street northeast. Powell's car is a prohibition unit car, police said.

Joe Opportunity Decides He Needs Cooking Lessons

Toast Burns, Coffee Boils Over, So Post Campaign Manager Plans to Attend Lectures at Belasco Theater Arranged for Capital Women.

"What's the idea?" demanded the Campaign Manager as he entered his office and discovered Old Man Opportunity arrayed in a "Mother Hubbard" apron and surrounded by pots and pans of various shapes and sizes.

"I am going to conduct a cooking school," answered the old gentleman as he pinned back his flowing beard and cocked his chef's cap at a more rakish angle.

"You're going to conduct a cooking school?" questioned the campaign manager. "Well, at that," he mused, "it may be a good idea. I think you are half baked already."

"To be exact," explained Joe, disregarding the insult, "it it Mrs. Northcross who will conduct the school. I am merely revealing the advantages of attendance to the women of Washington and vicinity."

"Mrs. Northcross," he continued, "is a nationally known culinary expert, and her lecture and demonstrations will stress efficient housekeeping methods and the economic buying of foodstuffs as well as actual cooking."

"How much does it cost to attend these lectures?" inquired the Campaign Manager.

"Not a penny," replied Joe. "The lectures will be held today, tomorrow, Thursday and Friday, from 2 o'clock until 4, at the Belasco Theater, and every woman is invited to attend as the guest of The Washington Post."

"My wife will be in the front row," promised the Campaign Manager. "But does this mean that you are deserting the $20,000 Opportunity Campaign for the next four days?"

"Not at all!" stated Joe emphatically. "The performance of such a worth-while service as this, by The Washington Post, should be one more factor in aiding our candidates to secure subscriptions for 'The Capital's Greatest NEWSpaper!'"

He turned to an electric toaster, abstracted two pieces of charred toast, threw them out the window and then dispatched a boy for a sandwich from the corner drug store.

"Make it a cup of Java, too," he called as a coffee pot suddenly boiled over on a nearby radiator. Disgustedly he tore off his apron, threw down and jumped on his cap. "I guess I should attend the school myself," he remarked when he had regained his breath.

Chicago Issues Supplies To Its Unpaid Employes

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Cook County began today to issue food, clothing, shoes, coal and milk to its employes, unpaid since December 15. The plan was inaugurated by A. J. Cermak, president of the county board.

The county carries large supplies to provide emergency relief for persons in distress who are without funds or friends. It is from this supply that the clothing and food rations will be drawn. Contracts with large firms to supply such goods until March 31, are held by the county.

It was reported that six employes took advantage of the offer today, agreeing to repay the county when their salaries arrive.

The unpaid army of city and county employes now numbers approximately 43,000 and their unpaid salaries will aggregate about $13,750,568 on February 15.

EARLE LAWYERS ASK DISMISSAL OF SUIT

Judge Will Announce Decision on Motion Today; Taking of Testimony Ends.

PARIS DEPOSITIONS READ

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 10 (A.P.). Taking of testimony in the $30,000 breach of prenuptial contract suit brought against Ferdinand Penney Earle, artist, by Dolores Salazar, 24-year-old Spanish dancer, ended late today and the defense made a motion to dismiss the case. Arguments on the proposal began immediately.

In her suit Miss Salazar claimed Earle wooed her in Hollywood, married her in a "fake wedding" in Mexico in February, 1927, and then took her to Paris, where he deserted her after a quarrel. She also alleged he agreed to place $15,000 in trust for her but she never received the money.

In the first deposition offered today, Eugene Minet, former Paris hotel owner, said Earle and Miss Salazar came to his hotel in May, 1927, remaining nine days. "Mr. Earle's attitude was always that of a man who loved," the statement read. "They always were together."

A second deposition made by Alphonso Louis Dautricourt contained the statement that Earle had told him of plans to present the dancer with a gift of money. He said that on a journey with them from Spain to Paris he never heard them quarrel. A third deposition made by Camille and Jeanne Dumet said, "Mr. Earle always behaved as a perfect gentleman." "I never heard a quarrel," Mme. Dumet said. "He seemed very fond of her."

Superior Judge Harry R. Archbold, said he would give his decision on the motion for a directed verdict tomorrow. The defense based its motion on the declaration that "Miss Salazar" was swept off her feet by Earle's lovemaking and not by any offer of money." The defense also pointed out that the dancer knew that Earle was married at the time she accompanied him to Mexico.

Attacked by Youth, Woman Tells Police

Mrs. Jennie Lewis, of 1129 Twenty-first street northwest, reported to Third Precinct police that she was struck on the head by a colored boy about 16 years old while walking along Eighteenth street near Q street last night.

When she screamed, she said, her assailant fled. She was not badly hurt and it is believed she was struck with a wooden stick. Police expressed belief that the boy intended to rob the woman.

Thieves Smash Door And Rob Store of $180

Merchandise valued at $120 and $60, contents of a cash register, were stolen from a drug store operated by Oscar H. Bosseches at 1816 New Hampshire avenue between its closing at midnight Sunday and its opening at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, according to a report to Eighth Precinct police.

Entry was effected through broken glass in the front door. The merchandise consisted principally of cartons of cigarettes, cigarette lighters, compacts, perfumes and miscellaneous articles.

[COOKING SCHOOL NEWS]

You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco-then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the flavor of your

Now—hasty hot breads!

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

Honey Bran Muffins

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

Nature's oldest and purest sweet—honey—joins two other natural foods—fruit and whole wheat—in these quick muffins. And Crisco, the sweetest, freshest-flavored shortening you could possibly imagine, lends its freshness and pure flavor to the ensemble.

4 tablespoons melted Crisco	2 cups bran
1 egg, beaten	½ teaspoon soda
¼ cup honey	½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups thick sour milk	1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup whole wheat flour	¾ cup raisins or chopped dates
½ cup bread flour

Light and set oven at 375° F. (medium oven). Melt sufficient Crisco for recipe and to brush into muffin tins. Beat the egg, stir in the honey and sour milk. Sift the two kinds of flour with soda, salt and baking powder, mix with the bran and stir into the first mixture. Add raisins and melted Crisco and beat well. Fill Criscoed muffin tins half-full with batter. Bake in medium oven (375° F.) from 20 to 25 minutes. This makes 24 large muffins. I have reheated these muffins when they were a week old and found that Crisco had kept them fresh and moist.

Bishop's Bread

(Mixing time: 10 minutes)

If your grandmother ever entertained a circuit-riding preacher, she probably celebrated his presence at breakfast with Bishop's Bread, which in those days required twelve hours, or more, to prepare. Made of potato sponge, it was set to rise in an earthen crock, jealously guarded from drafts with a homespun blanket and baked in a brick oven.

Now you can make this same bread half an hour before breakfast by following this modernized recipe from Ohio. And from Ohio, by the way, comes Crisco—the sweetest flavored shortening I have ever used.

2½ cups bread flour	1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups brown sugar	1 egg
½ teaspoon salt	½ teaspoon soda
½ cup Crisco	¾ cup sour milk
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix flour, sugar, salt and Crisco. Save ¼ cup of mixture for top crumbs. To remainder, add baking powder, egg, soda, sour milk and cinnamon. Beat briskly until batter is smooth. Pour into two Criscoed cake pans and scatter crumbs of original mixture over tops. Bake for about 25 minutes in hot oven (400° F.). If you want a richer bread, add chopped nuts and raisins to batter, and sprinkle extra cinnamon on top before baking. The Crisco will keep it fresh. Reheating restores all the original fluffiness!

Highland Scones

A Scot from Aberdeen said these were better Scotch scones than Scotch scones—which was his way of being humorous and honest at the same time. A Caledonian viand with an American accent—speed; and with a delightful fresh sweet flavor imparted with a shortening that is itself sweet and fresh flavored—Crisco!

2 cups bread flour	½ cup milk
3 teaspoons baking powder	2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt	¾ cup grated American or pimento cheese
5 tablespoons Crisco

Blend Crisco with sifted dry ingredients. (No long process of cutting hard fat into the flour—Crisco is of workable consistency.) Stir in milk and eggs. Spoon dough onto oiled paper dusted with flour. Pat with hand to ¼ inch thickness. Spread grated cheese over half the dough, cover with other half and press gently together. Cut into squares and then crosswise to form triangles. Brush with milk to give a rich brown glaze, and bake in a hot oven (450° F.) from 10 to 15 minutes. Serve while hot with salad or for tea. Add 2 tablespoons sugar to the recipe and spread dough with jam or marmalade instead of cheese and you'll have a delectable breakfast scone. Crisco's own fresh flavor insures a fresh flavor to these scones when re-heated.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

CRISCO is used in the Cooking School now being conducted by this paper in the Belasco Theatre

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in The Washington Post Cooking School, makes a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Home of Representative Scene of Chimney Fire

Fire broke out in the chimney of the home of Representative Robert L. Bacon, of New York, at 1801 F street northwest, shortly before 7 o'clock last night and gained considerable headway before it was put under control. Mr. Bacon was reading in the library and was unaware of the blaze until notified by the battalion chief. Neither he nor any of his family were injured.

A passerby saw the smoke and turned in the alarm from Nineteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, two blocks distant.

Seven Killed in Bus Crash.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Seven persons were killed and thirteen injured last night when a motor coach, traveling between Laibach and Gross Soelland, plunged into a ditch and overturned. The accident was charged to the failure of the steering wheel.

$35,000 in Jewelry Missed by Woman

Visitor to New York Loses or Has Stolen Gems Worth Fortune.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Loss of between $30,000 and $35,000 worth of jewelry was reported to police today by Mrs. George A. Nichols, wife of an Oklahoma City, Okla., oil man. Mrs. Nichols, with her husband and daughter, arrived in New York Sunday.

Mrs. Nichols noted her loss in a candy shop shortly after she left a Fifth avenue department store. The jewelry was pinned in the lining pocket of her fur coat, and, appparently, dropped or was stolen through the parted side seam.

The lost articles included a 5-carat diamond ring, valued at $5,000; a diamond-studded bracelet, a small diamond-studded wrist watch and a platinum chain with pendants.

Judge Who Sentenced 'Whim Slayer' Guarded

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Police revealed today that they had posted a guard at the home of Judge Otto Kerner Saturday night after he had imposed the death sentence on August Vogel, "Whim Slayer," of Lyle Perrenoud.

The jurist's mother asked the guard after she said she saw a car loaded with rough looking men circling the block, apparently awaiting Judge Kerner's return home.

Poised for Death Leap, Woman Baffles Crowds

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Deliberating whether to jump from the sill of a fourth-floor Y. W. C. A. window here, a woman registered as Mrs. M. C. Haynes, 48, Tiffin, kept policemen, firemen and a crowd of other persons in suspense nearly half an hour today before she decided to give up the attempt.

Children in a school across the street first saw her swinging her feet on the ledge and called police. Firemen and pedestrians spread the life net. An aerial ladder was swung up. Police worked feverishly on the bolted door to her room. The spectators kept up a chorus of shouts, and she poised for a dive. Just as a newspaper photographer pointed his camera she crawled back in. Later she said she had lost her courage.

WOMEN AS PASTORS REFUSED BY CHURCH

Presbyterians Vote Down Liberalization Plan by 34 to 23.

MAY PRESIDE AS ELDERS

An appeal to liberalize the eligibility rules, governing the Presbyterian Church, to permit women to be ordained as ministers was yesterday rejected, 34 to 23, by the Washington City Presbytery. Approval was given another measure to permit women to preside as ruling elders. The vote was, 28 to 23.

The suggestions precipitated a prolonged debate during which Dr. T. Davis Richards, retired, was accused of circularizing the clergy against the proposal to permit women to be ruling elders. Dr. Freeley Rohrer, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, and W. K. Handy, an elder of the Arlington Presbyterian Church, who with Dr. Richards, comprise the committee on bills and overtures, declared that Dr. Richards had attempted to influence the clergy before the committee had returned its report.

Dr. Richards countered the charge with the remark that his letters were the expression of his personal opinion and he was supported in the contention that there had been nothing "unethical" in this procedure. The committee had voted adversely on both proposals, according to Chairman Rohrer.

Dr. Richards said it was his thought that the committee had supported the ruling elder proposal over his objection. To this the chairman replied that the committee report had been changed to be in harmony with Dr. Richards' views.

Mr. Handy declared that women are being held back in the church to a greater extent than in other professions. He supported both of the measures, which had been placed in the form of an overture before the General Assembly in St. Paul last May.

Dr. J. H. Miers, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, opposing the ordination proposal, declared that "woman's true sphere is in the home" and that the women would not accept the opportunity if it were granted them.

Dr. George S. Duncan, retired, in supporting the liberalization measure, said that the "dispensation of the Holy Spirit knows no sex."

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Two offenses of speeding are bad enough, but the endurance of the law is reached at the third. At the third violation, the motorist who simply can not keep his speed within proper limits is headed toward a heavy fine—and jail.

The traffic act prescribes a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500 and imprisonment of not less than 30 days nor more than one year for the third offense of speeding. The "and" in the law makes the jail sentence mandatory.

Example: A driver has violated the speed law twice and, forgetting his previous fines, proceeds to demonstrate the speed of his car on a third occasion. He can not escape with a fine, and the judge will see to it that he does not.

WOMAN DESCRIBES SLAYING AND ATTACK

Companion of Baltimorean Testifies at Trial of Man Accused.

DENIES SHE KNEW PRICE

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Burgess, companion of Reuben Heyman on the night he was shot to death January 2, today told from the witness stand her story of the killing and of a subsequent attack on her by Lorenzo Price, negro, at his trial for the murder. her sobs frequently interrupting her story and once bringing a court recess.

Mrs. Burgess, first witness of the day, took the stand immediately after John M. Lyell, counsel for the Negro, had made his opening statement, and under examination by Herbert R. O'Conor, State's attorney, denied Mr. Lyell's statement that she had known Price prior to the night of the murder; that she had met him on several occasions since their meeting at an interracial dance, and of taking money from him.

She also denied that the day before the killing of Heyman and the alleged assault on herself, she had met Price and made arrangements to meet him the following night with something to drink and a pistol, actions which also were attributed to her by Mr. Lyell.

Mrs. Burgess said she and Mr. Heyman were sitting in their parked machine when the Negro approached with a pistol, got in the car and forced Heyman to drive to a secluded spot, where he shot the driver and then attacked her. He then, she testified, forced her to sit with him for some time after he had taken what he told her were poison tablets and left only when lights of an approaching car alarmed him.

Price was half carried into court, still suffering from the wounds inflicted by a Baltimore County policeman in a gun battle several hours after the killing and attack, during which he was captured.

Honeymoon Pair Die in Plane Fire

Four Others Hurt as "Goliath" Craft Bursts Into Flames in England.

Marden, Kent, England, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—An English honeymoon couple were killed and four other persons were injured when a Goliath plane, bound from Paris to London, dived down to the emergency landing field here and burst into flames this afternoon.

A. Hodges, a naval schoolmaster, aged 28, and his wife, aged 21, were killed in the wreck. They were married only last Wednesday. Hugh Curson, of Hull, England; the French pilot, Nevot, and two French mechanics, Albeaux and Lesollier, were injured. All of them are expected to recover.

Curson did heroic rescue work, dashing into the flaming ruins of the airplane in spite of his own injuries, and extricating some of the others.

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Ralph Pulitzer announced today that he had relinquished the presidency of the Press Publishing Co., publishers of the World and the Evening World, to go abroad because of ill health, and that his brother, Herbert Pulitzer, had been elected to the office.

He said he was compelled to obey the orders of his physician and go abroad "for several months' complete rest and detachment from all office responsibilities."

Policeman Carrying Serum Races Death in New York

Motorcycle Officer Speeds 8 Miles Through Traffic in Twelve Minutes to Save Life of Small Child Ill With Meningitis.

New York, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Upon a motorcycle officer racing through crowded traffic at breakneck speed, covering 8 miles in twelve minutes, today hung the life of a child.

It was another serum race like that in the frozen North a few seasons ago Today's messenger was Motorcycle Policeman James McNally. Instead of dogs hitched to a sleigh he used his official motorcycle, and the frozen, trackless waste of that previous trip became the teeming streets of lower New York and Brooklyn from the foot of East Sixteenth street, in the New York side of the East River, to Trinity Hospital, in Brooklyn.

With his screeching siren to clear a path the officer flashed in and out, passing heavy trucks, delivery wagons and everything in his path. His average speed tallied 40 miles an hour when he reached his goal with the meningitis serum buttoned in an inside pocket, but at moments on the clear stretches his speedometer needle leaped to 75.

At the hospital the serum was immediately injected into Sondra Periowitz, 2½-year-old daughter of Dr. Harry Periowitz, a member of Trinity Hospital staff, dangerously ill from meningitis which developed suddenly this morning following mastoiditis.

The tiny Sondra rested tonight, her condition still unchanged, hospital authorities stated. It will be twelve hours or longer before physicians will know if the motorcycle officer's dangerous race has worked the miracle of saving the baby's life. Without the serum, however, doctors are convinced she could not have lived.

Miller, 22 years old, said in the radio message that he walked 14 miles between Hay Island and Oak Island to send word of his safety. He said he landed without difficulty but was unable to start the motor of his plane.

U. S. Cashier Held In Embezzlement

Printing Office Employe Makes Bond of $1,000 After Arrest.

Lawrence M. Hurdle, former cashier in the office of the superintendent of documents, a division of the Government Printing Office, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on a charge of embezzlement and ordered held under $1,000 bond for a hearing Friday. Hurdle pleaded not guilty.

Hurdle is specifically charged with embezzling $600, although discrepencies in his accounts are said to total $2,167.12. Much of this, it is believed by Assistant United States Attorney William A. Gallagher, who swore to the warrant, may be due to disallowances by the general accounting office.

Action against Hurdle was instigated by George H Carter, public printer; James W. Wallace, superintendent of accounts, and Alton P. Tisdel, superintendent of public documents. Hurdle was arrested yesterday, and was immediately taken before the commissioner He made bond.

BOY GIVEN 20 YEARS IN ASSAULTS ON PAIR

Annapolis Defendant Fails to Retain Counsel or to Question Witnesses.

ANOTHER IS CONVICTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 10.—Judge Robert Moss, in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, today invoked the maximum penalty allowed by law in the case of Andrew Holland, 17-year-old Negro convicted on two charges of assault with intent to kill Albert Glover, 64-year-old storekeeper of Churchton, and his wife, Olga Glover, 48. The Negro was sentenced to the penitentiary for 20 years, 10 years for each offense.

Holland was tried separately on the two charges and showed the utmost indifference throughout progress of the trials, except that he elected a jury trial in one instance, and expressed a preference for trial before Judge Moss in the other. He did not retain counsel, nor did he avail himself of the privilege of testifying in his own behalf, or questioning witnesses.

His conviction was entirely upon circumstantial evdience, as neither Mr. and Mrs. Glover was able to identify the Negro, nor were there any witnesses to the attack. Holland, who bore a bad reputation in Churchton, and who lives not far from the Glovers, was arrested by Sheriff Michael F. Carter a few hours after the attack. He had a shotgun in his possession which the sheriff said smelled of fresh powder smoke. Holland claimed he had used the gun to shoot hawks.

The attack upon the Glovers was committed last December 18 near midnight, when Mr. Glover was about to close his store. The Negro entered and made a gesture for a purchase, and while Glover's back was turned he struck the aged man over the head with a meat cleaver. Mrs. Glover was aroused by the disturbance and found her husband unconscious. He suffered a skull fracture. Mrs. Glover, in attempting to place her husband in an automobile outside the store to bring him to Emergency Hospital, Annapolis, was fired upon from ambush, a number of birdshot penetrating her face and body. Some of the shot also struck Mr. Glover. The Glovers were confined to the hospital for several weeks. Physicians said their recovery was remarkable in view of the nature of injuries.

Another criminal case disposed of in the local tribunal today was that of William Tyler, youthful Negro. He was convicted of first degree murder by a jury for the killing of his aged grandmother, Ellen Tyler, 84. Judge Moss has not passed sentence. The boy claims to be only 14 years old, but it is said his real age is 18. He did not testify, but the court permitted State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady to read into the evidence a confession, signed by the accused. In this the Negro admitted the act, saying that he beat the aged woman over the head with his fist and left her unconscious. Robbery was given as the motive, but the document added that he only took $1 of $3.25 which his grandmother had in the house.

Mother of Bergdoll Wins Damage Claim

Mrs. Emma E. Bergdoll, of Philadelphia, mother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, famous World War draft dodger, yesterday was awarded damages of $250 by a condemnation jury in the Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Md., for the privilege of constructing across her farm near Takoma Park a strip of the Willetts branch trunk sewer.

Mrs. Bergdoll had refused to allow the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission the right to lay the sewer line underground across her property. The sewage system is under construction to serve Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties.

Man Beaten and Robbed By Pair in Automobile

James B. Cirettas, 23 years old, of Capitol Heights, Md., suffered lacerations of the head and a fracture of the right ankle early yesterday morning when he was "taken for a ride" by two unidentified men who persuaded him to hop into an automobile with them, he reported to Seventh Precinct police.

Cirettas, taken to Emergency Hospital in the precinct patrol, said he was assaulted by the pair when the machine slowed down at Potomac and M streets northwest, robbed of a small amount of money and then thrown to the pavement.

$45,000,000 YEARLY SEEN FOR BUILDING

EXPECTS NO DECLINE

Private building operations will average $45,000,000 a year for the next three years on the basis of their cost and without allowance for the possibly higher market value of completed operations, according to an estimate made yesterday by Col. John W. Oehmann, District building inspector.

Col. Oehmann's estimate was contained in a report to Maj. D. A. Davison, assistant engineer commissioner, in the course of which the building inspector briefly reviewed the real estate market and the course of building operations in the District. He pointed out that the official District figures on building operations did not include Municipal or Federal construction.

Col. Oehmann's optimism about a resumption of a building boom was tempered, however, with the declaration that "present operators" either have to recuperate their resources or give way to another generation of builders who can carry forward the necessary work the growth of the city demands.

"Personally," he declared, "I do not believe the city is overbuilt. There are, however, a lot of out-of-date buildings that should, and would, be remodelled or removed for better structures, but owing to lack of money due to the recent upset in the stock market, these must be held over.

"The Federal building program will most certainly necessitate much rebuilding and new structures and a complete readjustment of the business area and contiguous residence districts.

"Certainly the amount of building operations in this city compares most favorably with our largest centers of population and I, for one, can not see any material decline. It is my estimate that the private building program for the coming year will approximate $45,000,000 and that this will represent the average for the two years following."

Private building operations authorized in January were estimated to cost $4,000,000. The estimate of the total for this year would be an increase of approximately $9,000,000 over the $36,129,765 authorized last year.

BILL TO STOP STOCK SWINDLERS IS ASKED

would be a fine of not more than $10,000, or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. No minimum penalty is prescribed.

The bill to regulate the real estate business here creates a commission of three, who would be appointed by the District Commissioners, and who, with the District assessor as an ex officio member, would have authority to issue annual licenses to real estate dealers and salesmen. It also would have authority to revoke licenses.

A license could be revoked in the case of any dealer or salesman found guilty of any action which constitutes "fraudulent or dishonest dealing."

The three real estate commissioners would be paid at the rate of $15 a day for days devoted to work for the board, but could not draw more than $2,000 a year.

In introducing the three bills, Senator Blaine explained that they were tentative, and that their introduction did not bind members of the Senate District committee to support them.

Hearings on the three measures probably will be ordered by Chairman Capper in the near future.

Virginia Society Lays Plans for Colonial Ball

A meeting of the executive committee of the Virginia Society was held last night at the Willard Hotel to discuss plans for the society's annual colonial pageant to be held on February 24.

The affair will be in the form of a costume ball. Appropriate figures will represent each important historical character and event from the founding of Virginia up until the time of George Washington.

Ponta Delgada, Azores, Feb. 10 (A. P.).—A huge crag overhanging Fort Cappellas fell today, crushing three persons and injuring another so severely he died in a hospital. A score of other pedestrians were injured.

Eggs at 20 Paces Used To Fight Modern Duel

Pittsburgh, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.) Frank Lobona, 35, and Elmer Bond, 34, both of Homestead, believe in dueling, but they are exact in observing the ethics of an "affair of honor" in a truly modern mode.

Shortly after dawn today both went to Homestead Athletic Park. Each carried with him a dozen fresh eggs. Both squared off to 20 paces while Joseph Kelly acted as referee. Then the barrage started. Lobona won with three direct hits on Bond's face. Kelly then stopped the encounter, declaring Lobona victorious.

The duel seems to be a yearly feature. The one last year ended in a draw. What it's all about no one seems to know.

Academy Employe Is Killed by Train

Filipino Mess Attendant Was Lying on Bridge, Motorman Says.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 10.—Elino Quimoris, 23 years old, a Filipino mess attendant employed in Bancroft Hall at the United States Naval Academy, was so horribly manged by a W. B. & A. train on the bridge over College Creek this evening that he died an hour after the accident in Emergency Hospital

The motorman of the train, Arthur Miller, informed police that when almost in the center of the bridge he suddenly saw Quimoris sprawled out upon the tracks. Before he could bring the train to a stop it had passed over the lad's body.

A cursory examination by attendants at the hospital revealed that Quimoris, in addition to his multiple injuries, was also suffering from a fractured leg. Police are investigating the accident on the theory that Quimoris may have been the victom of foul play and placed on the bridge to cover the crime or that he stepped through the trestle, breaking his leg and then losing consciousness.

Veterinarian Accused Of Murdering Couple

Lebanon, Ky., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Dr. W. R. Morgan, 50, veterinarian, was held in jail here today, charged with murder as a result of the killing of two Negroes and the wounding of a Negro baby in a fight that police quoted him as saying began over the purchase of liquor.

After a professional call Sunday night, he was approached by a Negro and on taking out his pocketbook, he claimed that Kendrick Jarboe, 35, a Negro, struck him on the head with a club. He opened fire, killing Jarboe as he ran into the home of Earl Adams, a Negro. Bullets which went through the door killed the latter's wife, Cordelia, aged 18, and struck her baby in the arm.

Robbery Alibi Leads To Charge of Murder

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—In establishing an alibi that freed him of a highway robbery charge Charles Williams, Negro, late today landed himself in jail on a charge of murdering a barge captain at New London, Conn., early last month. Williams testified that he could not have committed the holdup with which he was charged as he was on barge 29 at the time.

A detective recalled a telegram from the New London police January 15 asking the arrest of Charles Williams, Negro, wanted for the alleged murder of the captain of barge 29, and Williams was arrested just after the jury had acquitted him on his robbery alibi.

SHE has tested the purity of the ingredients used. She has seen how thoroughly each loaf is baked. And then she has bought Bond Bread at her grocer's—fresh from the oven, well-browned, firm and close-knit in texture, home-like in flavor. Like more than a million other women who buy it every day, she recognizes in Bond the ideal loaf of the American housewife—for 43,040 housewives helped to perfect it.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, and from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m.

An unsettled feeling and a desire for change will be the result of the influences for this date. An investigation will reveal a surprise and will inure to your benefit. Experience will be the teacher of the day.

The child born on this February 11th will have a very sweet disposition, although it will be rather weak willed and easily influenced. It will have artistic tastes, dainty habits, and considerable pride about its personal appearance. It will seldom show signs of ill-temper.

You have very set and very decided ideas and notions about life and ways of living. The more routine your existence, the happier you are. Time-table ways appeal to you. You are honest, upright and morbidly conscientious, but unfortunately you want others to have the same "virtues," the same outlook on life, and the same beliefs as you have yourself. You expect others to adapt themselves to your ways. You are not willing to budge an inch. It can almost be said that you are more fond of things than people.

You adore your own particular ruts and you are never eager for adventurous expeditions. You are a conscientious worker and almost painfully particular about everything you do. If you be a woman, you have fastidious tastes, and everything about you must "be just so." "Neat and spotless," is no doubt an accurate description of your home, and you must realize that although you may be an enviable housekeeper, it is doubtful if you are a cheery homemaker. Both men and women born on a February 11th make dutiful stern parents, but very poor pals to their children. A little more leniency, a little more tolerance and a little more playfulness are needed in your make-up. It will pay you to unbend a little bit more—the world will love you more if you do.

Successful people born February 11:

1—Daniel Boone, pioneer of Kentucky.

2—Benjamin F. Sands, naval officer.

3—Alexander H. Stephens, statesman.

4—Washington Gladden, clergyman and author.

5—Alexander Herrmann, prestidigitator.

6—Thomas A. Edison, inventor.

Jane Eads INTERPRETS the MODE

An odd and individual note sounded in evening wear, for Mistinguette, the famous French actress. (Courtesy of Louiseboulanger, Paris.)

Paris, Feb. 10.

"NO foolin," tea at the Ritz as a heavy subject for an excuse to blab about fashions always gives me a pain. Tea at the Ritz most anywhere in the world usually does give you a pain, if you have a sense of humor—especially in Paris.

Last winter it was mink and diamonds; this winter it is "squ-oil" and diamonds. Next winter it will be something else 'n' diamonds.

And I do believe there isn't any place in the world where you can see so much feminine cattiness—for so little reason—as at the tea hour in the Paris Ritz. After all, its no great trick pinning diamonds on yourself and covering a multitude of sins with mink. Real elegance demands a great deal more for her approval!

• • • •

No, nobody stepped on my feelings at the Ritz—but honestly, now, I get so tired of reading about the place and having it held up to the long-suffering public as the last word in the way of a place to see fashions!

• • • •

As we were saying yesterday, the experienced traveler will have less baggage than the inexperienced traveler, yet every piece of baggage will mean something.

One large very fat suitcase for clothes, one intelligently constructed dressing case for make-up and beauty repairs, one hat box actually for hats, one small very solid suitcase actually for shoes and odd things like a raincoat, collapsible umbrella and books—and there you are. You can go around the world with this and never miss a trunk!

• • • •

We nearly dropped dead our own selves! Surely she couldn't mean it—so we frantically scrambled all over the place looking for the good-looking director to implore him to tell us if the dress we saw wending its way through Louiseboulanger's salon actually had any style significance. And we breathed a sigh of relief to find out that it was a special gown made for Mistinguette, and we were not to worry, because it was not meant to be the last word in the mode.

Whereupon we breahed another sigh of relief and sketched it for you!

• • • •

Is your blouse, for spring, just another blouse? We've got ideas! Chic, colorful designs for incrustations and appliques, which you yourself can use to make your blouse so-o-o attractive. In a minute's time you can add that finishing touch which makes all the difference. Isn't it worth sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for all the good ideas we have put into this week's illustrated leaflet? Not only blouses, either . . . but sweaters 'n' jacquettes!

• • • •

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: As an interested reader of your column I would greatly appreciate your view on the following: For the past five years I have been keeping company with a young man who has been wonderful to me. By this I mean he is my idea of wonderful, one who has been kind and considerate; who has treated me with the utmost respect under all conditions; one that can be trusted under all circumstances. A real home-loving man who does not spend his spare time "shieking;" one that is not afraid of a hard day's work. And most important of all he has a good reputation and is not afraid to come in contact with anyone regarding same. Now after all this you must think that I want a god if I am not satisfied. However, there is one great fault he possesses. If it isn't a fault, then don't hesitate telling me; if it is, well, tell me anyway. In all events by answering you will assist me greatly. Now here is my "problem." While he has manifested his love for me in several emergencies still his family always comes first with him. Now to my way of thinking I should come first some time. I have never confronted him with this, but it is evident in almost every one of his actions. There is no one in his family helpless; on the other hand, they are all very capable of looking out for themselves. Nevertheless, it seems that they are always seeking excuses to use him at home. My dates are not certainties, many times I believe they would be it if wasn't for some family task or favor asked of him.

I do not mean to be selfish, neither do I want to be ungrateful, for to me these are two of the worst sins against anyone's slate. I do so want never to let greed take possession of me. Therefore, am I asking too much when I expect that he should put me first on some occasions, particularly when he has told me of his love for me and his willingness to meet my wishes? I will never call it to his attention, for I would never want to be the girl that would bring trouble or strife between a man and his family. For to his way of thinking perhaps he figures that the day may come when they will be of more help to him than I have been or will be.

Let me assure you that it takes courage on my part to have my mind all made up to go out, only to find that due to the wishes of his family he has to go elsewhere. Maybe it is because I love him so much that I can not fight with him; maybe it is because he has been so clean and decent and respectful toward me. What do you think? You'll be frank, I know; many years of reading your column have proved this to me.

My dear, when the day comes that you are this man's "family" you will bless the years of habit that have made him consider his home the center of the universe. You are a splendid girl and I hope you marry this chap whose only fault is that he likes to have his family look to him for the little helps and comforts that a son and brother can provide.

Meanwhile you will not be causing strife or being "catty" if you tell him that when he has asked you to devote an evening to him, you expect nothing to be permitted to interfere. You need not quarrel, but you must be firm. It is a question of courtesy and you are entitled to every courtesy that he can offer. Next time he plans some event, tell him that you will be glad to set aside the evening provided he will regard the engagement as binding. His behavior is probably due to lack of thought. So make him think. But above all things do not feel that his intention is to belittle you, or to weigh in the balance your importance and his family's importance. He is just an obliging member of a family circle, and obliging members of family circles are kept pretty busy! Nevertheless it is vital that you bring to his attention your side of the question. So do so in your nicest manner, and I believe you will find that there will be no more broken dates.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

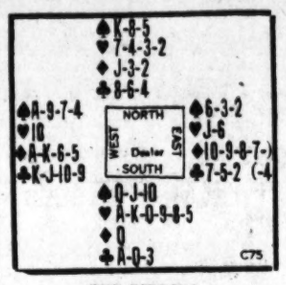
WORK ON BRIDGE

INTERESTING HANDS I HAVE MET.

I AM starting today a series of hands, each of which contains some unusual, clever and interesting play. The series will run for a short time, starting each week on Tuesday and continuing through Friday. Readers are urged to make up their minds how they would bid and play the hand before they read the description.



THE BIDDING.

The hand was played at Auction Bridge. South started with a bid of one Heart, West doubled, East bid two Diamonds, and South finally was forced to four Hearts which West doubled.

In Contract Bridge the bidding would have been very similar, except that South would have started by bidding three Hearts, North would have jumped to four. In both games South would be the Declarer with his contract four Hearts doubled.

THE PLAY.

In the play, West held the King of Diamonds and shifted to trumps when South's Queen fell. In view of South's strong Heart bidding and the four small trumps showing in the dummy, West felt that a trump lead could not be harmful.

After winning the Heart trick, Declarer could see that he must lose one Spade and one Club. Should he try the Club finesse and find the King in the West hand, as he probably would in view of West's double, he would fail to go game because in that case the adversaries would win one Spade, one Diamond and Two Clubs.

Declarer saved the situation by leading a second round of trumps to exhaust the adversaries, and then the Queen of Spades. West won and led another Spade—the best thing to do under the circumstances. North won and led a Diamond which South ruffed with the Eight. South then led his good Spade and next the Five of Hearts, North winning with the Seven. North then led the Jack of Diamonds on which South, instead of ruffing, discarded a small Club. This combination of elimination and lead-placing forced West to lead up to South's Ace-Queen of Clubs. If West had led either a Diamond or a Spade, dummy would have trumped and South discarded his Queen of Clubs; so South's clever manipulation of the hand insured game.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

FROM Margaret Brooke, of Newark, N. J., an indefatigable publicist who, from time to time, has remonstrated with this column for having meagerly modified certain of her intimacies pertaining to the manifold charms of her apparently major account, we have just received confirmation of the report that Ernst Lubitsch is to direct Jeanette MacDonald in another Paramount film.

Shortly after Miss MacDonald's debut in "The Love Parade," with Maurice Chevalier — Miss Brooke speaking—she received a most courteous note of congratulation from Lubitsch in which he stated he would like to do another picture with her. The astute Teuton approves of Miss MacDonald for several reasons—she is a very likeable person in herself; she has a great sense of humor and is intelligent enough to accept direction, without at all taking into consideration her pictorial value on the screen and the quality of her speaking and singing voice. Or should it be voices?

The new Lubitsch picture is to be an original operetta of the same satirical type as "The Love Parade" and is the product of the same author, Ernest Vadja.

It seems wholly safe to risk the opinion that not during this season, or probably any other, will the screen divulge a more perfectly limned or more delightful characterization than that being currently offered by Beryl Mercer in the role of Mrs. Dowey in "Seven Days' Leave," at the Palace. Her assumption of the dominant character in the translated Barrie play of "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" is one of those rare accomplishments of perfection that occur a surprisingly few times in a generation.

Miss Mercer has long been looked upon as one of the stage's most gifted actresses, but not even such excellent screen performances as she gave in Universal's production of "We Americans," opposite George Sidney, or in Pathe's production of "Mother's Boy," starring Morton Downey, forecasted the consummate artistry she has revealed in "Three Live Ghosts" and her present vehicle.

It may be of interest to know that in private life Miss Mercer is the wife of Holmes Herbert, also a camera actor of many fine performances, and that they are the parents of a 12-year-old daughter, Joan.

The line I liked best in "The Night Ride," at the Rialto, was spoken by Lydia Yeamans Titus to Barbara Kent, about to be married to Joe Rooker, star police reporter of the Globe, as follows:

"I'd rather see you married to a sailor than to a newspaper man!"

Now, what could she have against sailors!

If Mr. Daly will pardon the intrusion, "Across the World With Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson," being shown at the National, is the first talking picture released by this intrepid pair, as well as the first in which the adventures of the three Boy Scouts who accompanied the expedition are depicted.

This, no doubt, accounts for the distinguished list of national sponsors, many well known in Washington, which includes: Henry Fairfield Osborn, president American Museum of Natural History; Alice Roosevelt Longworth, George Eastman, Daniel E. Pomeroy, Hon. James J. Davis, Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, Representative Daniel A. Reed, Senator Frederick C. Walcott, Dr. William M. Mann, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, Senator Carter Glass, Gifford Pinchot, Dr. C. G. Abbott, F. Trubee Davison, George Palmer Putnam, Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mrs. William Wolff Smith and Maj. Gen. Charles T. Summerall.

I don't know how old the Singer Midgets are, individually or as a troupe, but there are among those appearing at the Fox this week several whom I distinctly remember from the first time I ever saw the act, and that was a greater number of years ago than I have any present intention of admitting. The surprising part of it is that these veteran Lilliputian players look precisely the same today as they did 'way back yonder.

And don't forget that heart-shaped box of candy Friday!

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

CREEPING PEN FOR A BABY.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

A creeping pen affords the necessary protection and gives room for exercise. It consists of a fence made in four sections, each 18 inches high and 4 feet long, hinged at three corners and latched at the fourth. Ready-made pens have spindles like a stair rail, so that the baby may have something to take hold of when he tries to climb to his feet. As it folds together, the pen can be readily moved about. The floor of the pen should have a washable cover tied to the corners by strong tapes. Denim or ticking may be used. A combination bed and play pen, the sides of which are covered with wire netting, is on the market. It has also a spring and mattress and is covered below with netting. The bed has a cover which protects the baby from flies and mosquitoes. It is fitted with casters or wheels, so that it may be moved about readily. It may be folded up when not in use.

When it is not possible to purchase one of the ready-made articles an ingenious person may devise a satisfactory play pen from materials at hand, or a smooth board 6 or 8 feet long and a foot wide may be used to fence off a sunny corner of the nursery for a pen.

CHICAGO GANG HAUL HAS DWINDLED TO 22

Majority of More Than 900 Arrested Are Freed for Lack of Evidence.

LEADERS NOT MOLESTED

Chicago, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Forces of the law in Chicago, having staged a round-up of gangsters and suspicious characters over the week-end, today prepared to carry on their drive to rid the city of its "reign of terror" by dealing out heavier penalties to those caught in the dragnet with weapons concealed on their persons.

There were 22 of these out of a total of more than 900 brought in. They will be tried in the criminal court instead of in the municipal court, as heretofore.

The move was made not only to avoid the long delays in trial which enabled unwilling witnesses to disappear or "forget" what happened but also so that more severe sentences could be handed out.

The scores of other prisoners detained on charges of disorderly conduct were dismissed in municipal court this morning for lack of evidence. It was regarded as significant of the hold the criminal syndicate has in Chicago that none of the leaders or prominent members of the various "mobs" were brought in. None of the headquarters of the two or three large gangs were molested by police.

The grand jury which is to hear the charges against the gun carriers was told today by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty, of the Criminal Court, to "assist prosecutors fearlessly, to the end that the stains on the name of Chicago will be removed."

One robbery and one attempt at a holdup in which a dentist was wounded were reported today. The robbery netted $2,100 from a woman cashier who was carrying the money in her purse.

Smoker Is Arranged By Holy Name Group

An entertainment and smoker will be held tonight for the men of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church in the church hall, by the Holy Name Society of the church.

Speakers will be the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., of the Dominican House of Studies, Catholic University, and the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore.

Entertainment will be furnished by Fred East, Bill Raymond, Ambrose Durkin, Joseph B. Water, Bernard Fitzgerald, George O'Connor and Matt Horne. A short sketch will be presented by the St. Gabriel's Young People's Club.

Homesick Man Walks Back to Face Charges

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 10.—Despite the fact that a charge of forgery awaited his return, Noah Green, Waynesboro, walked almost the entire distance from Buffalo, N. Y., to his home because he was homesick. Green forged two checks, a fact which he admits, and then left for Buffalo to seek work.

When he could find no employment he went to the police and asked that he be arrested and sent back to Waynesboro. The police at Waynesboro were notified and did not know at the time he had forged any checks, so declined to furnish transportation. Buffalo police released him and Green then started for home. He is now in jail awaiting trial.

Scene, Denmark, near the castle of Elsinore.

As an auspicious start to a repertoire of Shakespearean plays—at Poli's Theater throughout the week—Fritz Leiber last night played "Hamlet."

Surrounding the star is a goodly company of Shakespearean players, enrolled under the banner of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society. Since some of the outstanding social and civic leaders of Washington, and educators, too, have sponsored this troupe, a veritable reception greeted them on the opening night. Poli's was packed.

With wealth behind it, the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society has vested its company with glorious habiliments. The wardrobe is in keeping with the splendor of the text. Hence, those who journeyed to Poli's Theater last night saw not only the acting ability commensurate with the play but courtly clothes, and splendid scenes, that lent a flavor to it all.

'Twas away back in the days of the old Garrick Theater, here, that Mr. Leiber first came into prominence as a player of parts. His art has progressed since those days, his voice lost none of its strength, and his poise perfect. Thus, his Hamlet, aided and abetted by a keen and intelligent interpretation of the character, stands apart.

However, Mr. Leiber has something else to his credit. He does not take the star's prerogative and try to run away with the play. His soliloquy is sterling recitation, with no bombast. His instruction to the players is splendid. Fortified, then, by a splendid acting company whose resonant voices and clear-cut diction make for a marvelous melody of sound, there is little more need be said. This is Shakespeare as Shakespeare himself might enjoy it.

Further, it is not a stilted nor studied Shakespeare, but a performance done with an ease and grace that court a charm of their own.

Louis Leon Hall makes a magnificent Claudius. Virginia Bronson, his queen, is sufficient to the task. Philip Quin, an expert Polonious, scores again in a familiar role. Lawrence H. Cecil does handsomely by Laertes. The surprise of the company is dainty little Marie Carroll cast as Ophelia—the Marie Carroll seen here so many times in lighter roles—and she is graceful and beautiful in the extreme. Robert Strauss is the first grave digger, true to form.

Visualizing all the principals cast in the various roles assigned them in future plays, here is a week of rare theatricals; for if "King Lear," "Othello," "Twelfth Night," "Julius Caesar" and the rest measure up to this standard the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society may well win the title, Bearer of the Torch.

One of the charms of Fritz Leiber and his players is that they have sensed the soul of Shakespeare—plumbed the depths of the scripts and have not suffocated.

Two Men, Girl Arrested On Charges of Robbery

Released recently from jail after serving more than nine years for wounding Traffic Policeman W. L. Cunningham, then attached to the Fifth Precinct, Howard L. Tanner, colored, 33 years old, of Six-and-one-half street, near D street southwest, was arrested early last night on charges of robbery, carrying concealed weapons and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Tanner was taken in custody on the complaint of Helen Speaks, colored, Temple court southwest. They also arrested Norris Johnson, colored, 27 years old, of C street, near Third street southwest, on charges of robbery. Detective Barrett likewise arrested the woman on a warrant charging her with robbery of a coat valued at $55 from a colored man residing in Snow court southwest.

Valuable Dog's Killing Investigated by Police

Death of a valuable sprinter spaniel from a bullet wound at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was investigated by Fourteenth Precinct police at the request of its owners, Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthew Dick, of 2850 Woodland drive.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick reported that the dog disappeared from the residence for a few minutes, returned from beyond a nearby hill and fell dead in the front yard with a bullet in its side. They said they heard no shot fired. Police arrested as a suspect a colored man who had threatened to kill any dogs in the neighborhood which molested him, but he was released later.

Lad Is Bitten by Dog.

While 8-year-old Louis Lancaster, of 2222 G street northwest, was playing with his pet dog while dressing yesterday for school, the dog bit him on the side of his face. Later in the day, at Emergency Hospital, his affection toward the dog showed signs of returning despite the ugly bite.

Park Is Considered By Fine Arts Group

Meridian Hill Project Is Discussed With Mellon; Other Plans Heard.

Plans for the completion of Meridian Hill Park were among the half dozen projects taken up by the Commission of Fine Arts yesterday at its February meeting, which also included a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and his board of architectural consultants relative to the public buildings program.

H. P. Caemmerer, secretary of the commission, stated that the commission was not yet ready to make an announcement in regard to any of the plans considered, and that it had adjourned until next month. It is understood, however, that the conference with Secretary Mellon was in reference to proposed structures in the triangle south of Pennsylvania avenue.

Among the plans and designs considered by the commission were those for the George Rogers Clark Memorial to be erected by authority of Congress, at Vincennes, Ind.; the design for the second Nicaraguan campaign medal, submitted by the Navy Department; the Leif Ericcson statue to be given by the United States to Iceland; the bust of Tecumseh for the United States Naval Academy, and plans for the new courthouse at Rockville, Md.

Wickersham Will Talk Over Radio on U. S. Flag

Former United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham, present chairman of the National Commission on the Observance and Enforcement of Law, is to speak this afternoon over the National Broadcasting Co.'s network on "The American Flag: Symbol of Good Will."

This is the second in a series of seven fifteen-minute talks by prominent Americans sponsored by the United States Flag Association and the National Broadcasting Co. Mr. Wickersham's talk will deal with the Flag as a symbol of victories of peace, not of war.

Auto Group Irked By Car Advertising

Committee Will Discuss Matter With Officials of Trolley Lines.

The 1930 automobile show, concluded last week at the Auditorium, was the most successful ever held under the auspices of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, it was indicated on the basis of a report submitted to the organization last night by Rudolph Jose, chairman of the show committee. At its regular monthly meeting, held at the Racquet Club, the W. A. T. A. heard a preliminary report which, it is pointed out, places this year's show at the top of the list.

A committee will be appointed, as a result of protests voiced at last night's meeting, to investigate alleged advertising by local street car companies directed against the use of automobiles. This advertising, said to take the form of cards placed on the outside of street cars, was alleged by association members to be of an unfair nature.

PRICE CHANGES FEW IN STOCK TURNOVER

Gains and Losses Nearly Evenly Balanced as Sales Slump.

AVIATION SHARES CLIMB

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Speculative enthusiasm waned today, and transactions on the stock exchange fell off close to 3,000,000 shares as professional traders contested undecisively for control of the price movement. Price trends were uncertain throughout most of the day, and at the close gains and losses were evenly balanced.

The market moved higher during the first hour of trading. Under continuation of the short covering which set in late Saturday, renewed liquidation soon appeared, however, and the market turned dull.

Business news and the week-end mercantile and industrial reviews indicated that the normal February uncertainty was making itself felt at levels of activity substantially below this period a year ago. Traders generally were disposed to await signs of the expected spring revival.

Call Money Rates Firmer.

Rather unexpectedly, in view of the lower rediscount rates, call money was firmer, renewing again at 4 per cent, but moving up to 4½ before the close. The 4 per cent level evidently failed to attract funds, and banks called about $40,000,000 in loans in preparation for the midweekly settlement at the Federal Reserve. As expected, however prime commercial paper sagged from 4¾ to 4½ per cent. The St. Louis Reserve Bank, the only one left on a 5 per cent rediscount rate, cut its rate to 4½.

United States Steel's unfilled tonnage report, as of January 31, showed a gain during the month of 51,517 tons, somewhat less than Wall street estimates, running from 75,000 to 100,000 tons. It was reported that Gulf States Steel would become part of the Republic group.

Among 1929 earnings reports coming to hand, Goodyear Tire was notable, showing $9.34 per common share, after an appropriation of $1,250,000 for unforeseen contingencies, against $7.31 in 1928. Gillette showed a substantial decline from the previous year, owing to expenses of bringing out its new razor.

Canadian Pacific Loses.

Some recent strong spots among the rails ran into profit taking. Canadian Pacific and Lackawanna lost about 3 and Atchison and Union Pacific 1 point. Several other carriers' stocks were in good demand, however, notably Allegheny Corporation, Rock Island, Frisco, Nickel Plate and New Haven.

Radio moved up a couple of points in a large turnover, and it was rumored in Wall street that stock was again under accumulation by a British group which liquidated a large block just before the market crashed last October. Columbia Graphophone showed sympathetic strength. Aviation shares gave the best performance in weeks, the Curtiss Wright issues gaining about 2 points. General Foods moved up as much, reflecting reports that a profitable contract with Swift & Co. for use of the former's meat-freezing process was being negotiated. Auburn Auto gained 7 points, Curtiss Publishing 5 and International Harvester, American Power & Light, Electric Storage Battery and a few others, 2 points or more.

Several of the tobacco shares encountered profit taking, as the expected increase in wholesale prices still failed to appear. The American Tobacco shares B lost 2 and 3 points. Fox Film A slipped back a couple of points, in nervous selling in anticipation of the reappearance of the receivership case in Federal court tomorrow. Mail order shares were heavy. Montgomery Ward and Sears, Roebuck losing a couple of points each. Johns Manville lost 2 points, and U. S. Steel 1.

Commodities Prove Stronger.

The commodity markets displayed a somewhat better tone. Wheat futures mounted a cent and more, reflecting reports of crop damage in Texas and colder weather in Europe. Corn futures gained ½ cent and more on reports of crop damage in Illinois. Cotton rallied $1.50 to $2 a bale in further short covering.

Foreign exchanges were featured by heaviness of leading European currencies, in belated response to the lower bank rates abroad. Sterling Cables sagged 3-16 to a new low for the year at $4.86¼.

BOND MARKET SEES INDUSTRIALS CLIMB

Convertible Rails Advance Slightly as Turnover Drops $3,000,000.

UTILITIES ARE INACTIVE

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Seasoned investment bonds lost some of their recent momentum in today's market, which saw a decline of more than $3,000,000 in the volume of trading from last Friday's total. Prime rails and United States Governments made small changes on diminished turnovers. Domestic industrials and convertible rails showed a little progress, but the average for 30 representative bonds was unchanged.

New Haven convertible 6s moved up 3¼ points on the strength of the shares. The issue closed at 133½ for a net gain of 3½. Atchison 4½s advanced half a point to 140, while Missouri Pacific 5½s rose a point, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s, the liveliest stock feature rail, was up a quarter.

Fractional improvement in Canadian National 4½s, 1968, New York Central 5s, Virginian 5s and Southern Railway 5s was matched by small downward movements in other high grade carrier obligations, notably Union Pacific first 4s, Southern Railway general 4s, Reading general 4½s and Lake Shore 3½s. Louisville & Nashville (Southern "Monon") 4s gained a point and Missouri, Kansas & Texas prior lien B 4s rose 2. Small sales of Morris & Essex 3½s, coincident with the oversubscription of the same road's $25,000,000 offering of 5s and 4½s, were made at a concession of 3½ points.

Trading in the industrials was not particularly brisk, but it carried Republic Iron & Steel 5½s and Lackawanna Steel 5s up more than a point and lifted Rubber Co. bonds to slightly higher levels.

The utilities rested. American Telephone 5s of 1965 held just above 101, but were noticeably less active. The same company's convertible 4½s lost ⅞ on the day, while International Telephone's share privilege 4½s gained 1. Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s, when issued, moved in some volume at around 95½.

In the foreign section, Cuba Republic 5½s lost a point to 99¼ on announcement of a $40,000,000 offering of fifteen-year public works bonds bearing the same coupon rate. The loan is to be sold tomorrow at 98. Changes in leading European government obligations were of a minor nature. The French 7½s and 7s each eased ⅜. Australian 5s and 4½s and New South Wales 5s of 1958 improved on the statement issued by Australia's commissioner general in New York in denial of London reports that the Commonwealth might postpone interest payments on overseas loans. The statement, issued last Saturday, also said that Australia could take care of internal loan maturities without having recourse to foreign markets, as had been rumored.

16 FINANCIAL FIRMS PLAN MUTUAL GROUP

Protective Association to Fix Commissions Is Being Considered.

IDEA USED ELSEWHERE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Preliminary plans for a mutual co-operative and protective association for the sixteen local financial houses which are members of the New York Stock Exchange will be submitted to their representatives for approval next Monday, it was announced yesterday following a discussion of the matter by representatives of all firms concerned at the Metropolitan Club.

The idea was approved informally at yesterday's conference, but details of the plan must be perfected and these will be intrusted to a special committee. Under the plan, the protective association could consider minimum commissions, fix the size of odd lots to be dealt in and protect members against undesirable customers.

The plan, now employed in other cities, has proved very beneficial. Leaders in the local movement are George A. Garrett, resident partner in F. B. Keech & Co.; A. Chester Flather, one of the comanagers of the local office of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., and Arthur Foraker, local manager of Eastman, Dillon & Co.

Bankers' Convention Officer.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, secretary, American Security & Trust Co., has been named vice chairman of the general committee for the convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at Asheville, N. C., June 5 to 8. In this office, he will assist George O. Vass, vice president and cashier, Riggs National Bank, general committee chairman, in arrangement of the twelfth annual meeting of local bankers.

As chairman of last year's convention program committee Mr. Siddons assembled a noteworthy group of speakers, including Rome C. Stephenson, South Bend, Ind., second vice president, American Bankers Association; P. Winchester Denio, vice president, Old Colony Trust Co., Boston, and H. H. McKee, president, National Capital Bank, of this city.

In 1926 Mr. Siddons was chairman of the convention publicity and press committee. During the administrative year 1925-26, he assisted Vice President Howard Moran, American Security & Trust Co., then president of the association, in the edition of the Bulletin, its monthly publication. During the following administrative year, he was chairman of the association's press and publicity committee and in 1928 became vice chairman of the convention program committee. In 1928-29 he served as chairman of the association's committee on commercial trade activities and this year is chairman of its insurance committee.

Article on Bonds Published.

J. A. W. Iglehart & Co., investment bankers and members of the New York Stock Exchange, have published in booklet form the article by Earl Willis on "Bonds as a Secondary Reserve for Banks," which attracted wide attention when it recently appeared in Barron's Financial Weekly.

According to the Iglehart firm, banks in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia, where its offices are located have begun, again in recent weeks to become active buyers of bonds after having been out of the market to a large extent during the period of stock market inflation and declining bond prices. Much of the improved tone of the bond market, both in the absorption of new issue and the strengthening of prices is attributed to institutional buying.

Norman E. Towson, assistant treasurer and manager of the foreign department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., is a business visitor in Philadelphia.

LAMONT FORESEES BUSINESS NORMALCY

Commerce Secretary Says Unemployment Is Also Improving in U. S.

SURVEY IS COMPLETED

(Associated Press.)

An approximately normal level in the production and distribution of commodities in the United States for this season was announced yesterday by Secretary Lamont after a study of business survey data received at the Department of Commerce.

He asserted also a conviction that the unemployment situation was more favorable than might have been expected in view of the stock market slump last fall.

"It is to be remembered that January and February represent rather low-point periods in the calendar schedule of American business," Secretary Lamont said.

However, we are having pretty good reports from constructions and from productions generally, and there is grounds for assuming that this is about the normal year."

Farm Board Ready To Aid Grain Mart

Will Make First Attempt to Take Crop Surplus From Market.

(Associated Press.)

Guaranteeing funds of the United States Government against any loss that might be incurred, the Farm Board was ready last night for the first attempt to remove a crop surplus—that of wheat—from the market.

A credit of $10,000,000 for initial operations was set aside and the board showed that, if a quorum were present today, it would approve the new Grain Stabilization Corporation set up yesterday at Dover, Del.

The corporation was organized by Capper-Volstead grain cooperatives. William G. Kellogg, general manager of the grain corporation, was elected president.

The Stabilization Corporation is a nonstock concern, operated entirely on Government funds which are to be repaid in event of a profit or checked against the revolving fund in event of a deficit.

Treasury to Get New Security Bids

$50,000,000 in Bills to Be Offered February 14, Mellon Announces.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon announced yesterday the Treasury will receive bids for Treasury bills to the amount of approximately $50,000,000 up to 2 o'clock on the afternoon of February 14.

It will be the second time the Treasury has resorted to the newly authorized Treasury bills to raise funds to provide money for Government operations. The bids, the Secretary said, will be examined as soon as possible after the closing hour, probably the following morning.

The bills will be dated February 18, and will mature on May 19. They do not bear interest but are sold at a discount to the highest bidder.

Slattery Wins Over Scozza On Points

Rallies After Being on Verge of Knockout at Buffalo.

Victor Is Recognized as Champion by N. Y. Solons.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Debonair Jimmy Slattery, Irish pride of Buffalo's famous Ward One, rallied from the verge of a knockout tonight to win a brilliant 15-round victory over Lou Scozza, his home town enemy, and with it the recognition of the New York State Athletic Commission as the new light-heavyweight champion of the world.

Beaten once by Tommy Loughran, the retired champion, in a title test, the dancing Irishman came into his own as a crowd of 11,000 in the Buffalo Auditorium cheered him out of the valley of almost certain defeat in the thirteenth round and on to a victory that was clean and decisive. Although one judge voted the match a draw, Referee Jim Crowley and the second judge gave Slattery a decisive margin, in the opinion of newspaper men, Slattery won nine rounds, Scozza five and one was even.

Scozza Gives Display Of Courage.

The battered Scozza, a strong, awkward Italian youth whose fame is mostly local, gave a splendid display of courage in the thirteenth session. With one eye completely closed, the other badly cut and blood dripping from a wound in his forehead, Scozza suddenly changed his tactics, leaped frantically upon Slattery with wild overhand swings and in a twinkling changed the aspect of the battle entirely.

One right thudded on the startled Slattery's cheek and a left flashed clean to his chin. Jimmy's eyes closed and he reeled backward into the ropes, his arms helpless at his sides. Scozza tore into him with both arms flailing and Slattery toppled toward the floor.

As Jimmy went down, one arm slipped over the middle rope and his body fell over the strand. He hung there like a dummy tossed over a fence, while the referee tried to keep Scozza from him and the timekeeper tried to count. Jimmy came back at the count of four, but was in bad shape.

With the utmost difficulty, Slattery managed to clinch and wobble through the remainder of the round. It appeared as if the youthful Scozza, wild and overanxious, could have finished the slender veteran with one solid punch, but Lou refused to hold his arm long enough to take careful air. Instead he poured leather on tottering Jimmy and not only missed the vulnerable spots, but also his sole chance of winning the championship.

Slattery in Trouble In 14th Round.

Slattery had a difficult time of it in the fourteenth session until the cobwebs left in his brain by the beating of the previous round cleared. Once Jimmy regained a grip on himself, however, he took every advantage of Scozza's wildness, shooting punches through wide openings and tying up the Italian youngster in frequent clinches.

Until the wild scramble of the thirteenth round there was none too much action and excitement. Slattery, the dancing wraith of the ring, flitted about the inexperienced Scozza, shooting long lefts in a steady stream to Lou's head. In close, where Scozza likes best to battle, Jimmy managed to block most of Lou's shots, but did take enough punches to leave his left side a huge crimson blot.

The decision was popular with the crowd that paid $68,000 to see the milling.

G. U. 2-Mile Relay Beaten; Elder Wins

Special to The Washington Post.

Newark, Feb. 10.—Notre Dame's 2-mile relay team tonight defeated the Georgetown University quartet for the second time within a week when it won the college relay event in the Seton Hall College field and track meet here. New York University finished third. Vic Burke, G. U.'s other entrant, failed to finish among the medal winners when he trailed Bernie McCafferty, Max Wakeley and Alex Wilson in the 500-yard invitation run.

The feature of the program was the work of Jack Elder, Notre Dame football star, who made a clean sweep of the sprint series. He won the 40, 50 and 60-yard events, with Bill Bruder, Newark Athletic Club, second.

SCOTT TAKES PUNISHMENT IN DRILL

English Star Boxes 8 Rounds; Sharkey Also Works.

By NED BROWN.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 10 (N. Y.W.N.S.).—Phil Scott certainly is settling down to the business of training for his 15-round joust with Jack Sharkey here next February 27. The English heavyweight champion boxed eight full rounds today, in addition to going through about four rounds of bag punching and calisthenic exercises.

Sharkey, too, did some boxing this afternoon, but the Boston gob confined himself to only three rounds of sparring, and a few rounds with the light and heavy punching bags. Both men looked pretty good with the gloves, especially Sharkey, who had one of his best and most strenuous glove sessions since he entered into the training grind.

Jack's generosity in throwing open his camp to Pierre Charles, the Belgian champion, and Moise Bouquillon, French champion, paid him dividends in sparring partners, for both of these fellows boxed a round each with the American title holder. Sharkey began his boxing with Johnny Grosso, who always gives him plenty of exercise. After this came Pierre Charles.

Sharkey Gives Charles Hard Punch.

This was a hot seance, hot for Charles. Sharkey caught Pierre one on the spare ribs and then tallied with his right to the head, the battler with the two front names then festooned himself over the most convenient rope and assumed a most home-sick expression.

Sharkey wasted no blows on Charles, making every sock count and he wasn't pulling his punches either. Charles came back hard, too, but in justice to the Belgian champion, it must be recorded that he was wearing 16-ounce gloves while Sharkey was sporting only 12-ounces.

Scott's eight rounds were only four real ones, for the first two pair were with Bill Middlekauff, the Florida

Meenan's Bandages To Be Removed Today

Definite effect of the eye injury of Harold Meenan, Georgetown University athlete, probably will be determined today when the bandages will be removed at the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital by Dr. Michael Francis Kennedy. Meenan's condition last night was expressed by his physician as being "favorable" with no change since last Saturday.

The injury, which threatens Meenan with loss of the sight in one eye, was caused by the playful tossing of a piece of pecan shell by a fellow student in a Georgetown dormitory last Thursday.

Minnesota Grid Posts To Crisler and Weiman

Minneapolis, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Appointment of Friz Crisler, of the University of Chicago, as head football coach at the University of Minnesota and Elton E. (Tad) Wieman as his first assistant was announced officially today by the board of regents.

Action of the regents was unanimous after they had listened to the recommendation of President Lotus D. Coffman. Crisler, assistant coach at Chicago, succeeds Dr. Clarence Spears, who resigned to become head coach at the University of Oregon.

Salaries to be paid Crisler and Wieman were not divulged. Dr. Coffman, after a long discussion of the appointees' qualifications, said: "I think there has been too much vulgar display of salaries in the press now."

Only one regent discussed the appointment after Dr. Coffman's report. He was Dr. William J. Mayo, of Rochester, who, after hearing Dr. Coffman's statement of qualification, remarked with a smile:

"I have listened to the wonderful qualifications of these men, which sound more like qalifications for the Noble prize than for a football coach."

NATS' CAMPS OFF BEATEN TRACK

May Regret Leaving Florida; Sam West to Wed Feb. 23.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHILE the storms, typhoons and tidal waves killed the Florida real estate boom, they did not affect the climate of ruary and March it holds undisputed the Alligator State and during Feb- claim to being the spring capital of baseball. Of the 32 clubs in four of the biggest leagues—the American, National, American Association and International—no less than 18 will condition their players for the coming season in the Sunshine State, while players from teams of several other smaller leagues also will do their spring training there.

Although the Nationals are leaving Florida this spring, after having done their early conditioning work at Tampa for a decade, they may regret their step and be found back in the Sunshine State next spring. Reports regarding Biloxi, where Manager Johnson will take his battery candidates on February 25, are to the effect that the climate in the Mississippi town is damp and not any too warm, while it also is said that Chattanooga, where the Nats will end their training, is likely to be little warmer than Washington.

Braves Nats' Only Preseason Major Foe.

President Clark Griffith already has found one objection to having the Washington Club train out of the beaten track—that with respect to booking exhibition games which, in a way, help to defray the preseason expenses. In arranging his spring schedule, the Nat owner was unable to hook up with a single major league club until ready to start home, when the Boston Braves will be their touring mates. Last spring, it will be remembered, except in the case of the Tampa Southeastern League Team, which was on the grounds, the Nats had practically a full Grape Fruit League card against major league clubs.

Outfielder Alvin (Jake) Powell, slugger extraordinary of the Takoma Tigers, whose work was outstanding in the Bi-County championship series, and who has been signed by the Washington Club, will be dined and feted by his mates next Monday night at the Takoma Masonic Hall. Manager Garrett Waters is now busily engaged lining up speech makers and talent for the entertainment end of the program.

Outfielder Sam West to Join Benedicts.

According to an Associated Press report from the wilds of Texas, Sam West, Washington flychaser, will take unto himself a wife on February 23. His engagement to Miss Grace Cross, of Rule, Tex., has just been announced.

Patent Office Rules Against Ruth In Firm's Plea to Use Star's Name

BABE RUTH has already lost a battle involving his income, only this time it does not involve his salary from the Yankees.

The patent office here has held that the trade name of "Babe Ruth's Own Candy" may not be registered, and William A. Kinnan, First Assistant Commissioner, has held that the notation "Ruth's Home Run" with the name "George H. 'Babe' Ruth," sought to be registered, is confusingly similar to "Baby Ruth," a trade mark on candy already registered.

Registration of the new trade name was sought by the George H. Ruth Candy Co., Inc., of which the ball player is an officer, according to the opinion. It is understood that the decision may precipitate a legal battle, with the plaintiffs maintaining that the noted home-run king has a clear right to use his own name on a product he is selling.

Army to Play Notre Dame At Chicago

Latter Asks Transfer to Avoid Coast-to-Coast Grid Trip.

Last New York Game Followed by Clash With City Heads.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—The Army-Notre Dame football game for 1930 will be played at Soldiers Field, Chicago, it was announced today. It had been scheduled, November 29, for Yankee Stadium, New York. The 1931 and 1932 games, already contracted for, are to be played in New York as usual, the announcement said.

The proposal to shift the site of the gridiron classic to the West for the first time came from the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, who discussed it at a conference with Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager, and Capt. L. M. (Biff) Jones, former head coach, of the Army.

President O'Donnell explained that his action was prompted by a desire to lighten the traveling schedule of the Notre Dame Eleven, which is scheduled to play Southern California at Los Angeles, December 6, the week after the date with Army, by playing in Chicago, the Hoosiers would lose less time from classes.

Army Was Reluctant To Shift Game.

Army officials previously had not looked with favor on taking the game away from New York, especially since it is the climax of the schedule and looked forward to anually as an event for the entire Cadet Corps.

Maj. Gen. William K. Smith, superintendent of the United States Military Academy, issued a statement outlining the Army's reasons for agreeing to the transfer.

"The Illinois game will be played at the Yankee Stadium on November 8," Maj. Gen. Smith said, "and this, aside from the prime factor of scholastic interference was one of the deciding points in consenting to the change in the place of the Notre Dame game.

"West Point recognizes the fact that New York City feels that it is the 'home town' of the Cadet Corps and through the custom of years standing, expects to see the cadets in action on one of its fields, a feeling which is reciprocated by the Army.

"Notre Dame has always been one of the Army's best friends and when Father O'Donnell laid the matter before us so urgently we could not refuse him this favor."

Agreement Claimed by Yankee Stadium.

The last Army-Notre Dame game here, with 80,000 watching Jack Elder sprint to the winning touchdown, was followed by some unpleasantness between West Point and New York City authorities. It grew out of a charge that the police failed to provide a sufficient escort for the cadet football squad en route to the stadium on the day of the game. This alleged discourtesy was denied by Police Commissioner Whalen, but the threat was made that the game might be moved away from New York, as a result. It was understood that at the bottom of the affair there was some dissatisfaction over distribution of tickets.

Although no formal contract for the use of the stadium has been signed, Secretary Barrow, of the Yankees, recently asserted an agreement for playing the 1930 game there existed. Barrow said he considered this agreement binding. The rental is understood to be $30,000.

Eagles Wipe Out Lead to Hand Foes 10th Straight Defeat.

Colison Is Leader in Attack; Cards Held to 4 Field Goals.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY basketball players outshouted their opponents of American University last night at the Massachusetts avenue court, but noise never won any ball game and it did'nt start to win them last night.

Refusing to be ruffed by the rough and tumble tacics of their opponents who resembled so many wild Indians, with a continual fire of commands, counter commands and entreaties for the ball, the Eagles went about their work in a quiet and determined way and methodically outscored their Brookland rivals, 21 to 15, marking the second time this season that Coach Walter Young's charges have beaten Catholic University and marking also the latter's tenth consecutive basket ball defeat.

Seeing the game slip out of their grasp, the Cardinals resorted to desperate attempts in their eagerness to score points and so determined was little Joe Walsh that he incurred the wrath of Capt. "Red" Olsen, of the Eagles, in a battle of words. Before the two could clash physically, however, both had been sent to the sidelines by Referee Jack Faber. Several members of each team seemed about to take up the argument but were quickly prevented by more peaceful teammates.

Eagles Overcome Early Lead.

After a slow start which saw the Cardinals jump into a 7-4 lead on three fouls and a two-pointer which resulted when Walsh tapped one in after a brisk mix-up under the basket, the Eagles came to life and with Warren Colison, youthful forward, leading the way, overhauled their opponents by one point just one minute before the half ended. Colison scored once on a beautiful pot from the side and another time was left free under the basket, but his neatest play was when he held the ball at the sideline for Olsen to grab as he dashed past on his way for a "snowbird."

Colison again sprung into the limelight when he opened the second half by dribbling around an opponent to put his mates three points to the good and thereafter the Eagles were never threatened.

Cardinals Slump In Second Half.

The Cardinals failed to score a field goal in the second half until two minutes before the final whistle, when Hanley and Oliver both found the loop. That pair of double-deckers represented just one half of the Cardinals' sum contribution from the floor all evening, having made just two of the same variety during the first 20 minutes of play.

Fan Beaten by Wilson Enters $20,000 Suit

Chicago, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Hack Wilson, the pugnacious Cub outfielder, entered Chicago peacefully today only to be reminded by the law that one of his fistic outbursts may cost him $20,000 or almost as much as he is expected to get for knocking out home runs next season.

He was ordered to appear in Superior Court tomorrow morning to answer the $20,000 damage suit filed by Edward Young, a milkman, whom he attacked at Wrigley Field in 1928 for making insulting remarks to him as to his ability as a baseball player.

Young first sued for $50,000, naming the Cub management and Wilson as defendants. Today he filed an amended suit, asking $20,000 damages and naming only Wilson. Wilson stepped off the train and was served with the papers. Wilson appeared undisturbed by the suit.

"It'll be a surprise, though, if Young wins it," somebody suggested.

"It'll be a greater surprise if he collects it," Hack snapped back.

Son of Strong Woman Stops Hansen in Round

New York, Feb. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ted Sandwina, mighty son of Ma Sandwina, strong woman of Germany, knocked out Knute Hansen, the melancholy and lantern jawed Dane, in 1 minute 49 seconds at the St. Nicholas Arena here tonight. It was one of the most thrilling and spectacular fights that has been seen around here for some time, with the end coming after the sixth knock-down, and with Hansen's head resting against the lower rope in his own corner.

In a way it reminded some of the famous Dempsey-Firpo bout. As they came out of their corners, Hansen swung a left to the jaw that staggered Sandwina. It looked as if the Dane would win without any trouble as he landed with another right against the jaw. Sandwina then rushed Hansen against the ropes, he let fly a left that had plenty of power in it that landed against the lantern jaw of Mr. Hansen. He arose at the count of eight but was helpless. Sandwina scored four more knock-downs before putting over the finishing punch. Hansen weighed 218 and Sandwina 194½.

3 of Phillies Spurn Contracts, Is Report

Philadelphia, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Three members of the Philadelphia National League Club are reported to have returned their 1930 contracts unsigned. The club authorities refuse to confirm the reports, the club having adopted the same policy as the Philadelphia Athletics of not discussing player contracts.

The three members of the Phillies who are said to be dissatisfied with the figures mentioned in their contract are Frank "Lefty" O'Doul, National League batting champion; Chuck Klein, leading home run hitter of the league, and Pinkie Whitney, third baseman. All disclaim being "holdouts."

Greensboro, N. C., Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Wes Ferrell, Cleveland pitcher, has joined the ranks of holdouts. He admitted today he had returned two unsigned contracts. Ferrell winters here.

12 Players Unsigned By 2 New York Clubs

New York, Feb. 10 (A.P.).—Just one dozen of the 75 players on the rosters of the two New York baseball clubs remain unsigned to 1930 contracts. E. G. Barrow, the Spinx-like secretary of the Yankees, today broke a long silence to say that "all but four" of the Yankees are in the baseball fold. The identity of three of the recalcitrants remains in mystery, as only Babe Ruth, the well-known outfielder, is on record with his refusal to sign.

James J. Tierney, secretary of the Giants, announced that Melvin Ott, the boy wonder from Louisiana, and Bill Walker, left-handed pitcher of East St. Louis, Ill., had signed contracts leaving eight Giants unsigned. The players remaining to be heard from include Larry Benton and Jack Scott, pitchers; Bob O'Farrell, catcher; Bill Terry, Fred Lindstrom and Travis Jackson, infielders, and Ed Roush and Fred Leach, outfielders.

Loyola Is Outplayed From Start; G.U. in Lead at Half, 20-6.

Deliberate Offense of Chicagoans Foiled by Guarding.

By JACK ESPEY.

AN inspired Georgetown Five, playing almost perfect basket ball, subdued the famous Ramblers from Loyola University of Chicago, in one of the season's notable upsets last night at Tech High School Gymnasium. The Hilltoppers exceeded the fondest hopes of their most loyal supporters by outscoring the wonder team of the West, 34 to 23. More than 2,500 persons, the largest crowd that has watched a college basket ball game in the Capital in three years, looked on in amazement.

The proud owners of a streak of 34 successive victories, which, although broken two weeks previously, had established them strong favorites for this game, met more than their match in every department and never even threatened to win the decision.

The Hilltoppers outfought them, outplayed them and outsmarted them. They wrecked the Ramblers' highly touted zone defense, displayed far greater shooting proficiency and did a pretty good job of stopping the "unstoppable" Charley Murphy, Loyola's captain and leading scorer.

Dillon Stars in Absence Of Dutton.

Georgetown did all of this in spite of the absence of Don Dutton, its star forward and defensive ace, who was still on the ineligible list. Dutton's presence might have enabled Georgetown to win by a wider margin, which, of course, would have been needless.

Paul Dillon, who started the season as a substitute center, and Freddy Mesmer and Maurice McCarthy, a pair of "Scotch" guards, stood out in this surprising victory like lighthouses on a corner lot.

Dillon, it was, who put the brakes on the powerful scoring machinery of Murphy, a fact that is not shown in the box score. The blond Hilltop center held his more famous adversary to two field goals during the time he guarded him. In the meantime he sank seven goals, to win individual scoring honors. After Dillon went to the sidelines, one and one-half minutes before the end, Murphy connected twice from the field at the expense of a lesser experienced Hilltopper. He made three free tosses at other stages to give him a total of 11 points.

Mesmer Key Man in Fast Attack.

Mesmer, a midget in stature and a giant in ability, acted as the key man in Georgetown's passing attack, which combined speed, accuracy and deception. His crafty handling of the ball provided a problem that Loyola never was able to solve. In addition, he scored three field goals and four out of six charity chances, while limiting three Ramblers, who opposed him successively, to the insignificant total of 2 points.

For his part, Capt. McCarthy ably supported Mesmer in directing the G. U. passing, while also checking the scoring efforts of John Wasco, stellar Loyola forward. He scored a pair of fielders and a one-pointer on his own account.

Besides the zone defense, Loyola employed a blind passing attack, but its tricky moving of the ball gained compartively little in the face of a leechlike five-man defense used by Georgetown. Murphy proved an exceptionally clever passer, particularly on the block play, but after receiving his flips his mates could not penetrate to the basket.

The Hilltoppers, on the other hand, worked the ball through for almost half of their fourteen field goals. Dillon counted four times directly beneath the loop on passes from Mesmer, McCarthy and Morris. The last mentioned, with Bill Shea, were indispensable cogs in the winning machine, both often maneuvering their opponents out of the path that Dillon took to the basket.

The ultimate result was sensed as early as half-way through the first period when Georgetown led by seven points. After Murphy had caged a "snowbird" in the opening minute and Mesmer had holed a 25-footer,

CHAMPION TECH FIVE BOWS TO HYATTSVILLE HIGH

Maroon Five Bows, 26-24 In Upset

Tech Regulars Unable to Save Game in Final Stand.

Lewis Shoot Decides With Half Minute to Play.

TECH HIGH, recently crowned Washington champions, received an unexpected and startling setback at the Hyattsville National Guard Armory yesterday when Hyattsville High's Five scored a surprise 26-to-24 victory by a rally in the last three minutes of play. Until Hyattsville's spurt Tech was ahead throughout the game with the exception of a short time in the third quarter, when Hyattsville crept to the front, 15 to 14. The champions quickly regained their lead, however, and were not threatened again until the last minutes of play.

Then, with the score 24 to 20 in favor of the Washington team, Hurd and Evans tied the score for Hyattsville with successive double-deckers, the latter breaking away for a beautiful shot under the basket. With the score tied and half a minute to play, little Mink Lewis sent the Hyattsville rooters into bedlam when he cut loose with a shot from the middle of the court which sank through the cords, giving the home team the winning margin. Neither side was able to score again in the remaining 30

Tech's Regulars Play Part Time.

Although Tech's regular team did not play throughout the game, it was in the game from the start of the fourth period until the end, with the exception of Capt. Carl MacCartee who did not see action at all.

Until the last ten minutes of play, Tech followed a method whereby one regular was in the game with four reserves, 14 Maroon and Gray players taking part in the conflict. At the end, Russell, Lassise, Olverson, Talburtt, and Reichardt were on the floor for Tech.

The victory marked the second time of late that Hyattsville has beaten a District team, having recently knocked off Eastern High.

Along with his brother who scored the winning points, Stanley Lewis played a prominent part in the triumph for Hyattsville, four times scoring from the floor for a total of eight points. Johnson was the only Tech player able to score three times from the floor, sharing honors with Lassise who registered 6 points, two of them coming via the charity strip.

PURPLE 48-36 VICTIM OF EASTERN

Gonzaga Loses Grip Near End of Hard-Fought Game.

EASTERN HIGH'S courtmen stepped on the gas in the last three minutes of play yesterday at the Lincoln Park gymnasium to turn a nip-and-tuck game into a rout by scoring 13 points to turn back Gonzaga, 48 to 36 in a return game. In the previous meeting the Purple had been returned the victor.

Up until the final moments the game had been an exceptionally close one, neither team having been more than 3 points ahead at any time, and the lead having changed hands no less than twelve times during the afternoon. The numerous baskets that marked the play were made alternately by the rivals, with first one team and then the other boasting the lead.

Boasting a dangerously close lead of 35-34 with three minutes to play, Eastern took time out to make its final plans, and when action was resumed, began to make the points so fast that the Purple was never again in the running.

Barney Kane in Star Role.

Barney Kane, flashy forward, was the main spring of this closing whirlwind offense, twice racing down the floor to register a pair of valuable two-pointers. At the beginning of the spurt, Kane made his team's lead more secure by taking the ball from the tap and chalking up a basket, and a moment later, McCullough was found free under the basket to give his team a 5-point lead.

While the Purple was failing to tally again, Lyan, Shirley and Kane continued to place the game beyond their foes' reach, running wild against a Gonzaga team unable to stop them.

G. U. WINS 2 PLACES ON ALL-COLLEGE TRACK TEAM

A.A.U. Names Sexton and Kjellstrom

Hilltop's Weight and Hurdle Stars Given Recognition.

Simpson Selected for 100 and 220 Yard Dash Events.

LEO SEXTON and Erik Kjellstrom, Georgetown University athletes, have been awarded places on the 1929 all-America college track and field team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, and published in the latest issue of Spalding's athletic almanac.

Sexton, intercollegiate indoor 35-pound weight throw champion, was assigned the position in this event, while Kjellstrom was named as the 440-yard hurdler. Kjellstrom, a native of Sweden, now in his fourth year at Georgetown, won the 400-meter hurdles at the Penn relays last spring.

George Simpson, of Ohio State University, accredited with an American record of 9.4 seconds in the 100-yard dash—a mark made with the use of starting blocks and which eclipses the accepted world's record—was selected by Ferris for the 100 and 220 yard dash positions.

Three Stanford University athletes, members of the intercollegiate outdoor champion team, were selected—Harlow Rothert in the 16-pound shot, Eric Krenz in the discus throw and Leo Kibby in the javelin throw.

Following is the team:

100-yard run—George Simpson, Ohio State University.
220-yard run—George Simpson, Ohio State University.

GEORGETOWN WINS OVER LOYOLA FIVE

the home team went ahead for the remainder of the time. At the intermission, the score read Georgetown, 20; Loyola, 6.

A feeling on the part of the skeptical that the Chicagoans had played "under wraps" in the first half was soon dissipated when the Hilltoppers continued their hot pace in the first few minutes of the second chapter, increasing their lead to sixteen points. An ensuing spurt by Loyola narrowed the gap to ten points, but it never drew closer than that. Georgetown finished with a reserve cast.

Georgetown's freshmen defeated Benjamin Franklin's five, 25 to 16, in a preliminary.

Maroon Five Bows, 26-24 In Upset

Tech Regulars Unable to Save Game in Final Stand.

Lewis Shoot Decides With Half Minute to Play.

TECH HIGH, recently crowned Washington champions, received an unexpected and startling setback at the Hyattsville National Guard Armory yesterday when Hyattsville High's Five scored a surprise 26-to-24 victory by a rally in the last three minutes of play. Until Hyattsville's spurt Tech was ahead throughout the game with the exception of a short time in the third quarter, when Hyattsville crept to the front, 15 to 14. The champions quickly regained their lead, however, and were not threatened again until the last minutes of play.

Then, with the score 24 to 20 in favor of the Washington team, Hurd and Evans tied the score for Hyattsville with successive double-deckers, the latter breaking away for a beautiful shot under the basket. With the score tied and half a minute to play, little Mink Lewis sent the Hyattsville rooters into bedlam when he cut loose with a shot from the middle of the court which sank through the cords, giving the home team the winning margin. Neither side was able to score again in the remaining 30

Tech's Regulars Play Part Time.

Although Tech's regular team did not play throughout the game, it was in the game from the start of the fourth period until the end, with the exception of Capt. Carl MacCartee who did not see action at all.

Until the last ten minutes of play, Tech followed a method whereby one regular was in the game with four reserves, 14 Maroon and Gray players taking part in the conflict. At the end, Russell, Lassise, Olverson, Talburtt, and Reichardt were on the floor for Tech.

The victory marked the second time of late that Hyattsville has beaten a District team, having recently knocked off Eastern High.

Along with his brother who scored the winning points, Stanley Lewis played a prominent part in the triumph for Hyattsville, four times scoring from the floor for a total of eight points. Johnson was the only Tech player able to score three times from the floor, sharing honors with Lassise who registered 6 points, two of them coming via the charity strip.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOMMY TICKLE, $8.60, $5.40, $3.40; DAR FUR, $11.40, $5.70; COY, $3.80.

TOMMY TICKLE moved into a handy lead at once and, continuing well under good rating, held on gamely in the stretch to outfinish DAR FUR. The latter, far out of it, moved up fast after going a half mile and challenged stoutly through the stretch, but probably needed the race. COY raced forwardly on the inside all the way.

PURPLE 48-36 VICTIM OF EASTERN

Gonzaga Loses Grip Near End of Hard-Fought Game.

EASTERN HIGH'S courtmen stepped on the gas in the last three minutes of play yesterday at the Lincoln Park gymnasium to turn a nip-and-tuck game into a rout by scoring 13 points to turn back Gonzaga, 48 to 36 in a return game. In the previous meeting the Purple had been returned the victor.

Up until the final moments the game had been an exceptionally close one, neither team having been more than 3 points ahead at any time, and the lead having changed hands no less than twelve times during the afternoon. The numerous baskets that marked the play were made alternately by the rivals, with first one team and then the other boasting the lead.

Boasting a dangerously close lead of 35-34 with three minutes to play, Eastern took time out to make its final plans, and when action was resumed, began to make the points so fast that the Purple was never again in the running.

Barney Kane in Star Role.

Barney Kane, flashy forward, was the main spring of this closing whirlwind offense, twice racing down the floor to register a pair of valuable two-pointers. At the beginning of the spurt, Kane made his team's lead more secure by taking the ball from the tap and chalking up a basket, and a moment later, McCullough was found free under the basket to give his team a 5-point lead.

While the Purple was failing to tally again, Lyan, Shirley and Kane continued to place the game beyond their foes' reach, running wild against a Gonzaga team unable to stop them.

At half-time Gonzaga was in the lead, 17 to 16. Bussink with 11 points, led the losers, while Ryan and Kane tallied 25 points between them for the victors.

A.A.U. Names Sexton and Kjellstrom

Hilltop's Weight and Hurdle Stars Given Recognition.

Simpson Selected for 100 and 220 Yard Dash Events.

LEO SEXTON and Erik Kjellstrom, Georgetown University athletes, have been awarded places on the 1929 all-America college track and field team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, and published in the latest issue of Spalding's athletic almanac.

Sexton, intercollegiate indoor 35-pound weight throw champion, was assigned the position in this event, while Kjellstrom was named as the 440-yard hurdler. Kjellstrom, a native of Sweden, now in his fourth year at Georgetown, won the 400-meter hurdles at the Penn relays last spring.

George Simpson, of Ohio State University, accredited with an American record of 9.4 seconds in the 100-yard dash—a mark made with the use of starting blocks and which eclipses the accepted world's record—was selected by Ferris for the 100 and 220 yard dash positions.

Three Stanford University athletes, members of the intercollegiate outdoor champion team, were selected—Harlow Rothert in the 16-pound shot, Eric Krenz in the discus throw and Leo Kibby in the javelin throw.

Following is the team:

100-yard run—George Simpson, Ohio State University.

GEORGETOWN WINS OVER LOYOLA FIVE

the home team went ahead for the remainder of the time. At the intermission, the score read Georgetown, 20; Loyola, 6.

A feeling on the part of the skeptical that the Chicagoans had played "under wraps" in the first half was soon dissipated when the Hilltoppers continued their hot pace in the first few minutes of the second chapter, increasing their lead to sixteen points. An ensuing spurt by Loyola narrowed the gap to ten points, but it never drew closer than that. Georgetown finished with a reserve cast.

Georgetown's freshmen defeated Benjamin Franklin's five, 25 to 16, in a preliminary.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TO SEE OURSELVES AS——

DR. F. J. LEWIS, of Detroit, has discovered a way to break a child from thumbsucking, according to Arthur Brisbane. The Lewis method is simple and requires no equipment and no drugs. It consists in having a child stand before a mirror sucking his thumb for a definite time twice daily. The theory is that a child can break himself of this habit if he will, and he will do so whenever sucking of the thumb causes enough displeasure to overmatch the pleasure it gives.

Children suck their thumbs because they have a great urge, and yielding gives them pleasure. The urge is perhaps the most fundamental of all the basic instincts. About the next thing a new-born baby does after having a good cry is to suck whatever comes handy. He soon learns that nothing is so ever present and so conveniently accessible as his hand. A little later he limits himself to some one part, generally a thumb.

When he arrives at an age when he has some intelligence and character and has become teachable, the mother attempts to make him understand that he is not to suck his thumb because it is babyish and harmful as well. But she generally fails to get her message across.

Dr. Lewis has found that lecturing him, followed by posing him in front of a mirror, makes him see the point. It appeals to his shame. As Pawlow would say, it conditions the act of sucking the thumb. It arouses enough displeasure to vaccinate him against the pleasure.

Recognition of the power of self-control, of even small children, seems to be in the air. Dr. Hammill has recently reported observations that show that almost any child can break himself of the habit of bedwetting. The treatment he uses to break children of this habit is based on the same principle used by Dr. Lewis in breaking children of the habit of thumbsucking. He finds some way to make the child genuinely want to stop bedwetting. He pits the desire to stop against whatever open or hidden, immediate or remote, has made him continue. Then comes the tug of war. Normal children have the will power to win the fight against the habit.

PAST-THE-SEVENTY-MARK.

Past-the-Seventy-Mark writes:

1. Is there any known remedy for hernia in liquid or other material outwardly applied?
2. What effect would borax and alum in water have on hernia, applied by dampened cloth?
3. Does the skin absorb any applied material, liquid or otherwise?
4. Does rubbing turpentine on skin affect the odor of kidney fluid?
5. Is asparagus healthful or harmful?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. None.
3. Practically none.
4. I doubt if enough would absorb.
5. Asparagus is a good food. It is neither harmful nor especially helpful.

LUMP ON ANKLE BONE.

Mrs. J. A. C. writes: What causes a small lump of soft flesh at the side of the ankle bone? This bothers quite a bit when standing for a long time.

REPLY.

I wonder if you have a mild inflammation of the ankle joint, the puff being due to fluid in the joint or in a nearby bursa?

ALLEGED RACKETEER PAIR APPREHENDED IN CHEST SWINDLE

Man and Woman Arrested by Detectives After Investigation.

PRISONERS ARE HELD INCOMMUNICADO HERE

Police Set Trap for Suspect and Take Her in Custody With Companion.

Two alleged "Community Chest racketeers" whose operations are believed by police to have been rather extensive in the southeast and northeast sections of the city, have been in police custody more than 36 hours while Detective Sergts. Steve Brodie and Frank Varney investigate their record here during the last month.

They gave their names as Joseph Gilbert McCarthy, alias "McCusty," 32 years old, and Mrs. Blanche McCarthy, 21 years old. They gave their address as that of a rooming house on Eleventh street near N street northwest.

Both are being held incommunicado on a technical charge of investigation, though the arresting officers say a number of charges will be presented against them. Five instances in which money for the Community Chest is said to have been collected on the strength of alleged bogus credentials, are pending.

Man Arrested Sunday.

McCarthy was arrested early Saturday morning when Detectives Brodie and Varney planned a trap for him. He is alleged to have taken the bill from a mail box, and is said to have presented the bill to the lady for whom it had been intended. She became suspicious and asked him to call the next day for the money. In the meantime, she sent word to the banking firm that sent the bill and the bank notified the police.

When McCarthy visited the woman the next day, he was handed a $10 marked bill by her, and was then immediately arrested by the detectives who had been concealed in the apartment.

A subsequent investigation led to the uncovering of the "charity racket." Mrs. McCarthy accompanied the police on a tour of the city and pointed out five places where money is alleged to have been solicited.

Places Are Named.

These places were L. E. Lewis, near Eighteenth and A streets southeast; Francis Bradley, Lawrence street, near Thirteenth street northeast, and Jennis Wilson, of Thirteenth street, near A street northeast. Only small sums were obtained, police said.

Police do not believe the alleged fraudulent collections were widespread. They are of the opinion that McCarthy found his position as a bill collector for a firm in the bank building at Fourteenth and H streets northwest not so remunerative and that he adopted the "Community Chest" idea as a side line.

Mrs. McCarthy was arrested late Sunday night after detectives had lain in wait for her for 20 hours. A letter sent by McCarthy from his cell at the Third Precinct to his wife at the Eleventh street rooming house, is being held by police as evidence.

Truck Driver Escapes As Bullet Breaks Glass

Osiner J. Wood, a truck driver for the Chevy Chase Dairy, escaped injury about 5 o'clock yesterday morning on Bowen road near Stanton road southeast when a bullet shattered the glass windshield of the machine, according to his report to Eleventh Precinct police.

Wood reported that he was driving slowly along the street and that the shot suddenly rang out, although he observed no one on the thoroughfare at the time.

Sculptor Attacks Blackmail Charge

Noble Says in Abatement Appeal That Similar Pleas Were Filed.

W. Clarke Noble, sculptor, and his wife, Mrs. Emily Noble, who were indicted last month by the District grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to blackmail Capt. and Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, prominent Washingtonians, yesterday filed pleas in abatement, attacking the indictment on the grounds that have been charged in similar pleas previously filed.

The Nobles and Anna M. Hillenbrandt, James F. Bird, an attorney, and Stephen Armstrong, jr., were indicted several months ago on a similar charge. Armstrong, however, attacked the validity of the indictment on the ground that a woman member of the jury was a pensioner of the Government, and as a result the case was resubmitted.

In their plea in abatement the Nobles charge that the seal of the jury box was not broken publicly, that unauthorized persons were in the jury room when the present indictment was returned, that the United States attorney's office investigated selected members of the body after they had been chosen, and that Justice Peyton Gordon conferred with Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw during the selection of the inquisitorial body.

Historic Articles On Auction Block

Furnishings Used in Rooms of Henry Clay and Others for Sale.

The old National Hotel, which is to be razed to make room for the new Federal building program, is putting up a last bold front. Furnishings in the rooms once occupied by Henry Clay, John Wilkes Booth and other historical figures are being sold at auction.

The famous hostelry on lower Pennsylvania avenue is expected to be thronged with bargain hunters during the next few days. Mirrors, tables and chairs of a bygone age predominate among the articles to be sold. The room where Clay died 75 years ago is open for inspection. It contains several interesting pieces of furniture.

Booth's room will also be on display. Suites occupied by nearly every President from the Civil War period until 1890 are awaiting the attention of the auctioneers and bidders. The hotel was the best in Washington until the old Willard was rebuilt 30 years ago.

REMEDIES ARE CITED IN REALTY MARKET

National Association Heads Tell Joint Meeting of Boards Their View.

IDEAS ARE NECESSARY

Ideas, creative and illustrative selling are remedies for present real estate ills, A. John Berge, Chicago, and Guy W. Ellis, Detroit, officials of the National Association of Real State Boards told more than 300 Washington and Baltimore realtors last night in a major sales demonstration conducted at Wardman Park Hotel.

Reminding his audience that the stock market's plunge did not mean immediate betterment of real estate conditions, Mr. Berge, sales counsellor of the national association, reassured it by saying people will listen more readily to advantages of real estate investment as a result and that the brains and money the market drew from real estate will come back to it.

Predicting a great deal of real estate would be sold this year, he emphasized, nevertheless, it would be harder to sell because woeful experiences in both stock and realty ventures had left investors in skeptical frame of mind and now the real estate buyer demands proof of the worth of his purchase.

The task is not insurmountable, however, he added. Citing research statistics showing that 50 per cent of business properties are in disadvantageous locations, Mr. Berge pictured a great opportunity for increased business here and elsewhere through selling suitable locations to new prospects or those wrongly placed.

Visual selling, by clear, concise maps, charts, graphs or brochures prepared from honest, scientific and thorough research will go far in furthering the foregoing idea, according to Mr. Ellis, a past president of the Detroit Real Estate Board and active in educational work of the national association. More faith in the business was urged by both speakers.

Blind Wife Sues Convict Husband

Ruth Kanode Acton Says Her Age Was Given Wrongly at Time.

Franklin Harry Acton, who is now serving a seven-year term at Leavenworth on a charge of perjury in connection with the procurement of a marriage license in the District of Columbia, yesterday was sued for annulment of marriage by his blind wife, Ruth Kanode Acton, on the grounds that the ceremony is void because her age was misrepresented.

The wife, who says she was only 15 August 20, 1928, when she was married, brings the action through her next friend, Frances M. C. Bird, whose address is given as the Women's Bureau of the Police Department.

The petitioner tells the court that she and Acton first went to Alexandria to get married but were refused a license. Then they returned to Washington to get the license. She declares that Acton gave her age as 18 and that after he obtained the license, they were married. Immediately afterward, she asserts, they went to the home of her parents, where her mother, learning of her marriage, refused to permit her to accompany the bridegroom.

It is pointed out that the girl did not have the consent of her parents to marry, and that under the District law, the marriage is void since she was not of age. Attorney Nita S. Hinman appears for the wife.

NEW REFRIGERATION CODE UNDER ATTACK

Proposed Law in Opposition to Statute Already in Effect, Is Claim.

ENGINEERS HELD NEEDED

When Luella of Daily O'Currences fame next runs her vacuum cleaner she may have to employ the services of a licensed engineer to be law-abiding if contentions advanced at a hearing before the District Commissioners yesterday on the proposed new code governing artificial refrigeration are upheld.

The engineer's union naturally is interested in any new law on licensed engineers and John H. Lorsch, representing Engineers Union, Local No. 99, called attention of the District Commissioners to a law signed by former President Coolidge which provides that the operation of any machine driven by gas, steam or electricity shall be supervised by a licensed engineer.

He pointed out that the proposed District code governing installation and operation of automatic artificial refrigeration plants would allow certain of them to be operated without supervision of engineers. The plain inference was that the code was illegal because of the previous law enacted by Congress and signed by the President.

The hearing otherwise developed little of excitement and the new code is expected to be approved by the Commissioners without material change. Decision of the Commissioners formally to promulgate it as law will be delayed pending receipt and consideration of briefs.

Man's Toe Is Fractured When Bus Runs Over It

William Nelson White, 59 years old, of the Central Union Mission, 613 C street northwest, received a fracture of the left big toe and bruises of the left leg when the wheel of a bus ran over his foot about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

White was standing at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, when the bus—of the Washington Rapid Transit Line and operated by Elan B. Hayden, of 1135 Fourth street northwest—came around the corner. White was starting to cross the street and was in the act of putting his left foot forward when the bus ran over it. He was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Citizen Group Asks For More Justices

Kalorama Meeting Hears Address on Taxes by Spencer Gordon.

A resolution favoring the appointment of as many additional justices to the District Supreme Court as is necessary adequately to carry on business, was adopted at a regular meeting of the Kalorama Citizens Association in Saint Margaret's Parish House last night.

A motion was also made to indorse Judge Wendell Stafford to fill the vacancy of chief justice of the District Supreme Court.

Spencer Gordon, speaker of the evening, addressed the association on "The Taxes We All Pay." Following his talk a motion that the tax committee make a report on the entire tax situation in the District and that the report be sent to the Federation of Citizens Associations, was adopted.

A motion to indorse Edward Hedge as a District Commissioner was tabled.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA awaited my home-coming fire in her eyes. I could smell the smoke of battle even before it started.

"You look worried, Luella——"

"Not half as worried as you'll look when I get through with you——"

"Get through with me? Is it that serious?"

"You know what I mean, breaking up a love affair——"

"What love affair?"

Luella commanded me to sit down. I did. She stood before me like a sheriff guarding a prisoner.

"Now look here, You," she began. Whenever Luella says, "You," in that tone of voice, it's like a pile-driver falling on a tack.

"What have I done, Luella? I—— I——"

"What haven't you done?" she gasped, and proceeded to tell me. It seems her girl friend, Mary Jane, spent the entire afternoon bemoaning the loss of her boy friend, Roger who has taken up with a strawberry blonde.

"What have I got to do with that" I asked, as Luella told how she had to sooth Mary Jane's wounded heart. "Isn't Roger his own man?"

* * * * *

"NO, he isn't," flashed Luella "He's Mary Jane's man—or was, until you gave him away to another girl——"

"I gave him away? Luella!"

"You put him up to it," she declared, "when I asked you to give him some advice. He wouldn't have thought of such a thing except for you!"

Of all the charges; I put him up to it. I did nothing of the kind. Luella asked me to take Roger to lunch and help patch up the busted romance. While there, at the Hovel, he vamped some redhead, or she vamped him, and I lost them in traffic.

"Now Mary Jane blames it all on me," sighed Luella, breaking down, beginning to cry, "and all because I've got such a stupid husband."

Swallowing the insult, I tried to sooth her.

"There, there, Luella, it'll all come out in the wash. I'm afraid, though, you made a mistake telling Mary Jane about the blonde——"

She flew at me. "I didn't tell her," she screamed. "I didn't have to tell her! That fool Roger walked the blonde up and down the street here all afternoon——"

So that was it. It took a load off my shoulders.

"If he did that," I smiled, relieved, "Mary Jane surely can't blame us——"

"She can't, can't she? Well, she does—and she has a perfect right, too. I promised her I could fix it beautifully. Then you went and spoiled everything. You . % & ' @ ? . . .!"

* * * * *

SHE rattled on like a machine gun till her tongue got tired and we sat the rest of the evening in silence. Over the radio some throaty tenor was singing "Home, Sweet Home." There's no place like it.

POLICE FIND TRAIL OF THREE BANDITS IN TROLLEY HOLDUP

Good Descriptions Given of Two in $1,493 Street Car Robbery.

BLACK BAG OF THIEVES IS FOUND IN VIRGINIA

Driver of Taxicab Stolen by Trio Gives Information to Authorities.

Furnished with accurate descriptions of two of the three men who held up a street car in Chevy Chase, Md., and stole $1,493 from the motorman early yesterday morning, police of Washington and three States were reported to be hot on the trail of the fleeing trio last night.

The street car, operated by the Capital Traction Co., was robbed when it reached Connecticut avenue and Thornapple street by two of the young men who had just boarded the car. The money stolen was in a small black leather bag, and represented the Sunday receipts of the line and an employes saving fund.

The little black bag was found in a wooded tract near a road at Woodridge, Va., yesterday afternoon. The discovery was made by W. N. Hampton, of Lorton, Va. The bag was empty.

Stolen Taxi Is Clew.

An important link in the hold-up was the use of a taxicab stolen from Wilbur A. Jordan, colored, employed by the United Car Co., of 601 Third street southwest. The cab was recovered yesterday in the 5800 block of Chevy Chase Parkway, where it had been abandoned by the thieves.

Jordan told police that two men hired his car at the taxicab offices about 4:30 o'clock yesterday morning and told him to drive to Chevy Chase Circle. Reaching the circle, Jordan was informed by his fares that he was under their command. A gun was produced. The third member of the gang entered the car.

Jordan was ordered to drive out Connecticut avenue to Calhouns Woods. Here, Jordan was tied to a tree, gagged, given a drink of whisky and left by the bandits, who drove off in the taxicab. Jordan was found several hours later by Richard Ellis and Preston Davis, two colored men, on their way to work. He was half frozen.

Street Car Is Boarded.

Here the thread picks up at the point where the street car was boarded by two of the men. One of the men held up C. I. Johnson, 1229 Sixth street southwest, conductor on the car, while the other tackled T. D. Mangum, of 919 M street southwest, the motorman. Mangum had the leather bag, containing the money on the floor at his feet.

The third bandit, driving the stolen taxicab, had trailed the street car. After the robbery, the two who had staged the hold-up jumped from the street car, into the taxicab. The car sped off in the direction of Washington.

Police believe that the trio had another car hidden, and that this machine was used after the stolen car was abandoned. Maryland and Virginia authorities have followed the trail of the car to the point where the bag was abandoned, and police of other States have been advised to be on the lookout for the machine.

Jordan Gives Descriptions.

Jordan was able to give descriptions of the two men who hired the car, but was vague about the third member of the gang. One of the men is described as wearing a light gray overcoat and cap, appeared about 25 years of age and weighed about 150 pounds, being 5 feet 6 inches in height. He was nervous, Jordan said.

The other wore a light felt hat and a blue overcoat, was about 5 feet 9 inches in height and appeared to be about 25 years old. Jordan said the third man was older and appeared to be the leader.

RESTRAINING ORDER ON TAXI INDEMNITY RULING IS GRANTED

Temporary Injunction Issued by Justice Against Utilities Board.

MOTION TO DISMISS ACTION IS OVERRULED

Commission Counsel Plan to Go to Court of Appeals at Once.

Efforts of the District to force owners of taxicabs to furnish security to indemnify fares and pedestrians who might be injured in the operation of the vehicle met their first setback yesterday when Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court, granted a temporary injunction restraining the Public Utilities Commission from putting into effect the rule, which was to have become effective on February 1.

The decision was handed down in the suit for injunction brought recently by F. B. Smith, owner and operator of a taxicab, against the Utilities Commission. Argument was held recently on a motion to dismiss the suit, filed by corporation counsel on behalf of the Utilities Commission, and it was in this connection that the justice ruled. In addition to granting the temporary injunction, Justice Wheat overruled the motion to dismiss.

Inability to Bear Expense Cited.

Justice Wheat points out Smith alleges he is financially unable to file the statement showing his ability to pay in case of accident or a security bond and that if he were forced to insure his cab against accident he would be put to great expense and his means of livelihood seriously impaired.

Justice Wheat further points out that Smith's bill challenges the validity of the commission order requiring such security "upon the ground that the act of Congress did not confer upon the commission power to make it." The justice asserts that the power of the Commissioners was contested in the Harlan vs. Bell case and that the same contentions were made then as were made in the Smith case.

In that case, according to Justice Wheat, the late Justice James F. Smith ruled: "As Congress did not authorize either the Public Utilities Commission or the Commissioners of the District to enact by ordinance regulation or in any other way the giving of bonds or indemnity insurance by automobile carriors or passengers, the orders of the Public Utilities Commission requiring the furnishing of such bonds and indemnity insurance are void and of no effect."

Appeal to Be Taken.

Appeal from the decision of Justice Wheat will be taken immediately to the District Court of Appeals, Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel, said after a conference with William W. Bride, corporation counsel, and members of the Public Utilities Commission.

Pendng final decision of the authority of the commission to enforce the liability guarantee provisions of its new regulations, commission officials said they would make no further effort to compel taxicab operators to comply with that section of the regulations. The commission, however, plans to proceed with enforcement of the other provisions.

$10,000 Slander Suit Instituted by Grocer

Gus A. Fick, of 2473 Eighteenth street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against William Hine, of 1420 Seventh street northwest, seeking to collect $10,000 for alleged slander.

Fick, who states he is a manager of a fish, meat and grocery store, alleges that he was damaged in good name, fame and credit by remarks which the defendant is said to have made relative to the delivery of goods to the plaintiff's home. Attorney James Shenos appears for the plaintiff.

Oldest Policeman to Quit Force With 46-Year Record

John Boland Recalls Days When Precincts Covered Much Wider Area.

John Boland, Washington's oldest guardian of the law both in point of service and in age, will be retired on March 16 with a record of 46 years, 8 months, and 16 days of continuous duty in the blue of the Metropolitan Police Department. Mr. Boland is truly the dean of the Washington department, as his appointment on July 1 1883, antedates the natal day of two-thirds of the force.

Born in Ithaca, N. Y., on August 5, 1852, Mr. Boland learned the stone-cutting trade, but after attaining his majority he became imbued with a wanderlust that carried him into practically every State of the Union and finally into the Second Artillery Corps of the Army.

After serving a four-year hitch at Fortress Monroe, Va., and receiving his honorable discharge, Mr. Boland came to Washington, where he has lived ever since. The stone-cutting trade being "slack" at that time, Mr. Boland filed an application with the Police Department and received his appointment effective July 1, 1883.

Harking back almost a half century, Mr. Boland recalled that Mackey Dye was the chief of the department at the time of his appointment and that Richard Sylvester, later the major and superintendent, was the chief clerk. He was assigned to duty in what was then Seventh Precinct, now the Sixth, under Lieut. Edward Kelly, father of the present Lieut. Edward Kelly, head of the homicide squad.

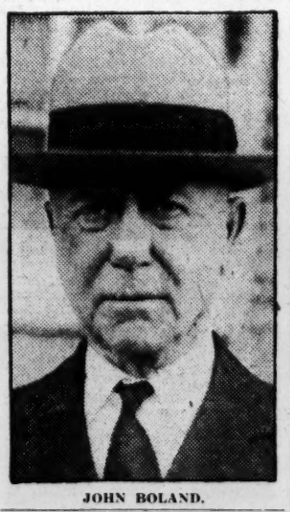
Headquarters of the Sixth Precinct, when Mr. Boland joined the force, were at First and P streets northwest. He was later transferred to mounted duty in the Fifth, and subsequently to the Third, Eighth and Tenth, of which latter command he is now a member. When the Tenth Precinct was created on August 1, 1901, Mr. Boland was assigned to duty in the new precinct and has been there ever since, although for the last ten years he has been detailed at the Police Court.

Mr. Boland will leave the department with a number of commendations on his record card. Chief among them was his capture, single-handed, of "Guinea" Lancaster, who shot to death Policeman John Fowler, on September 8, 1884. Mr. Boland trailed Lancaster to the house at 311 D street northwest, where he found the fugitive hiding under a bed.

"Policing in those days was a man's size job," said Mr. Boland. "The Sixth Precinct extended as far east as Fifteenth and H streets northeast, and as we had no patrol wagon it was some job to take a prisoner from the old toll gate to First and F streets northwest, and all the more so if he happened to be an obstreperous drunk."

Despite the fact that he has passed his seventy-eighth milestone, Mr. Boland gives every appearance in his look and actions of a man 20 years younger.

Asked as to his future plans, Mr. Boland replied, "Guess I'll do like all the rest of my old-time buddies—play a little pinochle, do a little fishing, but mostly lead the life of Riley." Mr. Boland has but one regret in leaving the department. He thinks that Maj. Pratt could at least have made his retirement effective March 17, and not 16.



JOHN BOLAND.

Policeman Is Charged With Robbing Woman

W. D. Davis, of Traffic Bureau, Held Under $3,000 Bond.

Policeman W. D. Davis, of the Traffic Bureau, was ordered held for the grand jury under $3,000 bond on a robbery charge yesterday when arraigned in Police Court before Judge John P. McMahon. The policeman also was ordered held under $500 bond to await jury trial on a charge of possession of liquor.

Two alleged companions of the policeman—Raymond C. Conrad and Edward S. Johnson—also were held for action of the grand jury. Both were placed under $2,000 bonds on robbery charges, while Johnson also was assessed a similar bond to answer a charge of transporting liquor last November.

Party Was in Progress.

Davis, Conrad and Johnson are alleged to have forced their way into the apartment of Mrs. Marion P. Jacobs, on Rhode Island avenue northwest, near Thirteenth street, early yesterday morning while a party was said to be in progress.

According to testimony of Mrs. Jacobs, she was in a rear room counting some money when Marie Rego, one of her guests, came in and warned her that a man with a pistol had entered the apartment. Mrs. Jacobs declared that in her haste and excitement she dropped her pocketbook Miss Rego, she said, threw the purse into a closet and locked the door. Mrs. Jacobs said she then went to the front of the apartment, not realizing that she held $50 in her hands. When she reached that portion of the establishment, she stated, she encountered Policeman Davis, who, with drawn gun, snatched the money from her hands. Later, Mrs. Jacobs, testified, she managed to call for the police.

PATROLMAN W. D. DAVIS.

Another guest, Gloria Gordon, substantiated the testimony given by Mrs. Jacobs.

Second Precinct police, who responded, declared that they found the three men in the apartment, but found no guns and very little money on any of them. Davis' pistol, unloaded, was said to have been found on a chair, while the cartridges were in his pocket.

Davis, according to the arresting policemen, threatened them when they discovered his police badge.

FORMER POLICEMAN AGAIN TRIES SUICIDE

Apartment Maid Foils Third Attempt on Own Life by Claude Ezell.

HUNG SELF WITH BELT

Former Policeman Claude Ezell yesterday failed for the third time in a suicide attempt. A colored maid in apartment 402 of the Plaza Apartments, Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-second street, found him dangling from an improvised noose in the bathroom of the suite.

Marie Turner, the maid, entered the bathroom and discovered Ezell, partly clothed, hanging from a belt which had been strung over an electric chandelier. A man who gave his name as Benjamin J. Walton, who was in the apartment, cut the noose and notified police.

Homeless and Hungry.

Walton, who is a friend of the lessees of the apartment, said Ezell, who was well known to them, came to the place three days ago. At that time Ezell said he was homeless and had not eaten for three days. According to Walton, he had remained with the lessees since that time.

Early yesterday afternoon, the woman who rents the apartment, whose identity is not known, left the place to go to a doctor's. Ezell, the maid says, then went to the bathroom and had been there for twenty minutes when she discovered him. Several others were in the apartment at the time, including a Mr. and Mrs. Soloff, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Attempted Death Before.

The fire rescue squad responded, as well as an ambulance from Emergency Hospital. Dr. H. M. Lowden, of Emergency Hospital, ordered Ezell's removal to Gallinger Hospital, where he will be held for observation.

Two months ago Ezell attempted to strangle himself in a cell in the First Precinct. The attempt was frustrated by attendants. On another occasion, according to police, he has tried to end his life.

Walton says Ezell had been estranged from his wife for some time. Prior to his dismissal from the force he had been attached to the Third Precinct. More than an hour after the occurrence yesterday police at the Third Precinct expressed utter ignorance of the affair, although three of the policemen from that precinct had been detailed to the apartment and had returned.

FOUR LADS HONORED FOR DEEDS OF VALOR

Young Quartet Decorated by Stanton Park Citizens Association.

CROSBY CHOICE FLAYED

Four future Washington citizens—all in their 'teens and still attendants of the graded schools, were honored and decorated by the Stanton Park Citizens Association last night at the regular monthly meeting of the association held in the Peabody School.

Earl Wheeler, captain of the Peabody School patrol; Capt. Richard Hay, of the Hilton; Benjamin Mitchell, of Carbery, and Sam Desimone, of Hilton, were presented with medals emblematic of valor displayed as members of the school patrol.

Young Wheeler was decorated for risking his life in saving that of Keith Williams. The little Keith child was snatched from death when Earl pulled him from in front of the oncoming automobile of a police captain. Richard Hay saved William Heck, another youngster, from an almost similar fate.

For halting a well known major who was blindly walking into the path of a stream of automobiles while reading a magazine, Sam Desimone was awarded a medal, as was Benjamin Mitchell for carrying an unknown child to safety after it had fallen in front of an automobile.

The proposed increase of pay for police and firemen was favored.

A resolution opposing the appropriation of $300,000 for a wholesale farmers' market to be located in the Southwest section of the city was drafted and ordered sent to the District committees in the Senate and House.

The association also went on record as opposing the appointment of Gen. Crosby as a District Commissioner.

Merger Discussed By Citizens Group

Plans for Consolidation of Takoma and Takoma Park Associations Aired.

Plans for the consolidation of the Takoma Park and Takoma Citizens Associations were discussed at length during the meeting last night of the former organization at Mount Pleasant Library, but action was deferred until the next meeting.

The associations formerly were united, but later separated when a controversy arose over the right of the Maryland members, now composing the Takoma Park Association, to be active members.

Among other matters discussed at the meeting were methods for insuring safety to pedestrians of both the Takoma Park and downtown Washington districts. The association adopted a resolution commending the Takoma Park Players for their dramatic performances during the last two weeks. John Walker presided at the meeting.

$388 Stolen From Store.

Thieves, apparently familiar with the combination of a safe at the American Store, 2008 Rhode Island avenue northeast, removed $388 from the establishment Sunday night or early yesterday morning.

Thieves Rob Oil Company.

Cigarettes, cash and groceries, aggregating $44, were stolen from the Korman Oil Co., of 1832 E street northwest, John J. Freeman, manager of the company, reported.

NAMING OF CROSBY OPPOSED BY THREE CITIZENS' GROUPS

One Association Approves Selection of General as Commissioner.

HURLEY DEFENDS HOOVER'S CHOICE

President of Central Labor Union Asked to Attend Protest Meeting.

Additional impetus to the rising storm of protest against the proposed appointment of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as a civilian member of the District Board of Commissioners was given last night when three citizens' associations opposed the President's selection and one approved it.

The Northeast Citizens Association expressed itself as being unalterably opposed to the appointment of a military man, either active or retired, to the commission, at its meeting in the Ludlow School, Sixth and G streets northeast.

The association demanded strict adherence to the provisions of the organic act relative to the appointment of commissioners, and a copy of its resolution is to be sent to President Hoover and the District of Columbia Senate committee. The Stanton Park Citizens Association registered a similar protest at its meeting in the Peabody School, Fifth and C streets northeast.

Piney Branch Opposes.

In an action covering both the impending Crosby appointment and the Jones bill to change the requirements for the commissioners by eliminating the bona fide resident provision, the Piney Branch Citizens Association meeting at the Hamline M. E. Church, Sixteenth and Allison streets northwest, adopted a resolution opposing any change in the organic law governing the appointment of District Commissioners. The Jones bill was likewise disapproved by the Northeast association.

Approval of the impending appointment of Gen. Crosby was given by the Congress Heights Citizens Association at its meeting in the Baptist portable church in Congress Heights. This association is the first citizens' group to approve the appointment.

Hurley Defends Appointment.

Taking cognizance of the plans launched by Edward J. Murphy, president of the Board of Trade, for a united, city-wide protest against the appointment of a military man, Secretary of War Hurley yesterday issued a statement defending the President's selection of Gen Crosby as District Commissioner.

Secretary Hurley declared that Gen. Crosby, upon his retirement as chief of calvary on March 21, will be just as much a civilian and just as eligible for the post of Commissioner as if he were a Reserve officer or National Guard officer.

Meantime, officials at the White House made known the fact that for every protest against the selection of Crosby there have been twenty letters of indorsement.

Mentions Press Criticism.

"I am speaking on this subject," Secretary Hurley told reporters, "because some of the press comments reflect, perhaps unwittingly, upon the profession of soldier. They raise objections to the selection of Gen. Crosby on the ground of his military training. From the earliest times, society has again and again found many of its greatest leaders among men of military training and distinction.

"Military training instills leadership, discipline, unquestioned obedience to higher authority, the entire submergence of self in the interests of the common good. These qualities are as admirable in civil as in military officials."

Among those who had served in the regular Army and then attained distinction in public office Mr. Hurley said, were George Washington, James Monroe, Andrew Jackson, William H. Harrison, Zachary Taylor, U. S. Grant, Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee.

Labor Official to Attend.

President Murphy, of the Board of Trade, yesterday sent a special invitation to Howard Colvin, president of the Central Labor Union, to unite with other civic leaders at a conference tomorrow night in discussing ways and means of making a protest against the appointment of Gen. Crosby.

President Murphy contends that the appointment of two Army officers to a board of three Commissioners is carrying the idea of a carpet-bag government entirely too far.

Among those who have notified Mr. Murphy that they will attend the conference tomorrow night are Charles W. Darr, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, and Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Other Resolutions Made.

Other resolutions adopted by the Piney Branch Citizens Association asked for the substitution of electric for the gas lights along streets and alleys in the Sauls Addition of the Piney Branch section, and requested the erection of stop signs on all four corners at the intersection of Decatur and Fourteenth streets northwest.

The association also voted in favor of granting promotions to veteran firemen and policemen on their records, and authorized the appointment of a committee to investigate and recommend such men in the Thirteenth Precinct which the association should assist in obtaining promotions.

The Congress Heights group asked that matrons be provided in all elementary schools of the District and requested the Federation of Citizens Associations to continue active agitation for local suffrage. It protested the Zoning Commission's practice of allowing the Board of Trade to pass on purely local matters. Dr. Edward E. Richardson, president of the association, was nominated for membership on the citizens advisory committee.

Two Slightly Injured In Automobile Crash

An auto operated by Michael Hyman, 33 years old, of the 1000 block H street northwest, collided yesterday with the car of John W. Grover, 26, of 215 P street northwest. The accident occurred at the intersection of Third and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Miss Larry Wilson, 28, of 1416 S street southeast, who was a passenger in Grover's car, suffered a cut lip and lacerated left leg, while Hyman received a laceration of the left eye. Both were treatedd at the Emergency Hospital and later discharged.
